Rep. Nygaard moved that the Acting Chief Clerk appoint a committee of three to escort the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court to the rostrum, which motion prevailed, and the Acting Chief Clerk appointed as such committee Reps. Nygaard, Wolf, Link.

The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court was then escorted to the rostrum and administered the oath of office to the members present.

The Acting Chief Clerk announced that the next order of business would be the election of the Speaker.

Rep. Brown: Mr. Chief Clerk, Members of the 36th legislative assembly—We have just taken our oath of office to serve the people in this 36th legislative assembly and once we have taken that oath, we are in a responsible position of representing all the people of North Dakota.

The legislative process is a process whereby the elected representatives of the people try to have a meeting of the minds so the best benefit can come to all the people of the great state of North Dakota.

Under the organization of this House of Representatives, it duly falls to the Speaker of the House of Representatives to keep decorum in this body and that individual must be one of integrity and one of a tolerant mind—he must be one with executive ability.

It is my privilege and an honor for me to present the name of the best qualified man that I know for this position of Speaker of the House of Representatives. He is Rep. Hjalmer Nygaard of Enderlin.

Rep. Nygaard is now serving his sixth term as a representative in this House, and I know that in those six terms he has distinguished himself above the great majority of those of us who have served with him in the legislature. In the first three terms he was assistant minority floor leader and in the past two sessions he has been the majority floorleader. Not only has he shown such great ability and great understanding of the needs of our state, that this body has on two occasions appointed him as a member of the Legislative Research Committee.

I am sure that every member who has ever served in this body with Hjalmer Nygaard, regardless of political affiliation, has left this hall with a deep and sincere love for this individual who has the human understanding of his fellowmen and who is always ready, alert and willing to help anyone who served in this body in the great cause of building North Dakota to become a bigger and better state so at this time, I deem it a great privilege and great honor to place in nomination the name of Hjalmer Nygaard for Speaker of the 36th legislative assembly.

Rep. Burk: It is indeed an honor to nominate a man for Speaker of the House who I have had the privilege of knowing since I came to Williams county some thirty years ago. He has the honor, the admiration and the respect of the many people who know him. His parents were one of the pioneer families of western North Dakota. They moved there in 1906 from Indiana, when young Clarence was a little boy only eight years of age. During his boyhood days he learned many of the hardships and the problems of the North Dakota farmers. Early in life he became interested in public affairs. We rightly judge a man in public life by the way the people in his own neighborhood think of him. The man who I am nominating served for fifteen years—fifteen consecutive years as treasurer of his local school district; he served for twenty-two years as township clerk; he has served for ten consecutive years as a county commissioner in Williams county—he was re-elected last fall for the fifth consecutive year as a member of this House. Each time he is re-elected it is by a greater majority than ever before.

Looking down through a long and useful career and taking an ever increasing interest in public affairs, he is one of eleven men that organized the REA in Williams county, which organization has done so much to improve the living standard of rural North Dakota. He is still a member of the Board of Directors of the Williams County REA. The man whom I am now asking you to name as Speaker has long taken a keen interest in the affairs of his community, for many years he has been a semi-professional ball player—and he has broad shoulders that assure you that he can bear the burdens of the speakership.

Members of this House, I nominate for Speaker, one of the outstanding citizens of North Dakota—my friend and colleague from my own county of Williams—the Hon. Clarence E. Poling.

Rep. Esterby: Members of the 36th Legislative Assembly; It is a privilege for me to second the name of Chief Poling. He is a personal friend of mine. I worked with him on many occasions on different boards and I feel that Chief Poling is the fairest and the best friend of the people that I know of, and in Williams county as already stated, he has taken part in many civic duties and the Chief would be fair as a Speaker and I am going to say that in all my association with him in the legislature, he has been one of the best side-kicks that I have ever had. It is my privilege, and I am proud, to present the name of Chief Poling for Speaker of this assembly.

Rep. Rolfsrud: Mr. Chief Clerk, North Dakota is an agricultural state and I believe that we should be ever mindful that some eighty percent of the income in North Dakota is derived from agriculture and I believe it is fitting and proper that some recognition should be given to those who have spent a lifetime on North Dakota farms and made a success of farming. As a neighbor and co-worker of our candidate for Speaker it is a privilege and honor for me to second the nomination of Clarence E. Poling as our candidate for Speaker of the House.

Rep. Van Sickle: Ladies and Gentlemen of this Assembly: It is certainly a privilege for me in a two-fold manner to second the nomination for Speaker. First because it is a representation of the feeling of the groups as we work here that my very good friend, Mr. Poling, will appreciate and understand that in the best thought of myself and without any limitation on my respect for him, it is necessary and advisable and in all things best for us and for our state, and it is in line with the great capacity of the man that we watched serve as majority floorleader and it is in keeping with the honor he deserves that he should be elected, and therefore I second the nomination of Hjalmer Nygaard.

Rep. Dick: It is an honor for me to stand here and second the nomination for Rep. Nygaard as our Speaker. I have served here two sessions and I know that sometimes I wondered how a man could be so fair and therefore I second the nomination of Hjalmer Nygaard.

Rep. Fitch: Mr. Chief Clerk, I too would like to second the nomination of Hjalmer Nygaard from Ransom county as Speaker of this House. I have served many sessions in this legislature and I know of no one who I would feel more privileged to vote for, for Speaker than Hjalmer Nygaard. He has done a wonderful job as many have said as floorleader, and I know he will do an excellent and commendable job for the state of North Dakota as Speaker of this assembly.

Rep. Einarson: It is a privilege to second the nomination of Hjalmer Nygaard as Speaker. I have worked with him ever since I came to the House several sessions ago and I think he has the first right to the speakership. I know, and all the rest of the members know, that he will be fair, and I therefore second the nomination.

Rep. Frank: I too wish to second the nomination of Hjalmer Nygaard. I have worked with him a number of years and I know that he is fair. Being that the Governor is from the 35th legislative district, I couldn't help but second the nomination of Hjalmer Nygaard.

Rep. Schuler moved that the nominations be closed and that the House proceed to ballot on candidates for Speaker, which motion prevailed.

Chief Justice Sathre administered the oath of office to the Speaker.

Speaker Nygaard:

It is with a great deal of pride that I stand before you, having been elected by this body to serve as your Speaker for the thirty-sixth session of the North Dakota House of Representatives.

It has been my great pleasure in the past to have served in other capacities, and having served in those capacities, with the fine cooperation of all of you people, I know that I am going to have your cooperation during these next sixty days. And it is the cooperation from you people that will make for my success as Speaker, as well as the success of this session.

We have before us, and will have before us, many very important problems which it will be our prerogative to solve. When we are working with, and trying to solve these problems, the sincerity with which we approach that task, will be the secret to its success.

We owe a great responsibility to the people of North Dakota who have elected us to our various positions and we should always be mindful of that responsibility. I know that there is going to be fine harmony and cooperation between the two political parties. There are many of you new members with whom I am not yet very well acquainted. As the days go by I will make an effort to visit with each of you as individuals, and I certainly would like to have each one of you, when you have a leisure moment, come in and call on me in the office, or anywhere else that you might meet me, and discuss your problems with me. After all there are 112 of you people and it is going to be difficult for me to get to each individual as rapidly as I may wish.

But again I say "Come and call on me when you have a problem"—and if it is within my power to help you in any manner, I will be very happy to do so. I want you all to feel that I, myself, feel a deep gratitude for the honor that has been given me by electing me as your Speaker today.

Thank you.

The Speaker announced that the next order of business would be the election of Chief Clerk:

Rep. Vinje: Mr. Speaker—it is a pleasure and privilege for me to address you by your new title. I wish you, as I know all the other members of this assembly, wish you, 60 days of profit to North Dakota.

The position of Chief Clerk is a very important position. It is one of the most important positions in this assembly. Those who have served here before realize the importance of having a man with experience and ability, and who is deserving. I am going to nominate a man who has all those qualifications. Furthermore, I don't think he needs any buildup from me, with the splendid record he produced last year—that is ample proof of his ability and capability and at this time I am very glad to nominate Jerry Stair for Chief Clerk.

Rep. Link: The minority of the House is not placing in nomination a candidate for the position of Chief Clerk of the House. I know the man who has been nominated will do an effective job and I am happy therefore to second the nomination of Gerald Stair as Chief Clerk.

Rep. Burk moved that the nominations be closed, which motion prevailed.

The Speaker announced that the next order of business would be the election of a Desk Reporter.

Rep. Fitch: Mr. Speaker, the lady I am about to present for the position of Desk Reporter is one about whom I could say a great many things but I will refer you to the House Journal, page nine for 1957 — 1955, I will have to skip as I was elected Speaker and could not nominate her, but on page 11 of the 1953 session and in the 1951 session, you will find that I nominated Ruth Smith for Desk Reporter and I have said everything that I could say in all these years, so I will just place her name in nomination.

Rep. Link: Mr. Speaker, I am doing a little spot-checking back in the House Journal and I also noticed who had been the prime mover of the nomination for our distinguished candidate here today.

I previously thought that this was one time I was going to beat Ken Fitch to the draw—However, the man who has had the privilege and done such a wonderful job in nominating such a fine and efficient employee as Ruth Smith has been, is entitled to have the opportunity of again placing her name in nomination.

All the things that have been said in favor of Ruth Smith, I would wish to endorse wholeheartedly. And it gives me a great deal of pleasure to second the nomination of Ruth Smith as Desk Reporter.

MESSAGE

To the Thirty-sixth Legislative Assembly and Biennial Report to the People of North Dakota:

INTRODUCTION

We are together for an observance that has taken place only thirty-six times since Statehood. We are assembled as the people's representatives in the highest tradition of American democracy for the purpose of uniting the effort which charts the course ahead for North Dakota.

I congratulate you on your election to this distinguished body of lawmakers. Your success is a personal tribute to your ability to be of service to your people and to our state. You have serious responsibilities to discharge your duty in a manner that will build North Dakota for the benefit and welfare of our citizens.

It is again my privilege as well as duty defined by our Constitution to make this second report on state affairs to you. Two years as your Governor has given me the opportunity to study the government as it is now constituted as well as discharge the responsibilities of this executive office. Out of this experience I am presenting to you a commentary of conditions in state government and recommendations for your earnest consideration.

It is historically known that governmental matters seldom yield to final settlement, so with changing times and in keeping with the progressiveness of our people there is a need to review, to modify, to amend, and to oftentimes adopt new ideas for the common good.

My first statement in this message is that there is no need for new taxes. North Dakota's financial position is excellent, and I believe with care and fiscal responsibility we can live within our anticipated income from existing taxes.

FISCAL POLICIES

Strong sentiment in our state commands that any unnecessary service be eliminated and efficiency in the spending of tax dollars is incumbent upon all of us. At the same time there is recognition that services in general administration, in education, and institutions should be of the highest standard commensurate with the ability of our state to pay.

It is with this guiding thought that the Budget Board prepared the Budget Report for this Legislature. Senator P. A. Foss and Representative Richard Thompson, State Auditor Olson, Budget Director Tinbo and the entire Board on a number of occasions inspected each school, institution and other state installations. Together we conscientiously reviewed the budget needs and submit for your guidance a realistic budget planned so operating costs and capital improvements stay within revenue estimations and at the same time permit improved standards and adjustments for inflationary costs.

Recognition was given to our schools of higher education by granting increases for salary adjustments and making provisions for all new positions requested to properly take care of anticipated increased enrollments. Recognizing the need for capital improvements at the colleges, $5,650,000.00 was designated for distribution to improve each one of the schools.

Another capital improvement costing $800,000.00 was recommended for a new cell house and enclosure for the penitentiary. If there are any doubts concerning the need for this, I strongly urge you to personally visit the institution and see firsthand the facilities now being used. Probably the strongest point to support this appropriation is the desirability to separate the younger inmates to provide maximum opportunities for rehabilitation that will restore to freedom better men resolved to remain law abiding citizens.

The recommendation for the building of a church at the Jamestown Hospital was approved. Patients manifest a great interest in spiritual guidance, and the strengthening of this faith within the patients is part of the treatment program. The initial request of $300,000.00 was reduced to $250,000.00.

The higher estimated balance of $10,900,448.00 in the General Fund on July 1, 1959, is accounted for by better tax collections due to favorable agricultural and economic conditions in North Dakota the past two years. It is estimated that $36,000,000.00 in various taxes will be paid into the General Fund during the ensuing biennium, which is extremely realistic as it is predicated on average collections over the past three years.

It is significant to know the initial budget requests were pared $8,126,561.00 so that total appropriations recommended out of the General Fund and Special Funds total $100,619,808.00.

Recommended appropriations out of the General Fund amount to $45,255,924.00 for the next biennium. The monies available for this are the estimated tax collections of $36,000,000.00 and the General Fund balance of $10,900,448.00 estimated for July 1, 1959, making a total of $46,900,448.00. On this basis there is estimated to be $1,655,525.00 in the General Fund balance on July 1, 1961.

In my estimation, this is a much lower anticipated General Fund balance than is practical for a business the size of the State of North Dakota. Unfavorable agricultural conditions would certainly have an adverse effect on these estimated tax collections. On the other hand, there is a need to provide the essential services and to initiate a progressive building program at the schools of higher learning which gives recognition to our confidence in the productive capacity of our people. I am hopeful this faith is justified.

No doubt other and new demands will be made for new programs and higher budgets than allowed in the report, but I urge this Legislature to adhere to the Budget Board recommendations except for changes justified by new information.

GOVERNMENT REORGANIZATION

The Legislative Research Committee will report to the Legislative Assembly on its studies and recommendations in several fields. One of these in particular deserves comment. At the direction of the Legislature, the research group gave further study to the 1942 Governmental Survey Report on reorganization of state government. This further study resulted in specific recommendations which I believe are sound and should receive favorable consideration by the Legislature. The office of Governor is charged with serious responsibility under our Constitution, yet authority is lacking in many fields. I urge that the Legislature consider early in the session the creation of a Department of Comptroller as outlined in the recommendations of the Legislative Research Committee report. The accompanying recommendations in this report relating to the reassignment of tax collection responsibilities and the office of the Auditor, I also find to be sound. However, in this connection, I urge the Legislature to enact legislation which will provide for an orderly transition in this regard, particularly to personnel involved.

I firmly believe that the operation of the State Government and its many agencies and departments has been good, but changing times make it imperative that the utmost value be received for each tax dollar collected and spent by the State. I have stated previously I do not foresee the need for additional state taxes, and I would like to emphasize that if we are to avoid the imposition of additional taxes, economy in government operations must be continually emphasized. The recommendations of the Legislative Research Committee which I have outlined above are firm steps in the right direction.

SECURITIES

During the past several years there has been in North Dakota a greater interest in the formation of new companies to conduct business in our state. It is now obvious that the State Examiner cannot, in addition to his regular duties, give part-time service to the authorization of new businesses and the follow-up regulatory service that is required today. This is a specialized business that requires more attention, and it is my recommendation that the minimum which must be done is the creation of a Securities Commissioner as a separate division or as a separate official in the State Examiner's office. It seems to me there can be efficiency, and certainly there will be economy, by keeping the Securities Commissioner in the office of State Examiner.

It is desirable for the Securities Commissioner to be an attorney, and it would be helpful if he were a securities analyst. For these reasons a salary must be established for the Commissioner so a man can be selected who has the necessary qualifications.

A special legislative research committee chaired by Senator Ralph Erickstad was appointed at my request to study our present securities laws and to make recommendations for changes that may be desirable. I know these findings will be helpful in making amendments to our present laws that will strengthen the statutes, provide better regulation, and be for the best interests of the people of North Dakota.

HIGHWAYS

In no field of postwar governmental endeavor have we made better progress than in the task of rebuilding and modernizing our highway system, and the past two years the accelerated constructing program has brought more improvement than in any previous two year history of our state. During the period of July 1, 1957 to December 1, 1958, the Highway Department has let to contract 1,235 miles of road improvement consisting of 148 miles Interstate, 506 miles Primary, and 581 miles Secondary, of which 912 miles have been completed. The program from December 1, 1958 to June 30, 1959 proposes to let to contract 125 miles of Interstate, 210 miles Primary, and 131 miles Secondary. In keeping with the policy of paying as we build, money will be available to match all Federal aid granted the State for this period.

If the highway construction program remains geared to Federal aid during the 1959-1961 biennium, $17,603,239.00 in state funds will be required to match $37,579,567.00 in Federal aid funds. An additional $15,282,000.00 in state funds will be required to meet administrative, maintenance, and other expenses during the biennium. Thus, this requires during the biennium ahead $32,885,239.00 of state funds if the construction program remains geared to Federal aid.

It is anticipated there will be an unencumbered surplus of $4,788,703.00 in state highway funds as of June 30, 1959. This surplus, together with the anticipated revenue of $30,711,000.00 for the 1959-1961 biennium, should provide an estimated $35,499,000.00 in state funds available during the biennium.

On these estimated calculations there should be approximately $2,600,000.00 in excess of requirements to match Federal aid. In addition to this the Legislature should appropriate $1,300,000.00 from the General Fund to the Highway Department representing transfers from the Collection and Land Department authorized by Chapter 82 of the 1953 Session Laws and designated as repayment of advances previously made of motor vehicle collections.

A portion of this revenue balance of $3,900,000.00 estimated above could be used to accelerate lagging construction of the State Secondary System as a 100% state-aid program. On the other hand, there is always the likelihood that more Federal funds will be made available in the next biennium as has been done for highway construction, making it most desirable to be in a solvent position to take advantage of these offers.

This seems an opportune time for the Highway Department and the State to take advantage of available Civil Defense funds to set up a needed statewide radio communications network. The National Civil Defense setup has already sent the State Treasurer a check for $344,954.50 to meet 50% of the cost of the radio system. If we do not initiate this project, the funds will revert to the Federal Government July 1, 1960.

Such a radio system is needed by the Highway Department for maintenance, snow removal control, and construction work; and therefore I recommend that part of the surplus highway funds be used for this purpose.

A critical problem facing the Highway Department is the need for more office space. Increased personnel has been needed to engineer and supervise the stepped-up construction program, and while temporary space has been secured at Fort Lincoln there is need for permanent office arrangements. I realize a special legislative interim committee will make recommendations of the over-all office needs of all state departments. I suggest that it would be possible to provide on the Capitol grounds a separate building for the Highway Department.

I urge this assembly to clarify the meaning of Section 39-0421 of the 1957 Supplement, the truck reciprocity statute, so that the Highway Commissioner will be definitely charged with the responsibility of handling the many problems related to the registration and regulation of trucks engaged in interstate travel.

The Interstate Highway and modernization of the other state roads are creating special problems for many of our communities and counties because of the bypasses circumventing through city traffic. Where there are no intersecting highways, there is no connecting stub into the community which measures up to present day road standards. There is a need for the Legislature to define the responsibilities in these cases, and I recommend that up to limits the State Highway Department be given the responsibility of maintaining and servicing such roads.

To this assembly I commend the excellent performance record of accomplishment of the North Dakota State Highway Department.

HIGHWAY SAFETY

I have been increasingly concerned with the problem of highway safety during the past two years. Despite the intense efforts of the Legislature, the Executive Department, and the law enforcement officials at local as well as state level, our traffic fatality toll is continuing at an alarming rate.

I recommend the expansion of the State Highway Patrol by the addition of ten new officers. At present, the Patrol is limited in its effectiveness by its size. I believe the addition of patrolmen will have a decided effect in aiding in the control of traffic on our highways.

The wide variance in the enforcement of the law regarding drunken drivers prompts many suggestions in this regard. It would seem advisable to change the law to provide maximum first offense penalties of 30-day jail sentences and/or $100.00 fines. This would make possible more rapid handling of these cases, which is advisable. An exception, of course, would be those cases where there is personal injury. Here, each case should be taken into District Court. I urge that consideration be given to such changes in the law.

An accelerated program of education, enforcement and safer road construction is the way to curb and control the wanton destruction of life and property on our highways.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Basic trends indicate the increased importance of industrial development to the community. There is an increased awareness of this importance and a consequent multiplication of efforts. It is important that effort be made to obtain for our communities their rightful share through the implementation of well planned, constructive programs. The Economic Development Commission has inaugurated a fifteen-phase program of community development toward that end. It has enlisted the assistance of many professional and technically trained persons to assist the community leaders in building the type of community in which we would want to live and prosper.

Our state has been losing people — its best asset, while the Nation is increasing at a steady rate. In order for the state to grow we must retain these people and to do so, we must provide job opportunities. The young people coming into the labor market and those leaving the farm have a limited choice of job opportunities and we must expand our efforts to provide a good selection of agricultural and non-agricultural jobs. Many new jobs can be provided by processing and producing many of the things we consume. Every effort should be made to process more of our agricultural wealth and our natural resources. We have made a good start but more important, there is a realization that more can and needs to be done.

The tourist business is another to which we can look for new job opportunities and wealth. With increased leisure time, it is important to plan and develop suitable areas for our citizens and others who will want to see these attractions. The jobs created by the tourist business can be important to our labor force.

Technological advances have provided Americans with the highest standard of living and with it a multiplication of problems. To keep pace it is necessary that adequate records, facts and statistics be assembled so that our farmers and businessmen can be appraised of the changing conditions. Our Commission has and is providing these important documents that will be helpful in determining the courses of action to best bring about full employment and an improved standard of living.

To further strengthen the state's economy there is a need for additional capital — equity capital — to assure that all business, especially small business and individuals, would receive the financial assistance and advice vital for its successful operation. Many states have already taken steps to provide this equity capital and we should take similar steps.

New emphasis has been placed upon the use of our mineral resources — coal, oil, clays and others. A new industry using lignite as a base will produce fertilizer for our farms. The Lignite Committee I recently appointed will study and develop lignite as a source of low cost energy and chemicals. A new plant using high quality North Dakota clays for sewer pipe and ceramics is being constructed. There are also other potentials which are being explored.

Agriculture is the state's most important source of income and wealth, yet it has been declining in national importance. New impetus can be given by development of new cash crops, new market outlets and by further processing of our agricultural wealth. Agriculture can have a resurgence through the implementation of all the best tools of business and industrial know-how.

Economic development is not a one or two year program, but rather a continuous program. A well planned and adequately financed program can assure the state of the funds needed to provide the necessary services, but more important, the vital job opportunities we need to grow and to assure the state of the vitality it needs. A comprehensive report of the Economic Development Commission's accomplishments will be presented to each legislator.

PUBLIC EDUCATION

Even though much progress has already been made, public education in North Dakota is at the threshold of greater progress and advancement. There have been a multitude of problems to overcome to advance the status of primary education in North Dakota, but it is inevitable that free people for such a common cause would solve problems and make conditions better.

During the last four years the number of teachers in rural schools of our state without training has decreased from 272 to none. Two years ago 419 teachers were unqualified, last year 30 teachers were without legal qualifications, and at the present time, only three teachers are working in the schools of North Dakota without legal certification. Unquestionably, this rapid improvement in teacher qualifications can be attributed to the law which provides that by 1960 every teacher shall have at least a second grade professional certificate, awarded for successfully completing two years of college. I have every reason to believe this deadline will be met.

As a result of a program of increasing the size of administrative units, the number of school districts in North Dakota has decreased from 2,267 in 1948 to 1,967 in 1958. Larger geographical administrative units improve education by (1) increasing the tax base, (2) broadening the school curriculum, (3) improving the qualifications of teachers, and (4) making more efficient and effective the whole educational program. These districts give educational opportunities to over 128,000 North Dakota young people in elementary and secondary schools.

A universal problem for nearly all schools is that of adequate finances, and you comprehend the cost of education when you realize that for the year ending June 30, 1958, approximately $38,000,000.00 was used for public education. Of this amount 1.34% came from Federal sources; 25.07% state; 22.68% county; and the balance was contributed by the local school district. At the local level 36.5% was raised by taxes. All school districts pay the county property tax levies of ten and four mills but the local effort varies from zero to 60 mills. It is interesting to note that 111 districts pay no local property taxes for school purposes.

In a field so dynamic and changing as education in America and North Dakota today, a number of proposals will be given to you for study and final action. Among many will be these five specific points.

1. A foundation program of finance as adapted by the Legislative Research Committee whereby the state and county will assure 60% of the cost of education with equalization of support as well as opportunity.
2. Increase assistance in the reorganization program on the state level with the purpose of improving reorganization plans and leaving final approval to the citizens involved.
3. Improve and broaden high school curriculum.
4. Continue to raise teachers standards, and
5. Take advantage of the National Defense Education Act for the benefit of students and schools in North Dakota.

No longer can it be said that our people are complacent about education. North Dakotans seek to attain better educational opportunities. Great progress has been made in providing services for special education; many needed facilities have been constructed with the assistance of the State School Construction program, and many young high school graduates are availing themselves of a higher education through the student loan fund.

In the field of higher education the Legislature will face many problems, the chief of which will be that of finance. The Budget Board has carefully studied the needs of each institution. I urge that the recommendations of the Board be adhered to insofar as possible for they provide adequate operating funds including new positions for anticipated student increases and a building program for each of our schools.

The recent report made of our schools, of higher learning by a team of experts from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare should be reviewed by each one of you. This comprehensive study gives many facts and recommendations on higher education in North Dakota. Within our state at the present time there are two Junior Colleges doing an excellent job of giving educational opportunities to many young people. It is my recommendation that favorable action be taken to set up a per pupil allowance for these students payable to the controlling authorities of schools presently organized and which may be created in the future.

WELFARE

More and more we must be conscious of the growing ranks of the aged in our population, the result of human advance and dramatic progress of the medical sciences in lengthening the individual's life span. In 1930 we had 30,280 persons over 65 in North Dakota. Now we have about 57,000 and it is estimated that we will have 62,500 in 1965.

Many aspects of the aging population and its place in our society are familiar in public programs. For instance, Old Age Assistance and Old Age and Survivors Disability Insurance together provide an important role for those over 65 in North Dakota. The 7,566 Old Age Assistance recipients as of last June comprise 13.5% of those over 65. The 26,430 recipients of Social Security represented 47.2% of those over 65.

Inflation leaves its mark on people with fixed incomes. It is necessary for the state welfare program to supplement a considerable percentage of those receiving Social Security with Old Age Assistance in order that need be met. The State of North Dakota through its public assistance programs has an adequate and highly expensive medical care, hospitalization, and health services program. All the prospects point to an increasing expenditure in this area because of the increasing number of aged persons and increase in costs.

Services to an increasing aging population becomes all the more important for the future. Many of our older citizens in a changing society find it necessary to live apart from their sons and daughters. Both of those who are self-supporting and those who are dependent upon public assistance need adequate boarding homes and nursing homes as close to their homes as possible. At the present time, most of these homes are at or near capacity and many have waiting lists. There is a need for more nursing homes, as many in general hospitals can be transferred to adequate, medically supervised nursing homes.

Community services which recognize the social, vocational and avocational needs of aging people, all predicated on the principles of individual dignity and happiness and community well-being, should be recognized as a responsibility of not only public agencies, but of private groups and organizations.

The time is here to review and consider the needs for a new public geriatrics hospital to relieve the patient load at the Jamestown Hospital. This is a relatively new field that requires exploration to determine the need, the costs, and the ultimate benefits.

STATE HEALTH

The program of the State Health Department affects the life and welfare of every citizen in our state, and this Department has a responsibility and concern to protect and enhance the health of all citizens. It helps assure a safe water supply, milk, food, swimming pool and waste disposal. It helps to prevent epidemics and control them if they start. Health programs protect the newborn and provide services to expectant mothers. Adequate case-finding discovers early cases of tuberculosis, venereal disease and other infectious conditions before they spread and before they require long, expensive treatment. Our Health Department is so organized that in times of disaster it can aid the victims and give protection for the health of all people. Health services hasten community benefits from new medical developments and help provide adequate medical facilities for the care of the aged, the handicapped and the chronically ill. Your Health Department provides you with the birth and death certificates and other vital records when you need them. A sound Public Health program includes services in chronic disease, mental health, dental health and child health.

Real progress has been made in several of these areas during the past two years, and demands made upon the Department are at an all time high. Fifty-three communities have constructed new facilities for municipal waste treatment. This construction is a 250% increase over any past biennium and is a real step in protecting our fast developing water resources. Progress also has been made in the construction of homes for the care of the aged and adequate hospitals in North Dakota. Real needs still remain in this area and must be met. A sharp decline in tuberculosis deaths indicates the gains being made in the control of this disease. However, the continued high level of new cases reported points to the vast amount of work which is yet to be done. The polio vaccination program and the Asian influenza outbreak during the past two years dramatically demonstrated what can be accomplished in sound Public Health programs.

Public health needs are continually changing and our Health Department must be prepared for these changes so it is staffed with qualified people and ready to meet the new demands. Our changing environment and ways of living point to problems in control of radioactive materials and many new water, air and food contaminants. Chronic diseases, mental health, sanitation, water pollution control, laboratory evaluation of virus diseases and coronary heart diseases are all frontiers of Public Health that must be met. We have helped some people live longer — we must strive to make that life healthful and satisfying.

AGRICULTURE

Agriculture remains the basic and primary industry of North Dakota. According to the reports, 1958 established a new record of total agricultural production in our state attributable to favorable livestock prices and large grain yields. Modern technology, efficient farming practices and our progressive farmers and ranchers made this outstanding record.

There can be no greater issue than that of conservation of the land on which we live in North Dakota, and to that end the State Soil Conservation Committee has taken leadership in coordinating a joint federal, state and local policy for maximum benefit. The rewarding feature of this program is the wholehearted support of our farmers and ranchers to not only conserve but to build up the land resources of North Dakota. Excellent progress has been and will be made in the watershed control program, the Great Plains Conservation program, and tree planting projects. All have lasting benefits. Interest and enthusiasm is state-wide, so participation will become more intensified. Every encouragement must be given this conservation program.

We must continue all activities pertaining to agricultural experimentation and farm research. The Agricultural Station at Fargo and the Experiment Stations must be given every encouragement to continue this good work. In the past, the main effort has been toward greater production, but in the light of the present day farm problems, it seems wise to divert more energy and effort toward finding more uses for our products. A forward look today in these endeavors will be the insurance for the success of agriculture in the future.

WATER DEVELOPMENT

The sound development of the water resources of North Dakota is one of the most important responsibilities of our state government. A prosperous and growing economy in North Dakota is dependent on the development of our resources, of which water is of prime importance. As our nation grows, competition from other areas for a greater share of water from our interstate streams grows. I have been gravely concerned over this competition for the past two years, and I am endeavoring to encourage a more cooperative attitude regarding this matter within the entire Missouri River Basin. We must zealously protect our right to our just share of the waters flowing in the rivers and streams of our state by continuously working to develop sound projects which will permit us to beneficially use this water.

The framework for the control and use of waters in North Dakota has been established through the enactment of excellent water laws. The State Water Conservation Commission has been actively engaged in a program of many phases relating to the development and use of the waters of our rivers and streams and underground aquifers. This program includes investigating, planning and constructing various water facility projects; assisting various local entities in their individual endeavors relating to the control and use of water; and working closely with many federal agencies in planning and establishing flood control, irrigation, watershed, recreation and other water supply projects.

Since the enactment of the Flood Control Act of 1944, we have seen the completion of five federal dams in North Dakota and the near completion of the Garrison Dam. These dams have provided flood control, power, municipal water supply, game and wildlife areas, recreational areas and, in a small way, water for irrigation.

Now that water is available from the Garrison Reservoir and studies have been completed on the Garrison Diversion Unit we can look forward to the diversion of water from the Missouri River to irrigate a large number of acres in central and eastern North Dakota and for many other beneficial uses. This feasible plan for diversion of water from the Missouri River has been developed, tested and approved by the Department of the Interior. The report is receiving its final review by the Bureau of the Budget. Every effort will be made to place the project report before the coming session of Congress and to secure from Congress funds for the implementation.

I recommend that the State Legislature reaffirm Senate Concurrent Resolution I memorializing the President and the Federal Congress to support the establishment of the Garrison Diversion Unit and appropriate funds therefor.

Although the Garrison Diversion Unit is the largest single project in our water resources program, we should be ever mindful of the need to develop other projects throughout the state that will bring many benefits and new opportunities in the areas affected. Many of these projects can be developed by the state while others must be the responsibility of the Federal Government. Projects such as the Bowman-Haley Dam, the Pembilier Dam and numerous other small dams located in all sections of the state will directly enhance the economic stability of these areas and make our state a better place to work and play.

We must recognize that the local people and the state government have definite responsibilities relative to the development of any type of water resources project. We cannot shirk these responsibilities. If the citizens of our state are to receive the full benefit of the valuable water resources they have, we must dedicate ourselves to make every effort to see that a sound water resources program in North Dakota is established and carried out.

OIL AND GAS

The outstanding achievements of North Dakota in the field of oil and gas conservation have been recognized and widely hailed by the oil conservation authorities of other states, as shown by the interest of their representatives to the Interstate Oil Compact Commission on which I have the privilege of serving.

Our oil industry has developed rapidly since the discovery of oil in 1951. The interest which has been demonstrated in this development is due to the foresight of this legislative body which in 1944 passed an oil and gas conservation act. Under this act, the responsibility and authority for the conservation of oil and gas were vested in the Industrial Commission composed of elected officials directly responsible to the people. Without exception in this field, those bodies which are directly responsible to the electorate are most successful in their work.

This commission has demonstrated its capacity for the protection of the public interest by its recent approval of secondary recovery projects which will add a quarter of a billion barrels of oil to our recoverable reserves.

Although none of us like regulation for regulation's sake, I believe we must continue to control the production of oil in our state until such time as a market exists for all of the crude oil we can produce. When that time arrives, it is the intention of your Industrial Commission to exercise only that control which is necessary to prevent waste and loss of ultimate recovery.

With the aid of the State Geologist and his staff, we have established a number of milestones in oil and gas conservation. I recommend that this legislature not take any action which would disturb the present situation. At the same time, it has come to my attention during the past year that our present laws are not adequate to deal with the situation of the operator who, for various reasons, is incapable of carrying out his contractual obligations. Some changes may be required in the bonding requirements for oil and gas operators seeking to do business in the state. We must, of course, be careful in other respects not to interfere unnecessarily in the relationship between the operator and the landowner.

LABOR LEGISLATION

One of the responsibilities of legislators is to periodically review present state programs in the light of changing times and to re-evaluate many policies for the purpose of strengthening and improving services performed.

Workmen's compensation benefits to temporary and permanently injured workmen and dependents receiving fatal injury allowances should be increased to at least provide adjustments for the increased cost of living.

The field of unemployment compensation should be given study by this assembly. The responsibility for administering this program rests with the State, and in order to prevent nationalization through federal control it is my opinion that to justify our authority it is necessary to make changes. Amount of weekly benefit, duration of payment, and employer contributions will require diligent study of rather complicated formulas to perfect a better program than now exists. Again the higher costs of living dictate the need for increased weekly benefits. The re-establishment of a new assessment schedule is deemed advisable to protect the solvency of the reserve trust fund and to avert a necessary but drastic increase in all employer contributions without regard to excellent employment records. Appropriate modification now is for the best interests of all concerned.

GAME AND FISH DEPARTMENT

The recreational use of our game and fish resources has increased tremendously in the past few years. Wise management of these resources will perpetuate the great hunting and fishing we North Dakotans enjoy. To bring to the people of North Dakota better hunting and fishing, the Game and Fish Department has accomplished the following in the past two years:

1. Improved over 15,000 acres of game habitat on private farms and ranches through a tree and sweetclover planting program. This endeavor is one that benefits the farmer and the sportsmen alike.

2. Purchased 1,600 acres of land in six tracts for the purpose of public hunting and fishing.

3. With the cooperation of the State Water Conservation Commission and in some cases the financial participation of local communities, the Game and Fish Department has improved four major fishing lakes and one hunting area by creating or improving existing water control structures.

4. Almost 50,000,000 fry and fingerling game fish have been stocked in North Dakota waters during the past two years. Muskies have been introduced and may some day furnish sport for our fishermen.

5. Seven major water areas with undesirable fish life have been eradicated and restocked with game fish.

6. Compliance with game laws is an integral part of management. The warden force has brought 652 violators to court during the past two years. In addition to their enforcement duties, game wardens also presented programs to schools and clubs, and conducted numerous hunter safety classes and water safety demonstrations.

7. To more efficiently manage our fish and wildlife, research in the form of population studies, habitat evaluation, fish stocking evaluation and game movement studies have been carried out.

In spite of all our hunting and fishing resources, unsportsmanlike conduct, greed and carelessness by a very small minority threaten to destroy this recreation. The Game and Fish Department is striving to solve this problem through a farmer-sportsman relationship program, but only the sportsman himself can solve it by conducting himself in a gentlemanly manner while afield.

North Dakota's hunting and fishing has a bright future. The Oahe Reservoir, Garrison Diversion, Soil Bank Program, Wetland Preservation Program and the fish hatchery at Garrison Dam all point to better things for our sportsmen. The Game and Fish Department will need the continuing support of the citizens of North Dakota in order to exploit these programs to their fullest.

INDIAN AFFAIRS

Recent developments in the field of Indian Affairs, while exaggerated in some instances, have again pointed up the problems which exist. Many of these problems are traceable to the lack of employment opportunities. Our purpose in acting in this field should be to restore self-sufficiency to the Indian and to, at the same time, make every effort to raise the standard of Indian living. As a first step in this direction, I urge the enlargement of the Indian Affairs Commission to include Indian representatives. From each of the reservation areas in the state, Indians should be selected to serve with the present members of the Commission in working together for answers to the basic problems.

THE THEODORE ROOSEVELT CENTENNIAL

Pursuant to directions from the State Legislature, the North Dakota Theodore Roosevelt Centennial Commission of 19 members was appointed and charged with the task of devising a suitable academic and inspirational program of activities to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt.

At the first meeting of the Commission the group adopted a 14-point program, determined operating policies and agreed that the Centennial should be conducted on a high academic plane rather than a "circus" type of celebration.

Four of these 14 points deserve special mention. First, the school program, where more than 40,000 students participated in programs in more than 3,000 schools, including elementary, secondary and higher education. Honorary degrees were granted from the University and from the Agricultural College. The Young Citizen's League, a Department of Public Instruction-sponsored youth activity, conducted year long programs on Theodore Roosevelt and his life.

Second, the Dickinson State Teachers College Symposium of Lectures, which was undoubtedly one of the major academic highlights of the Centennial Year anywhere in the United States.

Third, "Old Four - Eyes", the now famous outdoor drama at Medora on the life of Theodore Roosevelt during his North Dakota ranching days. The drama attracted more than 35,000 visitors and, probably more than any other single factor, focused the attention of North Dakotans on the tremendous possibilities for tourist attractions in North Dakota. "Old Four - Eyes" will be presented during July and August of this year also, and it is certainly recommended that everyone attend.

Fourth, the great work of the statewide Speakers Bureau, established through the cooperation of the Bar Association. More than 300 talks were delivered by Bar Association members and at least another 150 were given by other interested individuals before clubs, associations, small social groups and historical societies.

When the final North Dakota report was received by the National Centennial office, the national director, Dr. Hermann Hagedorn, wrote: "Reading your report fairly takes my breath away. I am astounded anew by all that the North Dakota TR Commission accomplished. The record of no other state in the Union can match it."

MANSION

I know you are all interested in the progress of the Governor's Mansion. New plans are being prepared so bids for construction can be taken this spring. The location selected is the southwest corner of the Capitol grounds.

MISCELLANEOUS

Section 57-3204 of the 1957 Supplement of the North Dakota Revised Code of 1943 provides: "The tax imposed by this chapter upon car line companies and express companies shall be levied for the purpose of providing revenues for the payment of interest due or to accrue upon outstanding North Dakota real estate series bonds."

There is sufficient money now in the "real estate bond interest payment fund" to pay the interest on all outstanding North Dakota real estate series bonds. Therefore, I recommend the law be amended to place this revenue in the General Fund of the State.

CONCLUSION

Out of this comes that realization that confronting you will be deliberations encompassed in providing for those worthwhile human values and matters that have for their purpose the developing and wise use with maximum benefit of our natural resources. You have a tremendous task ahead of you to resolve the many legislative problems. Available to you will be the wholehearted cooperation of the Executive Department to furnish information and other detail that could be helpful to your final decisions. Personally, I will be available to consult with any member of this legislative body throughout the sixty-day session.

I am confident that, by working together, a constructive legislative program can be adopted that will mean greater growth for North Dakota and a brighter future for our people. May God bless each of you with the wisdom and the courage to perform these duties for our state. Thank you.

An advertisement by the Minot Federal Savings and Loan Association in the Minot Daily News commending the members of the legislature for their work was read and on motion of Rep. Goebel was ordered printed in the House journal.

A TRIBUTE . . .
TO OUR LEGISLATORS

This week 162 civic-minded North Dakotans gathered in Bismarck to look after their neighbors' interests and welfare.

These men and women—113 Representatives and 49 Senators—are members of the state Legislature, convening for the 36th biennial assembly.

In most all respects, it can be safely said that these people are doing more than is expected of an average citizen in payment for the right to be a resident of North Dakota. They are temporarily leaving their homes and families, disengaging themselves from their livelihoods and cutting themselves off from personal pleasures and day-to-day associations so they can don the robes of public servants.

There are few who can benefit financially from the 60 days of the session. Under the constitution, they receive only $5 each day . . . and this is supplemented with from $15 to $20 daily expense money.

For some legislators, because they own their own business, which can continue on pretty much the same in the absence of the bosses, or because the companies which employ them keep salary checks coming without pause or deduction, you might not consider that much of a sacrifice is being made financially.

However you must weigh the fact that these people must set up and maintain separate existences from their homes, involving rentals and meals and many other such routine expenses . . . plus meeting the many other monetary demands made on individuals in public life. And the experience of most legislators is that even $25 a day just doesn't begin to meet the bills that must be paid.

And, of course, there are many legislators whose livelihood suffers when they must cut themselves off from daily endeavors to serve their state. Consider the case of the small businessman, the sales agent or the commission salesman. And of course there are those few who must disassociate themselves entirely from their occupation, and during the 60-day period the legislature is in session, they earn absolutely nothing—and still find it necessary to pay some expenses out of pocket.

* * * *

And what do they receive in return? Prestige, surely. Some small fame, to be certain. The gratitude of some of their constituents, doubtlessly.

And just as certainly they face the prospect of standing forth in bold relief, with the public's mocking voice and a bad press deriding them, should they find themselves battling in the name of a small minority and for a principle not easily understood. And no matter whether they position themselves on one side of the fence or the other of a particular question, or even if they straddle the fence, some of their constituents will not be pleased . . . and will be most vocal in expressing their displeasure.

These special people have the privilege of giving ear to both good and bad ideas as expressed in legislation . . . they oftentimes must compromise with others who hold different points of view to get even half of what they think necessary for their home territories . . . and daily they must moderate their own good intentions and wishes and keep an ever-watchful eye on the cost of all programs, no matter how important they are to the state.

* * * *

There is a burden which is borne in the name of thankfulness and thanklessness, a necessary political function which tests their inner goodness and raises many temptations . . . a once-every-two-years duty to be assumed in the name of their friends and fellow citizens.

There can be only one answer for their dedication . . . one reason why no seat goes unfilled and why many others contest at election times for the right to share legislative trials and tribulations. That answer-reason is the self satisfaction that is derived from public service.

To most, this self satisfaction is reward enough . . . reward for being sure that free, unfettered government of, by and for the people survives.

To you, then, our legislators . . . accept our congratulations, best wishes and hat's off esteem.

FIFTH ORDER OF BUSINESS

Rep. Knudsen moved that the report of the Committee

Rep. Glaspey moved that the following poem be printed in the House Journal, which motion prevailed. The poem was written by a former North Dakota State Senator.

THE STORY ABOUT OIL

My wife and I are among the few
Who filed on a claim in nineteen two,
We have dreamed far more than we can tell
But we never dreamed of an oil well.

We leased our land in forty nine
And for each acre we got a dime,
Then late in February of fifty eight
Surveyors moved in and set up stakes.

To say the least, we were surprised
To see a tower raised toward the skies,
It was all adorned with electric lights
Which made it a beautiful sight at night.

They soon started drilling a deep hole
In search for the so-called "black gold".
Down in the earth over a mile they drilled
Until they had part of their contract fulfilled.

They put in casing over seven thousand feet
Which made their part of the contract complete.
When the tower was lowered to the ground
They moved to another location they had found.

Then a smaller crew was sent in and given the nod
To bring in the crude and finish the job.
Many small bits of dynamite were used
To perforate the casing and let in the crude.

Fourteen hundred gallons of acid were forced down
To loosen the formation all around.
After swabbing out the acid and salt water too
They finally decided that they were through.

This crew of four men and sometimes five
 Were the most pleasant men alive.
 To this faithful crew we wish to give thanks
 For bringing in the crude that fills the tanks.

When the wind is northwest we all can tell
 And we shut down the windows to keep out the smell.
 A paper mill has a terrible smell
 But nothing compared to an oil well.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION "N"

Introduced by Committee on Industry and Business

A concurrent resolution relating to governmental activities affecting the "business climate" of the State.

1 WHEREAS, business climate is the net result of all
2 controllable conditions beyond management's direction
3 which affects the cost and ease of operating a business
4 in the State. Maintaining these conditions most favor-
4a ably

5 requires:

- 6 1. Fair and equitable treatment in general legislation
7 and administrative regulation for all segments of 8 North Dakota's economy.
- 9 2. A framework of government the support of which 10 provides a favorable competitive advantage with 11 other states of similar industrialization and 12 favorable climate.
- 13 3. Equitable tax policies and restriction of the cost 14 of government to reasonable levels in providing 15 necessary services efficiently.
- 16 4. Fair treatment for all in legislation and admin-
16a istra-
17 tion to maintain harmonious labor-management
17a relations
18 and to protect the rights of individuals and 19 property owners.
- 20 5. Fostering, in the public interest, an economic 21 atmosphere which will enable North Dakota
21a agriculture
22 and industry to compete for out-of-state markets,
23 remembering that wide marketing of North
23a Dakota
24 products brings wealth into the State, thereby
25 raising the standard of living of all our people;
26 and

27 WHEREAS, North Dakota's favorable business cli-27a mate has
28 been a major factor in encouraging expansions by 28a established
29 industries and the locating of new industries throughout 30 the State; and

31 WHEREAS, for reasons hereinafter set forth, it will 31a be
32 critically important for North Dakota to continue to 33 maintain and improve its business climate; and thereby 34 foster the healthy expansion of existing business and 34a the
35 attraction of new industry; and

36 WHEREAS, the increasing displacement of our farm
37 population magnifies the importance of providing 37a more job

38 opportunity in all North Dakota communities; and 39 WHEREAS, healthy industrialization broadens the 39a tax
 40 base, thereby providing much needed revenues for 40a community
 41 facilities and government services for all our people;
 41a and
 42 WHEREAS, in this era of rapid industrial expansion
 42a and
 43 relocation throughout the United States, industries, 44 selecting locations, are vitally concerned about the 45 relative business climate among the states; and the 46 preservation of North Dakota's good business climate 46a is in
 47 the public interest and can be continued without 47a discriminating
 48 against any other interest in North Dakota;
 49 NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE 49a HOUSE
 50 OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF NORTH
 50a DAKOTA,
 51 THE SENATE CONCURRING THEREIN:
 52 That this legislature henceforth shall examine all 53 proposed legislation relating to business, industry, and 54 agriculture in terms of its effect upon the business
 54a climate
 55 of the State, and shall determine whether such legis-
 55a lation
 56 may have any future discriminating or deterring effect
 57 upon the investment of capital and the creation of 57a needed
 58 payrolls in North Dakota;
 59 BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the members of 59a this
 60 Legislative Assembly hereby request the Governor and 60a the
 61 directors of each department in the State government to 62 examine their own discretionary actions and orders in 62a any
 63 way relating to business, industry, and agriculture in 64 terms of the effect of such governmental action upon the 65 business climate in North Dakota.

While Denmark likes its cheese,

That is most sure to please.

Norwegians like their Lutefisk,
With lots of butter on it,
The German likes his Sauerkraut,
With wieners all around it.

But though you've eaten far and wide,
You've tasted nothing yet,
For McIntosh-Logan sausage,
Is the best you ever et!

THIRTIETH DAY AFTER RECESS
AND THIRTY-FIRST DAY

Bismarck, February 5, 1959

Speaker Nygaard reconvened the House at 1:00 p.m., pursuant to recess taken on February 4, 1959.

The Speaker announced that the House would be on the fourth order of business.

FOURTH ORDER OF BUSINESS

A communication was received from Hon. Sam Rayburn, Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, acknowledging receipt of House Resolution No. 4.

A poem, "My Poem To The Republicans", by Rep. Hauf was read by the Chief Clerk.

Rep. Link: "I wish to say that yesterday the majority of this House amended House Concurrent Resolution "Y", which had been introduced by the members of the minority.

"House Concurrent Resolution "Y" as originally introduced was critical of the present administration in dealing with the fiscal needs of the state.

"By strength of numbers, the majority amended this resolution to one of commendation of the administration. We feel that the majority slipped in their parliamentary procedure by not making it a committee resolution and thus joining with us in the commendation.

"Unfortunately the majority interpreted the resolution as one of censure, for that was not its purpose. True, it was critical, as it dealt with a basic serious question with which all of us here should be vitally concerned.

"We do not question the desire of the administration, or the majority to maintain a balanced budget, but the resolution did question whether there was sufficient planning put into the future to assure a balanced budget beyond the present biennium.

"This question arose from the fact that the proposed balanced budget for the 1959-1961 biennium is partly composed of the general fund balance of almost eleven million dollars. This balance is due to good crop conditions and increased tax collections. Based on the estimated general fund income for 1959-1961 biennium of thirty-six million dollars to cover an estimated program in excess of forty-five million dollars, we have no assurance of where the additional revenue will come from to start the 1961-1963 biennium on a sound financing basis.

"This was, and still is, the basic question of the resolution. I am confident that the majority of the majority will not challenge my right to offer this foregoing explanation."

Rep. Strege: "There was a meeting conducted last night of the Veterans and Military Affairs. It has come to my attention that they have not made a report of the meeting.

"I would move that this be made in the form of a resolution, that you appoint a sub-committee of that committee to report to this House, Reps. Johnston, Goebel, Lindberg, Schuler and Stallman to formulate a report."

The motion of Rep. Strege was put by the Speaker and declared lost on a voice vote.

EIGHTH ORDER OF BUSINESS

Rep. Fitch: "Today we have with us as our guest, a man who served in the House of Representatives for eighteen years and one term in the Senate, of North Dakota.

"This man is Arthur C. Johnson of the Ninth District, Cass County. He is very well respected there, and was for many years very well respected by every member of the legislature. He was chairman of the Appropriations Committee for many years and did an excellent job. The now distinguished chairman is following pretty much in Mr. Johnson's footsteps.

"I move that the Speaker appoint a committee, consisting of the two floor leaders, to escort Mr. Johnson to the rostrum and that he be asked to address the House."

The motion of Rep. Fitch prevailed and the Speaker appointed Reps. Wolf and Link to escort Mr. Johnson to the rostrum.

Mr. Speaker: "I am glad to present to you my good friend, Art Johnson,—a man with whom I used to work and fight, as sometimes happens here. He is a man that we all respect for his ability as a legislator and as a citizen of the State of North Dakota.

"At this moment, Mr. Johnson will address you."

Mr. Johnson: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker, for the fine remarks of introduction. I just went down and tried out my old seat where Rep. Stockman now sits. That seat used to belong to a great statesman, Late Twichell. I imagine that everybody in this House has heard of Rep. Twichell. I don't know how many years, he served in the House, but he was really an outstanding individual and statesman.

"As I look around here I don't see too many of the faces that were here at the time I served from 1933 to 1953—or I guess 1951 was the last year that I was in the House. I see Louie Leet over there, with a pair of magnifying glasses on. Miss Haugland—I think probably she is one of the oldest members in the House—don't misunderstand me as I had not completed—I mean she is one of the oldest members in service here, not in age. I think probably my good friend, and your friend, Ken Fitch, is the oldest representative here in point of service in this House. And I wouldn't be surprised if Miss Haugland is the second.

"I do miss seeing fellows like Walt Bubel, old "Wild" Bill Bauer from Sioux County, and quite a number of others who have either retired, as I have, or who have passed on.

"But it is indeed a pleasure to come in and see this Chamber. This is like homecoming to sit down in my old chair, and I thank Rep. Stockman for letting me sit there for a few minutes and enjoy the view of this Chamber.

"I see, Miss Haugland, that you now have a cohort here—another lady. I think there were only two times prior, that there has been two women in this House. One was from Rugby and I don't remember where the other was from. We enjoyed having ladies as members, and I know they keep you fellows on pretty good behavior and see that you don't get too wild. We have seen some wild days in this House. I don't know if I was the cause or not, but I remember back a few years ago when Ben Wolf sat on that other side and I sat on this side, and we were always in each others hair on truck bills. But I guess you are now pretty well agreed on the trucking bills now, so there is not so much trouble passing trucking bills as there used to be.

"I try to follow the legislature in the papers, but they haven't shown that you have got a "dog" bill in here, this year. Dog bills were something that we always used to have in the hopper some place.

"And after the dog bills, we started having investigations and investigated all the institutions.

"Oh, Ruth, don't take this down, please. I don't want my remarks in the Journal.

"But now I see we got the "duck" bills flying around. I don't know what you are going to do with the ducks, but I heard that there are only 34,000 ducks here now and last year there were over 200,000. They must have been scared of the legislature and flew out of the state.

"I thank you, Ken, and you, Mr. Speaker for the privilege of coming up here and I hope to see you all again. I think you are doing a good job."

Rep. Fitch moved that Mr. Johnson's remarks be printed in the House Journal and a copy sent to Mr. Johnson, which motion prevailed.

NEWSPAPERMAN'S DAY

at the

NORTH DAKOTA LEGISLATURE

Bismarck, North Dakota

FEBRUARY 12, 1959

It is in many ways fitting that Newspaper Day and Lincoln's Birthday should coincide. Lincoln had much to do with the press, and the press with Lincoln. And the press and the President still have much to do with each other.

Did you know, for instance, that Lincoln once briefly owned his own newspaper? It was the Illinois Staats-Anzeiger, a German-language weekly. Lincoln himself drew up the contract with Theodore Canisius, the editor. It reveals him as the politician he was long before he became the statesman. It provided that at any time the paper failed to espouse the Republican party line, Lincoln could reclaim the type and the press — they were valued at $400.

But Lincoln was even more active as a newspaperman than just being an owner. As a young man in New Salem, Lincoln acted as agent for the Sangamo Journal, the Whig newspaper in Springfield, signing up subscribers. As a Representative in the Illinois General Assembly, in the 1830's, he reported the doings of the Legislature for the Whig party paper. Later, as a Congressman, and specifically as chairman of the Post Office and Post Roads Committee, he sponsored and got through the House a bill empowering postmasters to take subscriptions for newspapers. That would be a neat trick for the newspapers today, wouldn't it?

But these minutiae about Lincoln and the press, interesting though they may be, are not the real reason we have come together today. There is matter of deeper significance for us to ponder in considering the coincidence between Newspaper Day and Lincoln's Birthday.

We are faced today with a situation not unlike that Lincoln faced almost a hundred years ago. Then, we were a nation divided against itself and the big question was whether we could endure as a nation.

Today, the situation we face is that of a world divided again itself, and the big question is not only whether we can endure as a nation or even as a world of nations, but also whether we can endure at all, whether we can endure as a civilization.

Now this is not a question that the individual can shrug off as being too big for him to cope with. In a democracy the government is no bigger than the humblest citizen it serves, and no wiser. If we are to cope successfully as a people with this terrible question of our survival, then we must cope with it at every level—and at no level more importantly or more urgently than at the level of the individual, the ordinary, the average, the everyday Mr. and Mrs. and Miss John and Joan and Jane Citizen.

History might have been different—and as a newspaperman I am the first to admit this—if journalism had been different during the time of Lincoln's ordeal. It was a time of great journalists, if not a great journalism. There was much thunder in the newspapers of Lincoln's day, but not much enlightenment.

Today, I am glad to say, there is less thunder in our newspapers—and perhaps there should be more—but there is far more enlightenment. We have advanced from personal journalism, the journalism of opinion, to objective journalism, the journalism of fact. We have advanced even beyond the journalism of fact to the journalism of fact plus explanation—the journalism that reports not only the facts but what the facts mean.

Now, knowing the facts, and what the facts mean, is to know the truth, and those of you who know your Bible will remember well what John said, know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. Today, to know the truth is the best armor we can have to keep ourselves free. Let us spend a moment considering this.

We stand at a crucial point in history. It is a time to take stock, to examine our goals, to assess our strengths, to discover our weaknesses. And when we do this, and do this honestly, I think we will come to see that whatever greatness our civilization can claim stems from the fact that it permits and even encourages unchained ranging of the human mind and spirit. Both our technical advances and our moral strength derive from this. Without this freedom, surely our civilization would topple inevitably into stultification and decay.

The right to knowledge is not confined, of course, to university halls, to legislative assemblies, to courts, or even to newspapers. In a democracy, the individual citizen must have adequate access to all information necessary for sound judgment and decision. In the present chapter of our existence, the actions and commitments which the United States makes to defend and extend the free world will be controlled by public opinion. That opinion may be informed or uninformed, but of this we are sure—either way it will fashion our contribution to history. Now if we have an ignorant public, we may expect it to be an apathetic public—or what is perhaps worse, a frightened public—unable to react resolutely to emergencies which it can only dimly comprehend. Citizens do not lose their democratic right to have a voice in determining vital policies even though, through lack of information, they are incapable of weighing the issues of the day.

Anyone who subscribes to the adage that "what you don't know won't hurt you" is as far off the truth as it is possible to get in this Twentieth Century world.

We are, therefore, at the heart of the matter when we say that adequate information is the very essence of democratic government, and that an indispensable organ of our kind of society is a free press, a press entirely independent of censorship or government control or supervision.

In considering the role of the free press in preserving our system of life, perhaps we ought to ask ourselves first of all just what freedom of the press really is. Whose freedom is it? Does it merely guarantee the right of the publisher or broadcaster to do and say whatever he wishes, limited only by the laws of libel and decency? Is it a special license to those who manage the units of the press? The answer, of course, is no.

Freedom of the press—or, to be more precise, the benefit of freedom of the press—belongs to everyone, to the citizen as well as the publisher. The publisher is not granted the privilege of independence simply to provide him with a more favored position in the community. He enjoys an explicitly defined independence because it is the only condition under which he can fulfill his role, which is to inform fully, fairly, accurately, comprehensively. His right is a limited right—limited eventually and in some final way by the degree of his service to the public.

A definition of this kind gives us a fresh insight into the meaning of the free press. The phrase "free press" is a convenient label which tells only part of the story. When we examine the subject from the point of view of the reader rather than the publisher, which is the only valid way in which to appraise the press, we realize that what democracy must have is a duality—a free and responsible press.

To justify their cherished independence, our media of communication must present the news without fear or favor of any party, sect or interest, and must admit that the manner in which they present the news is a matter of legitimate public concern. Obviously, a full and responsible press is the only kind of press which can invigorate and enlighten public opinion under a representative government.

Responsibility, in its turn, reaches out not in one, but in three different directions—not only to the publisher, but also to the government in all its branches, and to the public itself. In varying ways, each has a responsibility in assuring sound decision by the many.

I have already suggested the nature of the publisher's responsibility. It is one of collection and presentation. He must gather from all possible and available sources all the facts the citizen must know. He must present these facts, so far as is humanly possible, free of all bias and distortion. He must present all sides of complex and controversial questions fairly and impartially. He should confine his private views to the editorial page, where opinion is clearly labelled and where it is separated from purely factual and interpretative reports.

In recent years, and because of the increasing complexity of our civilization, a new responsibility has been added to that of collecting and presenting the facts. I refer to the responsibility of explanation. Explanation and interpretation are, indeed, new dimensions of the news which are only now coming to be fully understood by the press itself.

Too often, in today's complicated life, a fact of itself has little meaning for the quick and busy reader. It is given meaning only when its significance is explained. Then it takes its proper place in the reader's estimate of the importance of things. Explanation gives the facts not only meaning, but puts them in balance.

Let me illustrate. No source of news is more important to us today than Russia. We—the New York Times, that is—maintain a bureau of two correspondents in Moscow, and correspondents in most of the satellite countries. But we know that censorship of one kind or another stays the free hand of our correspondents in reporting the news from those countries. Despite this, it is amazing how many facts we can learn about Russia and her satellites. Our correspondents report what facts they can. At our home office in New York and in our bureau in Washington, we have a number of men who have made themselves experts in Russian affairs—both from experience there as correspondents and through years of intensive study.

When stories come from our men in Russia or the satellites, the facts they report are studied by our Russian experts here, and they supplement the correspondence from Moscow with informed explanation and interpretation. So when we learn from our man in Moscow that Russia announces plans to do thus and so, we are able to explain just what thus and so means, and our readers are able then to evaluate the Russian plans.

Nor do we have to go so far afield. One of the great sources of news today is the scientific laboratory, since our military strength today relies so largely on our scientific and technical prowess. Despite the secrecy of security—too often merely so-called security—announcements of scientific accomplishment are made public from time to time.

Now to the average citizen, to you and to me, much of the language of the space-age scientist, I am afraid, is so much gibberish. Yet we must know what is going on, for our very existence depends upon it. So we have on our staff at The Times—as other newspapers and news services have also—reporters who have become experts in various scientific fields. They explain what the scientist is trying to say in terms we can understand.

Only in this way—by getting all the facts and their meaning, and by getting both facts and meaning free of slant or bias—does the reader have a real opportunity to reflect and to make up his own mind.

Another area of responsibility falls to the government itself as the major source of news which directly concerns every man, woman, and child in our nation. The responsibility of our government—whether federal, state or local—is to maintain a full flow of information to the people from whom it draws its fundamental authority. This should be done if only on the practical argument that in the United States the people are supreme.

Theoretically at least, I think we should find general acceptance of this thesis both within government and outside it. The memory of World War II, in which free men out-fought, out-produced, and out-last-ed the totalitarian enemy, is too fresh for anyone to undervalue the importance of public opinion. It would be hard to find anywhere in this country a spokesman for censorship or restriction of freedom of the press. As a matter of principle, the people should be informed, and the channels of communication from the government, it would be claimed, are free and clear. The only limitations are those made necessary by consideration of national security.

National security — this is where confusion and difficulty frequently start. There are, admittedly, military and diplomatic and scientific plans whose premature publication would not only threaten our national security but also give aid and comfort to the enemy. However, from the base of legitimate security has grown an immense barrier of over-secrecy involving both military matter and other phases of public business about which the people are entitled to know.

The trend toward overclassification and ultra-secrecy has become more and more pronounced, and in many ways these security restrictions have had an effect opposite to that intended. Instead of helping to preserve our strength, they have far too often only cloaked weaknesses of which the public should be aware.

Secrecy and security are by no means necessarily synonymous, no matter how closely allied they may seem to some of those in military or governmental authority. If secrecy operates to deprive public opinion of facts which it needs for balanced judgment, if secrecy leads the citizens of our country to feel smug and complacent when they should be aroused and alarmed, then secrecy really damages our security.

I hold it to be the duty of the press to endeavor energetically to surmount every obstacle to the gathering of legitimate news and, in the interest of its readers, penetrate to the facts through side doors where front doors, which ought to be open, are slammed shut.

It is the responsibility of government to keep the doors of public offices open, or repeatedly to justify their closing to a demanding public.

The final area of responsibility is that of the public itself — the responsibility of keeping itself informed. To practice democracy successfully requires far more than warm heart and generous spirit; never before has it been so vital for men of good will to be also men of sound information.

Citizenship in a free society is not always easy. "Freedom," one of our advertising campaigns reminds us, "is everybody's job." So is democracy. Like most jobs, it's hard to get. Like all jobs, it's easy to lose — unless we work at it. And the hardest work it asks us to do is to keep ourselves informed so that we can make up our minds independently on the basis of the facts as we know them. We must, all of us, press and public alike, seek the facts. For it would be shameful indeed if, at a moment of crisis, we made a fatal decision out of sheer ignorance of the facts.

I am convinced that it is chiefly a want of facts that continues this nation and Russia in a cold war. I am further convinced that facts universally available would go a long way toward ending that war. When I say "universally available" I mean not only to ourselves but particularly to the Russians.

The basic fact that the whole free world wishes peace more than anything else is not even known to them. From my experiences in that country two years ago I am convinced that the populace actually believes the Western world wants to make war on them. The fact that other peoples are pioneering new paths to a more abundant life has only recently begun to dawn upon them. The fact that other societies are lightening the burden of the common man is scarcely known to them. The fact that the peace of Mankind is threatened only by their own government is certainly not known to them.

Newspapers justify their place in society largely by their success at getting at the facts and their skill in distributing them to the people whom they serve. It is basic to the accomplishment of this major social purpose that the press must enjoy the relatively free exercise of certain basic rights that are now widely denied abroad and that are frequently threatened here at home.

The freedom to print the facts without prior censorship is guaranteed by the First Amendment to the Constitution. But that is not enough for newspapers today. This is no greed, mind you, on the part of newspapers for rights that are not enjoyed by others. Newspapers must have the right also to get at the facts. In asking access to facts, newspapers are only acting as a representative of the people.

This right of the press to get at the facts touches directly on your responsibility as legislators. The right of the people to have access to their legislatures is elementary in our system of government. It dates from the opening of the British Parliament to the press more than a hundred years ago. From then on, until some of the secret sessions of World War II, the press was never excluded from the House of Commons. The United States House of Representatives in 1790 voted to admit reporters. Since then most of the state legislatures by express constitutional provision permit their people to know the facts about their proceedings. Most city councils, by either state enactment or local ordinance, require their business to be publicly conducted. The right of public scrutiny of its legislative institutions is so well established that it is an astonishing thing to discover its enforcement denied from time to time. It is not denied in large state legislatures like this but in various commissions, bureaus and other agencies, which act for the public interest.

And, of course, one institution where the right of access to facts is not automatic is in the Federal Government, in the great bureaucracy of Washington.

There has been and there continues to be a struggle between the representatives of the American press and the representatives of government to work out better systems and even better principles, in order to give the people access to the facts of their Federal Government.

And in this connection constitutional guarantees mean nothing unless they are implemented by practices and strengthened by attitudes.

Newspapers or anyone else enjoying immunity from government interference in their fact-gathering operations must be sure they do not admit self-imposed interference with their duties. Editors of newspapers who withhold facts simply because they are inconsistent with their own philosophy or their own purposes or profit and who print only the facts that seem to fortify or fulfill their own principles are as much a menace to our free principles as arbitrary government itself.

Frankly, this was one of the things wrong with the press during Lincoln's day. Many publishers and editors in those days used their newspapers to further their own political interests, or the interests of their party. Many were themselves personally involved in politics as office-holders or as office-seekers.

Even the editor of The New York Times during those days — Henry J. Raymond — served as Lieutenant Governor of New York and was chairman of the Republican National Committee during Lincoln's campaign for reelection. I am happy to say that today no editor of The New York Times, nor any reporter, would be permitted to serve in any political capacity and hold his job on The Times. Objectivity is difficult enough of attainment without subjecting it to partisan temptation.

But objectivity in Lincoln's day was a seldom thing, if ever. Lincoln read many different newspapers in an attempt to keep the record straight for himself. During his great debates with Senator Douglas, he kept a scrapbook of newspaper clippings. He clipped the Chicago Tribune for a record of his own speeches, knowing the Tribune to be pro-Lincoln. But he clipped the Chicago Times for a record of Douglas's speeches, knowing The Times to be pro-Douglas.

During the Civil War, Lincoln had many bitter experiences with newspapers. As we study the intemperate press of that day we wonder sometimes how the press survived as a free institution, so bitter and often so unfair were the newspapers on both sides of the conflict. This period subjected the Freedom of the Press section of the First Amendment to one of its severest tests in our history. It is something of a tribute to Lincoln's statesmanship that he forebore as much as he did in the face of these attacks, and although newspapers were suspended during his presidency, they were suspended by his military commanders and only in active theatres of war.

Today we recognize universally in this country that the people's right to know is an all-inclusive right. They have a right to know the things that newspaper editors and publishers may wish they did not know, as well as the things they wish them to know.

Newspapers or newspaper editors have not been endowed with any right — legal or divine — to pick and choose the facts with which they agree.

People of a democracy require, of course, more than the facts about the formal transactions of government in order to discharge adequately their roles as citizens. They need to know all the relevant facts about their society. And they look to the newspapers to provide them. They need to know all the thousands of things that make up the face of the age. They need to know everything that happens and what people do, say, feel and think about it.

I have taken advantage of our presence here together today to expose these thoughts because I think you and I together are involved in what they represent. You are a representative body. You are representative of the people whom you serve. And so are we of the press. There are ways and means by which the public can let you know whether you adequately represent them. The same is true with us.

I freely confess that American journalism of today is by no means the final or best product of which we are capable. We should never cease to complain of the remaining imperfections, but we can take heart in reflecting upon the great strides that have brought us this far. We are perhaps no farther than midway along the road, but I think we can justly boast that our newspapers are making still firmer the obligation and the intent to be impartial in the news, and to carrying that obligation into developing additional dimensions in our accounts of the daily shifting scene.

I have been giving you the simple observations of a working newspaperman. After all, my message is a simple one. Our civilization, based on democracy and the dignity of the individual human being, is man's noblest product through the millenia of recorded history.

It has flourished because man's spirit has been free and because his restless quest for deeper insights and broader knowledge has been unimpeded. We are faced today by a ruthless adversary whose morals and methods reach back to those dark and bloody ages before the grip of tyranny was broken. He is a powerful and dangerous adversary, but we can defeat him as we have defeated all other tyrants and dictators if we but remember the sources of our strength. Freedom and knowledge are our impregnable shields. I am sure this is what the wise and devoted Abraham Lincoln would say if he were with us today.

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

February 3, 1959

Honorable Hjalmar Nygaard
Thirty-Sixth Legislative Assembly
State of North Dakota
Bismarck, North Dakota

Dear Hjalmar:

I have before me House Resolution No. 4, introduced by Representatives Hilleboe, Brown, Schuler, Lowe, Muggli, Aamoth, Kitzmann, Fitch, Dahl, Thompson (Richland), Halcrow, Neukircher, Trom and Knudsen (LaMoure), memorializing the Congress to remove the wartime excise taxes on local and long distance telephone service.

I join wholeheartedly in the sentiments expressed in this Resolution and certainly will do everything within my power to try and get this discriminatory wartime tax on telephone service eliminated.

I am taking the liberty of forwarding your Resolution to the House Ways and Means Committee for their consideration when acting on relevant legislation. I understand there are some dozen measures already introduced which would provide for the removal of this 10 percent Federal excise tax on local or long distance service. Among them I might mention a few; H. R. 480, H. R. 560, H. R. 667 and H. R. 1830, and two of them have been introduced by Members of the Committee, Congressmen Machrowicz and Knox. To date hearings have not been scheduled by the House Ways and Means Committee, but I am sure they will get into this subject before too long.

When I forward this Resolution to the Committee, I am going to ask that it be incorporated as a part of the Committee hearings on this proposed legislation.

With kindest personal regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

DON L. SHORT

Member of Congress

Rep. Link: "The Education Committee was in full sympathy with the aims of House Bill No. 709, which would have prohibited athletic contests during the week when school is in session.

"It was recognized, however, that exceptions would develop, such as a game getting stormed out when in order to complete the schedule, it would have to be played during the week. Exceptions arising from local or emergency conditions would have required a more lengthy and detailed bill. During a conference with the Education Committee it was mutually agreed that I would withdraw my bill and the Committee would sponsor House concurrent resolution "W 1" calling on those in authority to voluntarily put into effect the provisions of the bill. I was asked to prepare the resolution which the Committee later approved and introduced.

"This action meets my approval for this is a directive from the Legislature placing the responsibility in local hands. I have faith in the majority of school officials, teachers and parents, who will put this resolution into effect. If there are those who choose to ignore it, they can only expect some future legislature to pass a law to protect the educational welfare of the students. The day may not be too far off when the legislature may have to prescribe the entire athletic program in the same manner as the curriculum.

"The Constitution clearly places this responsibility in the hands of the legislature."

House Bill No. 619. A Bill for an Act to amend and reenact sections 36-0404 and 36-0405 of the 1957 Supplement to the North Dakota Revised Code of 1943, relating to bonds and licenses of livestock dealers.

Rep. Burk requested that his remarks on House Bill No. 699 be printed in the House Journal.

Rep. Streibel moved that the remarks of Rep. Burk be not printed in the House Journal, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Esterby moved that the remarks of Rep. Link on House Bill No. 699 be printed in the House Journal, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Link: "House Bill No. 699 is one of the more important bills to be considered at the present session of the Legislature. It deals with the regulation of North Dakota's second most important industry. The present market value of the proven oil and gas reserves of our state is in the neighborhood of Three Billion Dollars.

"The problems connected with the production of oil are of a most technical nature and required the services of the most highly trained and scientific men that we can secure. Accordingly, the regulatory agency regulating the oil and gas industry must have the services of highly trained experts to consult with the members of the regulatory agency and to guide its members in making their decisions. The problems are so technical that in reality in most cases the experts actually make the decisions.

"With but two or three exceptions, the problems of oil and gas regulations in all of the other oil producing states are handled by a separate commission. In all of the other oil producing states the regulatory agency as well as its technical staff is stationed at the State Capitol.

"In North Dakota, the regulatory agency is the Industrial Commission consisting of three of the top executive officers and three of the busiest state officers in the state. All of them, in addition to the pressing duties of their offices, are on numerous other boards and commissions, the Governor being a member of about twenty separate boards and commissions.

"In 1941, our State Legislature made the state geologist located at Grand Forks ex officio the one who was charged with the duties of supervising and enforcing the rules and orders relating to the oil industry. Back in those days with only an occasional dry hole being drilled, that was good legislation. The state geologist is supposed to spend his full time at the University for which he receives a salary of Eight Thousand Dollars per year.

"We now have over 1,200 oil wells in production with more being brought in every week. A daily record of the production of all of these wells is kept. As a result of this greatly increased load, the state geologist told you the other day that he was required to spend 90% of his time in his work connected with the oil and gas industry. He has a salary of $4500 annually for that part of his work. We should no longer ask our state university to loan us the head of one of its departments for which it pays a salary of Eight Thousand Dollars annually when we require 90% of this time.

"I am sure that the members of the Industrial Commission will admit to you privately that they do not have the time that they would like to devote in studying the cases upon which they must make decisions in many cases involving millions of dollars.

"I am sure that most of us feel as did a member of the Industrial Commission to whom I talked just last week that it would be better if we had the technical staff at the same place that the Commission is located, namely, our capitol city. The state geologist, already overworked, must spend time in traveling to and from Grand Forks to consult with those who make the decisions, stationed over two hundred miles away. In business, we just don't have the board of directors in one city and its engineering and technical staff in another city some two hundred miles distant.

"In all other oil states, the regulatory agencies as far as I know, have the authority and hire and discharge their technical staff but the North Dakota Legislature thus far has not seen fit to give the Industrial Commission that authority. We have made the State Geologist the technical adviser and he employs all of the technical staff. If decisions are made that we consider ill-advised, perhaps we should not be too critical of the Industrial Commission because it has no power to determine who its advisers shall be.

"With the continued growth of the oil industry for which we are all hoping, the problems that have been mentioned will become greater and in order to lessen these problems, I am proposing an oil and gas commission patterned very much after the Montana law, is being proposed, with which both producers and landowners are fairly well satisfied.

"House Bill No. 699 will relieve the State Geologist of all of his duties relating to regulation of the oil and gas industry and transfer all of his duties to the oil and gas commission to be created. That will permit the State Geologist to spend all of his time as the head of the rapidly expanding Geology Department at our State University.

"The oil and gas commission will consist of five members of staggered terms, all appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate.

"The Industrial Commission does not now have the benefit of experienced oil men on the commission. In order that there might be experienced oil men on the commission, this bill provides that two of the members shall be engaged in the oil and gas industry, one as a representative of a large or major oil company and the other an independent producer. The other three members shall be representatives of the public and shall in no way be engaged in oil production or gas exploration or related fields.

"The bill fixes their compensation of $25 a day plus expenses.

"The commission shall appoint a director and may employ whatever personnel as may be necessary and fix their compensation within the limits of the legislative appropriation.

"This House Bill No. 699 in no way amends any of the present oil and gas conservation laws."

Rep. Wolf moved that the remarks of Rep. Streibel on House Bill No. 699 be printed in the House Journal, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Streibel: "The Industrial Commission has administered good conservation practices and the industry has adhered to and applied this approach. As the industry develops in the future we can, perhaps, expand to include field geologists and a full time central administrative agency under the Industrial Commission. The present Industrial Commission, however, can adequately satisfy the present administrative needs of the oil and gas industry in North Dakota.

"The basic problem confronting oil and gas development in North Dakota does not stem from poor administration or poor field management or poor technical approach, but rather no market or outlet.

"Can anyone assure us of a market on the other end of this supply? To date all we have heard is supply and distribution, it's about time we concentrated our efforts on market development. We've heard a lot of talk about a new board. The crux of the whole matter appears to be one personality pitting himself against an appointed official on the present State Administration. I would like to remind this assembly that just last year the entire Congressional delegation from North Dakota, four Republicans, attempted to lower and curtail the import of oil from Canada and utilize North Dakota oil. Senator Humphrey of our neighboring state to the East led an all out fight against this very worthwhile endeavor and was successful in defeating it. If we wish to sound the death knell on future development of this great industry, all we need do is send a few more Humphreys to Washington. Some facts and figures that all the taxpayers of North Dakota should be appraised of are:

1. A Republican-controlled legislature was foresighted enough to pass good legislation conserving oil and gas ten years before oil was discovered. When oil was discovered, we had the situation in hand from the beginning.
2. In 1953, a Republican-controlled legislature passed an even better statute to conserve oil and gas. This is the excellent statute under which we are now operating.
3. In less than eight years we have an integrated oil business in our state—from the oil in the ground to gasoline in your car.
4. We have over seventy fields in this state and over 1200 producing wells.
5. We have oil reserves in excess of 675,000,000 barrels with more being discovered each month.
6. Our Commission—an elected body—has applied the latest and most advanced techniques available to regulate the oil and gas production of this state. We did not make the mistakes of other states as we profited by their errors.
7. Our work in oil conservation has been recognized by the Interstate Oil Compact and recently our State Geologist, Dr. Wilson M. Laird, was elected as Vice Chairman of this body.

8. Our advanced administration of our oil conservation act has attracted companies to come to our state to spend their money looking for oil.
9. The oil industry has contributed much tax revenue to our state — over $2,000,000 in the last fiscal year alone from severance taxes. Over half of this went into the General Fund of the State with the rest going to the counties of origin.
10. From the standpoint of value, the oil industry is our second largest industry. Over 2,000 of our citizens are employed in the producing end of the business.
11. The total value of the oil produced last year (1958) was over $40,000,000.

“I have never heard such a character assassination of a public official as that delivered in this assembly this afternoon and I move that under House Rule No. 82 the remarks of Representative Burk be not printed in the House Journal.”

Rep. Link: "Now that Labor has been taken care of in the defeat of House Bills No. 859 and 858 by the Republican controlled majority of this House, the representatives of Labor, upon the invitation of this Republican majority, sat down with a committee selected by a caucus of this majority to work out a labor law in good faith. That good faith was not upheld by both sides that sat down for the past three or four weeks to write a Labor Relations Act.

"I am certainly disappointed that the legislature, in this House, has been deprived on a mere technicality, which was upheld by the majority of this House, from an opportunity to cast its vote either for or against the result of those deliberations. I say this because seventy-one members of this legislature voted to put that measure on the calendar. Had this technicality not been resorted to, to keep it off the calendar, that measure could have passed with fifty-seven votes.

"I say that the majority here, in insisting upon the technicality has deprived this legislature from casting its vote on one of the most important measures to come before this session of the legislature—something both parties promised, that they would do something about. And it is a shame that the majority had to resort to, and hide behind a mere technicality to deprive the membership of this legislature from that opportunity.

"I am terribly disappointed."

Rep. Fitch: "I am only going to say that in the thirty years that I have been in the House, the only one that reads the remarks in the journal, is the man that makes them."

Rep. Wolf moved that the House now stand recessed until 1:00 p.m., February 20, 1959, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Guy: "I requested an appeal from the decision of the Chair."

A call of the House was requested and granted.

Rep. Beede: "First of all I want to compliment highly, the members of the House Appropriations Committee and its chairman for a wonderful job on House Bill 501. As I remember it, I can't remember any other Appropriations Committee in the House that has hewed to the line and done as good a job as has our Appropriations Committee this year.

"In explaining my vote on House Bill No. 501, I may be out of order as I am explaining my vote on another measure.

"To start with, this involves about twenty-four million dollars. Our total anticipated income for the next biennium is something like thirty-six million. That represents nearly two-thirds of our surplus and the total amount we will realize and have on hand for the biennium is something over forty-seven million. So this represents a little over half of our General Fund, from which we have to make appropriations. The reason I voted against this, Mr. Speaker, is because the other day I was compelled to vote against another bill which provided for special education for crippled children. I hated to do that because I do feel very deeply their needs, but realizing, as I did, that we did not have the money to pay for this expanded program, I feel that having voted against this bill because I felt there is not the money to pay for crippled children, I could not consistently vote for over half of the General Fund for the institutions of higher learning. I am not against them and as a matter of fact, they need a lot more money."

House Bill No. 756. A Bill for an Act permitting employers, at their option to carry private Workmen's Compensation Insurance; specifying the terms and conditions under which the same may be done; providing for action of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau upon all controversial claims; permitting appeals from decisions of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau; Providing for liability of company or association insuring compensation, and requiring notice of election by employer to secure private insurance.

Which had been read.

Rep. Tweten moved that House Memorial Resolution No. 4 be adopted, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Streibel moved that the remarks of Dean Robertson be printed in the House Journal, which motion prevailed.

Dean Robertson: "Friends and Fellow-citizens:

"I use this term of address advisedly. For not only was this the salutation which George Washington used when he began his Farewell Address, but also I have the honor of numbering many of the members of the House and Senate of the 36th Legislative Assembly among my friends. And certainly we are all fellow-citizens together.

"I welcome this opportunity to address you on this 227th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, not so much in the hope that I may bring you instruction, but rather because it affords me an opportunity that few of your constituents ever have, of expressing our sincere appreciation to you for the work you are doing here in our behalf.

"And if at this stage in the session you feel that the work has become arduous—and I know it has—and if you think that your best-meant efforts are more maligned than praised, I invite you to reflect with me for the next few minutes in order that what you do here may be once more exalted. For if there is any value in memorializing a great American, it is chiefly in identifying the role he played in the drama of his day with the actions we take in our own setting, here and now. There is a thread that runs through our history, straight and true, through 20 years, from young George Washington, a member of the Virginia Assembly at the age of twenty-six, to every member of this 36th Legislative Assembly in North Dakota. Your task here is neither more nor less than an extension of what was begun by Washington and his fellow burgesses, different in character perhaps, but not in value. To help you see that identification—more important, to help you feel it—is my mission here today.

"As you consider the life of George Washington—and as a former professor of American Literature my viewpoint has been somewhat different from that of the historian—you are impressed by the fact that his experience as a 'state' legislator had much to do with his later success. After having been defeated once, he was elected a member of what Virginia called the House of Burgesses in 1758, and it was then he began to learn the strange behavior of legislative assemblies. He learned how to deal with committees and how to win the good opinion of his political elders who dominated the councils of the Colony. The realities of political life taught young Washington that respect and candor were indispensable in dealing with lawmakers, and that their good will, once it was merited, was not withdrawn from a man they trusted.

"These were valuable lessons in 18th century Virginia, just as they are valuable lessons in 20th century North Dakota. What the youthful legislator learned may well explain the patience which he later displayed when dealing with the Congress. As a legislator, it may well be said of Washington, as Plutarch wrote of Cato: 'He had not taken to public life . . . for the sake of fame or personal advantage. He chose it because it was the function proper to a good man.' This statement, I might add, may also be made of members of this legislature here today.

"I said a few moments ago that the value in a memorial service of this kind lies in our ability to identify ourselves with the hero we worship and so somehow make our own lives a little more sublime. In order to do this, however, we have first to realize that our hero was, after all, a human being like ourselves. In American folklore Washington is known only as a child or a general—a sort of priggish little hero of the cherry tree episode or a Commander in Chief and the Father of his country. His example was made so illustrious to us that it lost its inspirational value. We are all conscious of our own faults, and when we are furnished a model that is proclaimed to be perfect, we are more apt to resent him than we are to try to imitate him. For this reason, I hope you will be relieved instead of shocked when I tell you that Washington was sometimes violent and emotional—a human being and not a monument in frozen flesh.

“We learn from his voluminous accounts and diaries, for example, that he liked a glass of wine. He was fond of dancing, and went to the theater, even on Sundays. He sometimes played cards for money and carefully entered his gains and losses in his accounts. He was something of a lady’s man. ‘He can be downright impudent sometimes,’ wrote a Southern lady; and then she added, ‘Such impudence, Fanny, as you and I like.’ Gilbert Stuart, who painted the famous portrait that has given us our lasting impression of austerity, said Washington’s features showed strong passions and that, had he not learned self-restraint, his temper would have been savage.

“It was only through the severest self-discipline that Washington attained his characteristic poise and serenity. His discipline came from his environment, but most of all from his own will. According to Samuel Eliot Morison, ‘He apprehended the great truth that man can only be free through mastery of himself.’

“Morison and others have pointed out that farming was a great factor in developing Washington’s self-discipline. It was as a farmer that he developed those qualities that made him our first soldier and first statesman of America. For a planter’s life in early Virginia was not as romantic as we might picture it as we stroll through the beautiful grounds of Mount Vernon today. As a farmer Washington had his battles, as we do in North Dakota, with drouth, insect pests, and cattle diseases. His life at Mt. Vernon called for constant experiment, labor, and patience. When he realized he could not produce the best grade of tobacco, he diversified by experimenting with wheat—six or eight bushels to the acre—and built the grist mill you can still see standing there on the grounds.

“When Washington needed a carpenter or a bricklayer or a gardner, he had to buy him in the form of a convict or a Negro slave. Such help required constant supervision and often neglected things. In fact at one time his neglected cattle gave so little milk that Washington, with one hundred cows, had to buy his butter.

“Washington, when he could be at Mt. Vernon, was a good farmer—inventive, enterprising, and painstaking. He kept such careful accounts that you can even find recorded the cost of repairing a hair pin, or the fact that there are 884,800 seeds of ‘New River Grass’ to the pound. When he died he owned 60,000 acres and was one of the richest men in America, but it was achieved by overcoming difficulties which ruined many of his neighbors. As a farmer he showed executive ability and the power that comes from planning ahead. And from farming in Virginia, as so many have from farming in North Dakota, he learned from failure and grew in stature from loss and adversity. As Morison says, 'A simple gentleman from Virginia, with no extraordinary talents, had so disciplined himself that he could lead an insubordinate and divided people into ordered liberty and enduring union.'

"Here, then, was the very human sort of fellow who was the central figure in the American Revolution. In times of crisis and despair, as in December, 1776, and at Valley Forge, he became the very focal point of the rebellion. His own generation was convinced that without his leadership the war could not have been won. At the end of the conflict his prestige was increased by his rejection of a scheme to set up a powerful state by making him king. Washington, as presiding officer of the Constitutional Convention, was the most important of the framers of that document, although he seldom spoke in debates. His willingness to become the first President made very much easier the establishment of a republican form of government.

"Thomas Jefferson wrote: 'His integrity was most pure, his justice the most inflexible I have ever known, no motives of interest ... of friendship or hatred, being able to bias his decision. He was, indeed, in every sense of the words, a wise, a good, and a great man.'

"As you read Washington's writings you come upon some of the little human touches of which I speak. In the Address to the Officers at Newburgh, for example, an extremely important speech for in it he appealed to the soldiers to be obedient to Congress and thus cleared the way for a republican form of government, he begins in this fashion: 'Gentlemen, you will permit me to put on my spectacles, for I have not only grown gray, but almost blind, in the service of my country.' This little address, it is said, with the mode and manner of delivering it, drew tears from many of the officers.

"Most of you, I am sure, are familiar with Washington's famous Farewell Address, with its warnings about avoiding entangling foreign alliances and about the dangers of the alternate domination of one political faction over another. 'The common and continual mischiefs of the spirit of party,' he said, 'are sufficient to make it the interest and duty of a wise people to discourage and restrain it.'

"There are two important ideas expressed in that address which have received little attention, and which speak to us here in North Dakota on February 23, 1959, in clear and certain tones. The first is this: 'Reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principle. 'Tis substantially true that virtue or morality is a necessary spring of popular government.'

"Carved over the gateway of many of our colleges is the inscription: 'Know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.' Many of you here will recognize that this is an incomplete quotation. The complete quotation reads: 'If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed, and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.' There is a very strong commitment implied here, a commitment that I am sure George Washington was well aware of. Incidentally, last Sunday evening I attended a universal prayer meeting held in our Student Union building at the University. Students of all faiths joined together, with students of other lands, and prayers were led by a student from Guam, from Hungary, from Norway, and from other countries. It was not the sort of thing that makes the headlines, like hockey games and winter carnivals, and I wish more people could have seen it.

"Speaking of colleges brings me to the other important message Washington had for us in his last address. 'Promote, then, as an object of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge,' he said. 'In proportion as the structure of a government gives force to public opinion, it is essential that public opinion should be enlightened.' Among his other papers we find frequent references to one of Washington's cherished projects—the building of a national university in the Federal City.

"I am sure you are familiar with the fact that Washington's neighbor, Thomas Jefferson, built the University of Virginia, and that what he wanted carved on his tomb was not that he had been President of the United States, but that he was the founder of the University of Virginia. You can read the inscription if you visit his beautiful home at Charlottesville.

"These wise men saw, even in their early day, that the hope of the new country lay in higher education. And what was true in their day is even more true in our day of guided missiles and jet propulsion.

"Let me give you just one very dramatic example. When Washington was about six years old, the first white man, Verendrye, visited what is now North Dakota. You are probably familiar with his description of the Indians he found living here. It is not difficult to imagine that those Indians froze while looking for fuel in the savage winters, although they may actually have scuffed their mocassins on a black substance. That substance we know now is lignite coal—billions of tons of it, probably our richest resource in North Dakota. But it took education to know what to do with it, and with its hundreds of by-products. This one example is overwhelming evidence that, with all our wealth—and there may be vastly more to come—we could scarcely have scratched the surface in North Dakota if it had not been for education.

"Washington was a pioneer, just as the people who founded this state of North Dakota, were pioneers, and in a very real sense they shared his courage and his vision. I am constantly thrilled by the story of the founding of the University of North Dakota. Before this was a state, back in territorial days, only a few short years after Custer left Fort Lincoln to meet Sitting Bull, the pioneers here paused in their work of fighting Indians and breaking the sod to establish a University. When I think of the sacrifices those people were willing to make, our task of supporting and improving what they started, complex as it may seem, is indeed small by comparison.

"As I said at the beginning, our job—the work you are doing in this legislature—is different, but none the less a continuation of what was started by Washington two centuries ago. As you approach Mount Vernon from Washington, D.C., today, you are at first impressed by these differences. You would probably be riding in a modern automobile, a fast-moving fabrication of steel and rubber. As you pass the White House, you may see one of the helicopters rise from the south lawn, with the President of the United States as a passenger. To the east is the white dome of the Capitol, and you pass the Lincoln Memorial, white and classic in its architecture. As you cross Memorial Bridge you see Arlington, the burial ground of our heroes of too many wars. Near Fort Myer you may know that there are replicas of guided missiles which can go 3000 miles an hour, straight up. Overhead are great planes approaching the runways at the National Airport, and you pass the Pentagon, where our generals are concerned, not only with national defense as Washington was, but with global strategy. The smooth-surfaced highway you follow is an Evacuation Route to be used in case of a thermonuclear bombing raid. How strange they would all seem to George Washington.

"These are the differences. And yet, if you can visit Mount Vernon at your leisure, as we did last summer, you can also feel the link with the past. We were staying only a few blocks from Mount Vernon at the home of Colonel Donn Hart, formerly from North Dakota, and now with the Marine Corps stationed at the Pentagon. His home is in a new housing project, one of many that lately have filled the countryside continuously from Washington to Mount Vernon and beyond. Because we were so near—indeed we passed it every day—we could choose our own time and pace when we visited the most hallowed dwelling place in the United States. Even so, I found that I could not walk through the gates and up the broad lane and suddenly project myself into 18th Century America. I tried to imagine what it was like when young Colonel Washington, in his red and blue regimentals, brought his bride there, the young widow Custis. I tried to imagine his visits there with Lafayette—the grand style of the day, with servants in livery and the fine horses, driving with six in a carriage. But the day was warm, and I had left the comfort of a modern, air-conditioned home. And—more wonders to George Washington!—I had been watching on television, our Marines landing in Lebanon, an event that had taken place only the day before on the other side of the world. As I walked through the beautifully-kept grounds, under the old trees, I realized that high overhead man-made moons were circling the earth.

"What, I kept asking myself, is our legacy from George Washington? What could we possibly point to in 20th century America and say, 'This we inherited from George Washington.' Certainly not television, nor the Pentagon, nor helicopters. What then was his legacy? The shining example of a very human and a very great man. It could have been said of him, 'As long as he lived he was the guiding star of a brave nation and when he died the little children cried in the streets.'

"This is our heritage. And the most important message that this early farmer and legislator from Virginia left for you who are legislators now is that one of the things you cannot inherit is democracy. The monarchy that

Washington fought against could be inherited. The dictatorship that was in Germany and now is in Russia can be inherited. But democracy must be reborn in each generation in the hearts of the people. To its cause George Washington was willing to give his time, his energy, his very life. To its cause he was willing to pledge his life, his fortune, his sacred honor to achieve. But he recognized that the success of this new way of living, its hope in the future, would depend upon qualities of personal character in every citizen—in you and in me. And the value in a memorial service like this one, I think, comes in the inspiration it may give us to rise above personal gain and petty prejudice in our attempt to match this man's inner devotion to the common good.

"Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday we also celebrated this month, said it this way: 'Fellow-citizens, we cannot escape history. We . . . will be remembered in spite of ourselves. No personal significance or insignificance can spare one or another of us. The fiery trial through which we pass will light us down, in honor or dishonor, to the latest generation.'

"Well, but you may say, Washington and Lincoln could be heroes because they were living in heroic days. Times are different now. To this I reply with Emerson: 'This time, like all times, is a good one if we but know what to do with it. For the sun shines today also; and afterwards, the night and her stars.' "

Rep. Tough moved that the joint session do now adjourn, which motion prevailed.

The House recessed to the Call of the Chair.

Rep. Tweten moved that House Memorial resolution No. 4, be printed in the House Journal, which motion prevailed.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

February 21, 1959

Members of the House of Representatives
Thirty-Sixth Legislative Assembly
House Chambers
Bismarck, North Dakota

Greetings:

Today I signed House Bill No. 546 and House Bill No. 640. These bills have been filed with the Secretary of State.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN E. DAVIS
Governor

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES

House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

February 18, 1959

Gerald L. Stair
Chief Clerk of the House
State Capitol
Bismarck, North Dakota

Dear Mr. Stair:

I have received a copy of House Concurrent Resolution G and since that time have been in contact with various officers of the Corps of Engineers.

I have been informed that they are still working on the Pembilier Dam and Reservoir project. It appears that this project is considered marginal at this time and that more contact with local people on the matter of irrigation will be necessary before a final report can be given.

Also it appears that benefits might go to Canada and as such the project will, of course, be referred to the International Trade Commission. No exact determination of the amount of benefit Canada would receive has been calculated so I must conclude that a final report cannot be contemplated in the near future.

I shall endeavor to do all I can to expedite this matter in line with your Resolution.

Sincerely,
 QUENTIN N. BURDICK

EIGHTH ORDER OF BUSINESS

Rep. Beede moved that the House reconsider the action by which Senate Bill No. 213 was indefinitely postponed, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Beede moved that Senate Bill No. 213 be re-referred to the Committee on Political Subdivisions, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Streibel: "We have a young man with us in the House today and I move that the courtesy of the floor be extended to him and that a committee of two be appointed to escort him to the rostrum for a few words. This young man I refer to is the newly elected chairman of the North Dakota Young Republicans, Dave Nething, from Jamestown."

The motion of Rep. Streibel prevailed, and the Speaker appointed as such committee, Reps. Streibel and Lindberg.

Rep. Streibel moved that the remarks of Mr. Nething be printed in the House Journal, which motion prevailed.

Mr. Nething: "Political activity must be the call and the duty of all younger persons in our enlightened and dynamic age. This is true regardless of political affiliation. This activity is going to be stimulated by the people closely connected with politics. Included in this group are the state officials, the party officials and most important, the people who make the laws, you legislators.

"Your stimulus as legislators, is going to effect the desire for these younger and newer individuals. To impress politics on individuals by simply trying to be 'nice guys' will not create the atmosphere necessary to retain a life long influence on these persons.

"Instead it is vitally necessary for you to set out definite 'party principles'. After these principles have been set out to these 'political freshmen', it is necessary to show them that 'party principles' are of the utmost and must always be followed in order to perpetuate our great political system, regardless of the personal cost to you. Those of you who sacrifice principles for 'shady and selfish politics' deserve never to be re-elected and deserve to have your people think of you for what you are. It will be much better to have your friends and neighbors point to you and say 'there is a man of conviction and principles' instead of 'a man without a party'.

"Our history will long remember and inscribe the deeds of the legislator who fought for principles. And furthermore the individuals, the new persons you brought into politics, will never forsake you."

Rep. Fitch moved that a committee of two be appointed to escort former Speaker of the House, William Crockett, to the rostrum and that he be asked to make a few remarks to the House. The motion of Rep. Fitch prevailed and the Speaker appointed as such committee, Reps. Fitch and Beede.

Rep. Wolf moved that the remarks of Mr. Crockett be printed in the House Journal, which motion prevailed.

Mr. Crockett: "Mr. Speaker and Members of the House of Representatives—when Mr. Fitch introduced me, I didn't hear everything but if I got it right, he said 'just a few remarks'. He is getting even with me for the years that I used to sit opposite him and lots of times he wouldn't have let me make a single remark, if he had been able to stop me.

"I appreciate this. I know your problems and that you are trying to solve them. In my opinion, you are not going to solve them for the reason that people won't let you. They are demanding more all the time and how can you solve them, when they want more from the government? I think Ken Fitch is letting down—he was always against government being in business. It seems to me that state and federal governments are getting into business and taking all our rights and liberties away from us. And on top of this, it is pretty costly and the best government is the closer to home you can get.

"Now, I ain't going to give you no advice. I think you get plenty of advice from outsiders. Maybe a little too much but I want to say that if we get less government and you leave us hay-shakers alone, we will get along better. That is my opinion.

"And I just want to say one more thing—you have always been so good to me every time I come here—but things look strange to me. I see Fitch—and there is one thing I can't think is right here—Beede, there, ain't smoking that pipe. Did you fellows wean him off it?

"I only see a few faces that I know—Fitch, Beede, Miss Haugland, Albert Schmalenberger—and two or three more—are all that are left that I sat in the House with, and it makes me feel kind of lonely.

"Oh, I see Ralph has his pipe. Has Fitch quit smoking cigars?

"Thank you again. There is one thing that I wish for all of you—and that is the best of health—and thank you very kindly."

Honorable Hjalmar Nygaard
Thirty-Sixth Legislative Assembly
House Chamber, State Capitol
Bismarck, North Dakota

Dear Hjalmar:

This is to acknowledge and thank you for sending me a copy of House Concurrent Resolution H, endorsing and approving the Bureau of Reclamation project plan report on the Garrison Diversion Unit and supporting and urging early enactment of desirable and needed modifying and confirming legislation authorizing the construction thereof.

You may be interested in a copy of the letter which I recently sent the President, urging that the Garrison Diversion Unit report be granted early clearance and approval by the Bureau of the Budget and the Executive Departments concerned. I am enclosing a copy of this letter, together with my remarks made in the House earlier this week, pointing up the need for early action on the Garrison Development Program.

I have also written to the Chairman of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, asking for a hearing on my Garrison Diversion bill (H.R. 1891 is a companion bill). It is my hope that this hearing can be arranged for sometime in April although I don't have any definite commitment on it.

With kindest personal regards, I am

Sincerely yours,
DON L. SHORT
Member of Congress

February 17, 1959

The President
The White House
Washington 25, D. C.

My dear Mr. President:

I am in receipt today of a copy of a letter sent to you by the Governor of our State of North Dakota, the Honorable John E. Davis.

The Garrison Diversion project is without question the most important consideration facing the people of North Dakota. Our state has a great potential for future development, both agriculturally and industrially, providing facilities can be provided to use the water now stored within our state in the Garrison Reservoir. This program is very large in all of its aspects, and would take many, many years to bring to completion. I believe it is vital to the entire Missouri Valley power and irrigation picture that this program be approved as quickly as possible in order that proper consideration can be given to the use of power and water in all categories and all areas, in plans for the future.

Two of North Dakota's larger towns; namely, Minot and Devils Lake, are facing a very critical water shortage for municipal purposes. The Garrison Diversion project offers about the only possible solution to their acute water problems. Fargo and Grand Forks could also receive great benefit if some additional stream flow could be provided in the Red River to minimize their water pollution problem.

The potential benefit to our state's agricultural economy is almost beyond computation. It should also be kept in mind that actual increased production of agricultural products on irrigated land in our state is many years away, and that most crops that would be produced are not among those now in over-supply. As time goes on and our population increases, I believe there is no question of the vital need for this increased agricultural production capacity.

North Dakota has a great stake in the Missouri Valley program. Our state has contributed over half a million acres of its best river bottom lands in providing a site for the Garrison Reservoir and a part of the Oahe Reservoir in South Dakota. We feel it is only a fair exchange that our state be assured its proper share of the potential benefits from these reservoirs.

May I respectfully point out that it is critically important that the Bureau of the Budget transmit their project report to Congress in order that hearings can be started. Any assistance that you may see fit to give us in this matter will certainly be sincerely appreciated.

Very respectfully,
DON L. SHORT
Member of Congress

Rep. Wolf moved that Senate Bill No. 166 be now referred to the Committee on Appropriations, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Strege requested that his remarks on Senate Bill No. 166 be printed in the House Journal.

Rep. Strege: "Mr. Speaker: Nowhere have I been able to find any authentic information which places any value whatsoever on a wheat commission. Public Law No. 480 does not even mention the words 'wheat commission'. P. L. 480 only applies when normal channels of trade don't work. In the past four years no wheat moved without some American $$ aid. In the past four years 1 billion, 348 million (1,348,000,000) bushels were exported.

"Multilateral and unilateral trade agreements with foreign countries are needed before we can successfully export our surplus grains. The International Wheat Agreement along with regulations by the Export-Import Banks and Foreign Currency Exchange rates naturally complicate exports which must be handled with an "over-all" picture in mind.

"Underdeveloped countries need our grain badly but cannot pay for these commodities. Their currency is practically worthless on the world market. For this reason the U. S. Congress has given approval to Public Law 480. In simple terms we accept their soft currency and spend it for air bases, libraries, student exchange plans—anything to get rid of it to their advantage and not ours. In every case, the U. S. loses various amounts of money on grain sold through Public Law 480. Public Law 480 in a certain sense provides for barter arrangements with other countries and has been reasonably successful in peddling our surplus grain abroad. The degree of success depends on the amount of cooperation between our Department of Agriculture, State Department, and foreign countries. I cannot believe that a North Dakota 'Wheat Commission' can possibly sell more wheat than this present government plan has been able to.

"There is so much promoting of wheat products at present, I cannot possibly see how a wheat commission can possibly sell more wheat at home. Therefore, I am voting against establishing a wheat commission."

Rep. Goebel moved that the remarks of Rep. Streibel on Senate Bill No. 166 be printed in the House journal, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Streibel: "Let us analyze just one facet of this operation, the economy facet in the State of Oregon itself. It is simple to deduct that the price feature coupled with the created export meant $40,800,000 additional annual income in the pocket books of Oregon wheat producers not to mention the accrual from home markets and consumption.

"What could this same $40,800,000 mean to the economy of the state of North Dakota in this year 1958? Here's what it could mean in a very tangible manner, add another $6,200,000 to it and you would have a fund large enough to operate every department of state we have in North Dakota. Yes, that includes, executive, judicial, legislative, institutional, welfare, highways and you can go on until you've named them all!!

"You say, 'Oh well, Oregon has a unique situation, must be their Pacific Ocean coastline, the proximity of Japan and so forth.' What about Kansas and Nebraska? Kansas and Nebraska, on a 50-50 basis, contributed $45,000 to receive $355,000 of P.L. 480 funds to promote their wheat in European countries, Kansas and Nebraska commissions likewise contributed $7,000 to match $140,000 of P.L. 480 funds to promote their wheat in Latin American countries. This type of programing is very tangible, the results very justifying and the type that 'jingle' in the pockets of every farmer classified as a wheat producer in the states of Oregon, Kansas and Nebraska. I see no reason why the wheat producing farmers of our great state, and I certainly am among them, cannot also avail themselves of the potential that exists in the establishment of a wheat commission.

"I rise in support of Senate Bill 166. Many arguments have been advanced in opposition to this measure, many of which fall in the category of supposition. I shall base my arguments solely on the records of a wheat commission presently operating in other states.

"Without a Wheat Commission, North Dakota is unable to apply for and use funds available under Public Law 480 because some organization has to match funds with the Foreign Agricultural Service who puts up the currency of a particular foreign country.

"Public Law 480 allows foreign countries to buy from the United States using their own currency. This currency, is then in return, available to the United States for the promotion of U.S. products in that country and many states have been applying for and using these funds.

"An example of how P.L. 480 funds are currently being used is found in Oregon:

- (1) Oregon last year used $874,333 of P.L. 480 funds, $134,332 foreign funds and only $65,052 of their own commission funds.

"This fact of dollars and cents is revealing in itself but couple that with their results and you have something very startling in nature. Here is what Oregon accomplished:

- a. Exported 204,000,000 bushels of wheat!!
- b. Reduced their carryover from 135,000,000 to 55,000,000 bushels!!, and
- c. Held their market price at least 20 cents over loan!!

"I wonder if it is coincidental that the opponents of this measure just happen to be those interests presently involved in the storage program. This is quite easy to understand. They can see their storage program being placed in jeopardy. If the wheat commission is successful in disposing of the surplus bushels, they will not have a source of tapping the program for 16¢ a bushel. Consequently their building program will vanish. I feel the interests of all the taxpayers can be served by passage of Senate Bill 166 whereas defeat of this measure will merely give an assist to this grain storage monopoly."

Rep. Kelly moved that the absent members be excused, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Wolf moved that the House do now adjourn, which motion prevailed.

GERALD L. STAIR, Chief Clerk.

EIGHTH ORDER OF BUSINESS

Rep. Wolf moved that the House stand recessed for twenty minutes, which motion prevailed.

The House reconvened at the expiration of the recess and the Speaker announced that the House would be on the fifth order of business.

Rep. Sorlie moved that the following report be printed in the House Journal, which motion prevailed.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES

Mr. Speaker: Your Committee on Legislative Research Resolutions desires to make the following report to the House of Representatives in order to explain and report in the journal the basis of the committee's action in regard to recommending the passage of various resolutions calling for studies by the legislative research committee.

Your committee met with a similar committee of the Senate and both committees jointly considered all resolutions of both the House and the Senate directing studies by the legislative research committee. The joint committee found that the number of resolutions for study by the legislative research committee was substantially in excess of the amount of work that the legislative research committee could handle during the coming biennium within the reasonable limits of personnel, budget and the time of legislators serving upon the legislative research committee and its subcommittees. It was therefor necessary for the committee to recommend the indefinite postponement of a number of resolutions even though they were meritorious. Several of the resolutions are recommended for indefinite postponement because they duplicate in part studies provided for in other resolutions. Others were recommended for indefinite postponement not because of lack of merits in the resolutions but because the degree of urgency of immediate study was not as great as some other studies.

It was agreed by both committees that the following House and Senate Resolutions had both sufficient merit and sufficient degree of urgency to warrant their study during the coming biennium by the legislative research committee:

HCR-K Feasibility of providing a single set of school district laws to govern all school districts within the state in place of the four separate sets of school district laws presently found in our statutes.

HCR-X An overall study of all tax laws and the tax structure of the state in cooperation with the state tax department and with the assistance of the University and Agricultural College and such other technical personnel as may be necessary. It directs the appropriation committees to increase the appropriation of the Legislative Research Committee by an amount not less than $30,000 to carry on the study.

HCR-A2 Directs the committee to make a review of oil and gas property laws with special attention being given to the protection of correlative rights of land owners.

HCR-Z1 Directs the committee to study the practice of the sale of commodities by manufacturers, jobbers and wholesalers in competition with their retail dealers, determine the extent of such activities and their effect upon the various trades and industries of the state, and to determine whether such activities constitute unfair trade practices of a type that should be regulated by the state.

SCR-II A study of the physical and instructional facilities of the state training school in order to determine the suitability of the present program for the rehabilitation and education of youngsters at the training school.

SCR-G Directs the committee to study and consider the problems involved in the establishment of an efficient program on special education, including a determination of the number of children in the state needing special education facilities and the different types of the special educational needs, the expense involved in providing such facilities, the possibility of consolidating present facilities, the method of defining fields in which the state should carry on such activities, and those fields that should be left to the political subdivisions and the extent to which the state can afford to participate in such a program.

SCR-K Directs the committee to study the operation and business practices of the Mill and Elevator Association, the scope of its operations, the feasibility of expanding or restricting its services, and to make an appraisal of the potential contribution by the association to the economy of the state.

SCR-O Directs the committee to study civil defense, government operations, both state and local, and laws relating thereto in order to determine their adequacy in providing the greatest possible protection for the lives and property of the people of the state in the event of natural disaster and foreign attack.

SCR-V Directs the committee to study the feasibility of providing a central licensing agency to handle the licensing of all trades and occupations.

SCR-W Directs the committee to study and review the laws and policies of the state pertaining to the investment of state funds, to consider the merits of broadening the types of investments permitted by law and the feasibility of establishing an investment pool system with professional type management for the purpose of providing proper diversification of investments, obtaining the greatest possible return to the state consistent with safe investment practices and methods of equitable distribution of income among the various funds participating in such investment pool.

SCR-Z Directs the committee to consider the desirability and feasibility of consolidating or coordinating the activities of the State Department of Health and the State Medical Center in order to provide economies, efficiencies and further improvement of public health. This is actually a governmental reorganization study.

SCR-AA Directs the committee to study the feasibility of centralizing the administration of various agricultural activities now administered by separate boards, commissions and institutions, under the jurisdiction of agriculture and labor.

In addition the committee was cognizant of the fact that House Bill No. 723 calls for a study of the mental health program of the State of North Dakota, and of the various departments and agencies working in the field in order to determine means of reorganizing or obtaining coordination of their work.

House Bill No. 747 calls for a complete study of school district reorganization plans on a statewide basis.

It was the committee's opinion that the study called for in Senate Concurrent Resolution "EE" could be included in the study provided in Senate Concurrent Resolution "W". In addition a study in Senate Concurrent Resolution "U" relating to the feasibility of a system of school financing based on a flat percentage assessment of net income could be included in the general tax study provided for in House Concurrent Resolution "X".

In addition to the studies included in resolutions recommended for passage, the committees acting jointly recommend that the legislative research committee carry on two additional studies as follows:

1. The study of the salary scales of personnel and administrative personnel of the various institutions of higher learning in the state and to consider the establishment of state wide salary scales and classifications for similar positions in the various institutions for the primary purpose of aiding the Legislative Assembly in making decisions to equitably appropriate funds for salaries in the various institutions of higher learning.
2. A study of the feasibility of returning to the state secondary highway system, highways which have in recent years been dropped from such system and transferred to the various county highway systems and methods of constructing and maintaining any such highways which may be returned to the state secondary system.

It is the intent of the committee that an adoption of this report would constitute a directive to the legislative research committee to make the two additional studies recommended in this report.

Rep. Haugland moved that the report of the majority on Senate Bill No. 94 be adopted.

Rep. Doherty moved a substitute motion that the report of the minority on Senate Bill No. 94 be substituted for the report of the majority which motion lost, on a division vote.

Rep. Streibel: "I rise in support of Senate Bill No. 94. Before I comment on the principle involved in this measure relative to the relations between employer and employee I think we should review the history of the full crew law. Section 49-1309 of the 1943 Code was passed by the 1919 Legislature while the railroads were still controlled and operated by the Federal Government after World War I. No private management was in existence to oppose the bill and the Federal Government was not interested. The Federal Administrator ignored the law and the threats of the North Dakota Railroad Commission and continued to operate freight trains in North Dakota with two brakemen. It was only after the railroads were returned to private management that the third brakeman was added to the train crew.

"The first question advanced by the opponents of this measure is, 'Why have railroads waited 40 years to seek the amendment of this law?'"

"The reasons are several:

1. The gravity of the problem has increased with the decline in railroad earnings and the rise in motor carrier competition. The competition is not required by law to employ unneeded men.
2. The progressively large increases in the pay of railroad brakemen has made the employment of surplus brakemen increasingly burdensome.
3. The people now realize that railroads are burdened with costly regulations and outmoded statutory requirements. The people recognize that 'feather bedding' is an economical waste which is borne by them in high transportation costs.
4. Technological changes in railroading have eliminated any purpose which a third brakeman may have served.

"Next let us look at the full crew status in other states. Opponents of this measure would lead you to believe that the 'full crew' law is commonplace, this is far from accurate.

"Eight other states, Arizona, Arkansas, Indiana, Nevada, New York, Oregon and Washington have surplus brakemen laws, but do not require three brakemen on through freights.

"Since January 1942 to January 1 of this year, 130 bills in 30 state legislatures have been offered for the purpose of extending the 'feather bed' principal. In the present session of the legislatures in Montana, South Dakota and Iowa bills for 'full crew laws' as requested by the unions asked for only two brakemen. The Montana legislature has already rejected the bill.

"Next let us look at the safety factor relative to interstate commerce. Opponents of Senate Bill No. 94 placed great emphasis on the item of safety in their testimony before the House Committee on Industry and Business.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission makes rules and regulations for the operation of railroads. These rules are made after industry-wide surveys and studies. All such rules are rigidly enforced with the help of a large force of full time inspectors in the field. The Interstate Commerce Commission has never made a rule requiring any railroad to employ three brakemen on its freight trains.

"All accidents of any consequence in railroad operation are investigated by Interstate Commerce Commission personnel. An official report is made and filed. This report includes recommendations to avoid recurrence of such accidents. No I.C.C. report has ever recommended the employment of an additional brakeman to prevent accidents.

"At the House hearing, a witness for the unions (J. A. Munda) quoted at length from a pamphlet concerning accident statistics and railroad operation. This pamphlet was not an I.C.C. document. It was part of an application prepared by two railroad unions requesting some changes in I.C.C. regulations. The statistics were compiled by the unions. The I.C.C. rejected the application.

"Next let us look further at testimony given by Railroad Union Representatives. Bernard J. Delmore, a conductor for Northern Pacific at Jamestown testified at great lengths and in minute detail regarding the duties of a conductor. Mr. Delmore argued that the freight train conductor is so busy with his clerical duties that he is not able to assist the brakeman in maintaining a look-out along the train for hot boxes or other defective equipment. In modern railroading, the conductor's paper work is reduced virtually to zero. Here is what a freight train looks like on paper. It is entirely prepared by teletype machine in the yard house by other personnel and handed to the conductor. All he has to do is fill in his name and departure time at the top of the sheet.

"Next let us look at the findings of the Presidential Emergency Board resulting from the repeal of the surplus brakeman law in California.

"The Trainmen Union caused a strike notice to be served and a Presidential Emergency Board was appointed to look into the matter. The findings of the Board dated September 1, 1949, included this statement:

"The demand, as made by the Union, would undoubtedly result in considerable feather-bedding, that is, the employment of unneeded brakemen. This is because the demand is on a system-wide basis and adopts rigid standards for application, based on arbitrary conditions, such as where the train carries 40 cars, or more, without regard to the necessity for a third brakeman. There are many through trains operated on the system, carrying 90 cars or more, which run through from terminal to terminal without a stop, and where there would be nothing whatever for the third brakeman to do; except perhaps in the very infrequent case of a break-in-two or derailment. And even in those situations, in protected territory he generally would not be necessary, although he could help. The same may be true of other trains operating in double track or in centralized traffic control territory.'

"The report also included this finding: 'Whatever may have been the merit of the laws passed by the various States they can no longer be justified. Trains of seventy cars are now commonplace. Indeed, many trains with two brakemen crews are now operated with as many as 150 cars with entire safety and efficiency.'

"My closing statement on Senate Bill No. 94 is in the form of two questions, 'What other business enterprise is required, by statute, to maintain operational expenditures, which in the opinion of management contributes only to increased consumer costs and nothing toward expedient operation?'"

A call of the House was requested and granted.

So the motion of Rep. Wolf was declared carried.

Rep. Guy requested that his remarks be printed in the House Journal.

Rep. Guy: "The original House Concurrent Resolution "K 1" was introduced by Representatives Link, Guy, Skaar and Anderson of McHenry.

"The resolution reads as follows: 'A concurrent Resolution memorializing the President of the United States to be cognizant of the serious plight of agriculture and associated industries in North Dakota.

" 'Whereas, agricultural commodity prices have been continually declining; and whereas, agricultural costs have been constantly increasing; and whereas, we believe the farm program and philosophy of the Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson, is not in the best interests of North Dakota farmers and business; and whereas, the prestige of the American farmer has sunk to an all-time low under the administration of the United States Department of Agriculture under Ezra Taft Benson.

" ' Now, therefore, be it resolved, by the House of Representatives of the State of North Dakota, the Senate concurring therein: That the President of the United States request the resignation of the Secretary of Agriculture, Ezar Taft Benson.

" ' Be it further resolved, that a copy hereof be mailed by the Secretary of State to the President of the United States.'

"This resolution has been in the Agricultural Committee for over a month. In an attempt to get the majority's favorable consideration on the original resolution, the minority did agree to the amendment of this resolution to the extent that lines nine through twelve be stricken. Therefore the issue before us now on acceptance of the minority report is very simple—it is whether this legislative body should memorialize the President of the United States on its feelings toward the present Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson.

"A vote for the minority report is an acknowledgment of the detrimental situation in North Dakota in agriculture, brought about by the policies and programs of the Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson.

"And I would ask that on the vote for this resolution, that there be a roll call vote, and that it be included in the record of the House Journal."

United States Senate Committee on the Judiciary.

March, 4, 1959

Hon. Hjalmar C. Nygaard
Speaker of the House
House of Representatives
Bismarck, North Dakota

My Dear Mr. Speaker:

Mrs. Langer was deeply touched by the kind and generous Resolution passed by the House of Representatives and concurred in by the Senate. I know I speak for her when I say that her meetings with the people of North Dakota while, as my wife she was the first lady of the State, meant much to her. She loves the people of North Dakota and has missed them while we are here in Washington. She also notes appreciatively that the Resolution is number I. That means that it was one of the first thoughts of the Legislature at their meeting in January of this year.

She had hoped to thank you, Mr. Speaker and the members of the House and the Senate, for your thoughtfulness and generosity in her time of stress; however, just at this time she does not feel able to do so. She has, therefore, asked me to express to you members of the House and to the Senate her deep appreciation and sincere thanks for passing House Concurrent Resolution I. It means much to her now; it will help her in her illness and brings to her the hope that she will, before long, have the opportunity to express her thanks in person.

At the same time, she wants you to know that now and in the years to come she wishes for every member of the House and Senate the same happiness and comfort within their family circles that she has enjoyed in hers.

Mr. Speaker, may I join with her in acknowledging in her behalf the understanding and the warmth that the Resolution brings to her and to me.

This letter carries my very best wishes and gratitude to you all for remembering my beloved wife in such a thoughtful and generous way.

Very Sincerely,
William Langer

FOURTH ORDER OF BUSINESS

Rep. Fitch: "Mr. Speaker, I have a telegram from the senior United States Senator, William Langer and I am going to ask that the Chief Clerk read the telegram and then ask that it be printed in the House Journal."

Rep. Fitch moved that the telegram from Senator Langer be printed in the House Journal, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Link: "For the record, I wish to state that I do not believe the so-called 'Photograph' bill, was intended to embarrass any public official now in state or federal office.

"The measure may have had the greatest effect as regards candidates seeking office for the first time. When an official of long public service seeks re-election, it is his record that determines whether or not he receives the support of the voters.

"I would further state that it is my opinion that if the intent of the proposed bill (which was voted down) was violated, it was not done by any Senior Senator, but by those supporters who have not seen fit to endorse the individual but later in their attempt to win favor for their party, used his influence and perhaps used the photograph to reach that end."

Rep. Fitch: "Those of us who voted against this bill did feel that it was aimed at the senior United States Senator. We feel that he has done a remarkable job in Washington and I personally wish to commend him and I believe everything will work out well for the State of North Dakota as a result of his long seniority and capable operation in Washington."

Honorable K. A. Fitch

Home papers arriving today dealt with defeat of so-called Photograph Bill impels me to wire you so that the record may be kept straight. The ludicrous truth is that the picture is sent to the Secretary of State to be used in the publicity pamphlet mailed to all the voters was taken in North Dakota approximately two years and three months before the primary election and I have been assured by the Secretary of State that the photograph I sent was used in the publicity pamphlet. Also I appeared on a live television program on the eighth of March and on two later occasions. In addition to this I had meetings at Grand Forks, Minot, Bismarck airports, attended by hundreds of people at each place. I spoke to some 500 members of the Letter Carriers Association at the Clarence-Parker hotel in Minot and the next morning spoke to some 150 Transport Association folks. In view of the fact that you so kindly and generously spoke in opposition to the bill, I express my sincere thanks to you and those who supported your stand. I certainly couldn't help it if some of my enthusiastic supporters or some of the newspapers used some of my old pictures from the files.

I hope you will place this telegram in the House Journal.

With very good wishes to you
WILLIAM LANGER
 United States Senator

Rep. Hilleboe asked to be on the seventeenth order of business, which request was granted.

SEVENTEENTH ORDER OF BUSINESS

Rep. Hilleboe: "Members of the 36th Legislative Assembly. The job of hiring employees for this session has been a very pleasant task. This is due to the very fine cooperation of the members of the employment committee and I certainly want to express my sincere thanks to Rep. Brown, Lindberg, Schuler, Magnuson and Strege. The usual problems of too many people for too few jobs was, I believe, handled very tactfully so that no one was disgruntled.

"On behalf of the Employment Committee I would like to pay tribute to our very fine staff. Gerald Stair, our Chief Clerk, while still a young man, has joined the group of old timers as an expert chief clerk. His right-hand man, Charles Swenson, has done his share in making these two a great team.

"Words cannot express the feelings of your committee and this Legislative body towards our friendly and efficient Desk Reporter, Ruth Smith. We all know what a difficult job she has and how well she has performed her task. We all appreciate her very much.

"The guardian of all the bills that come to this House, Leo Leidholm, has done an outstanding job in this very exacting and difficult work.

"One of the really important functions of a legislature is the work of the committees. Therefore efficient committee clerk work is most necessary. The diligence of these clerks has contributed a great deal, indeed to the smooth operation of this house. To Chief Committee Clerk, Mrs. Jean Otteson and her staff, we say 'well done'.

"To the Secretary to the Speaker, Florence Nemer, we pay tribute, for it is through her efforts that the great burdens of our able Speaker is alleviated.

"For the first time this year your committee has hired a Superintendent of Employees. The fact that Floyd Ettstad was a former Representative was enough for your committee to know that he would fulfill his task in the manner in which he did so.

"And so we pay tribute to all the employees. Eleanør Vendt, Chief Stenographer and Payroll Clerk, her assistant Myrtle Sloan and her staff of stenographers, an unusually pleasant and nice group whose work we must agree is one hundred percent perfect; Pat Higgins, Chief Page and her staff; Sergeant-at-Arms, Arthur Laske, and his assistants; Leo Bergeron, Calendar Clerk; Albert Strand, Chief Bill Room Clerk and his staff; Jeanette Kosanda and her staff; Enola Eck and Maude Grambs, Proofreaders; Ica Saxvik, Postmistress and her assistant; Mrs. Fred Eckmann, Telephone Clerk and her assistant; Mrs. Walter Bubel, Chart Room Clerk; Emil Steinke, Superintendent of Mailing Room and his staff; Floor Clerks, Doorkeepers, Cloak Room Attendants and Night Watchmen. The Committee would like to pay special tribute for the excellent job done by Frank Nilep and Iver Kval, the Parking Lot Attendants who policed our parking lot in a most efficient manner.

"To all of our employees this committee and all of the members of this assembly say, 'Thank you for a job well done'.

"We are sure that these trusted employees will go back home with a better knowledge of our great system of free government and that they will spread this knowledge wherever they go. That they will tell the story that ours is a government of the people."

Rep. Magnuson: “Thank you”.

Rep. Doherty: “Rep. Brown — last session, as I recall, you were chairman of the employment committee, and I know the pressure that you were under, and your great relief at not being the chairman this year — but apparently the employees still hold you in quite high regard, and on behalf of the employees — this gift to you, Rep. Brown.”

Rep. Brown: “Thank you very much.”

Rep. Doherty: “Now, you know there are lots of things happen that can’t very well be explained. I was beaten on so many bills, for instance — that is one of those things I can’t explain — but there are things that can be explained and for the progress and the expeditious handling of things from the desk, we are certainly obligated to Jerry Stair. I almost said ‘Representative Stair’. We get so used to calling everybody ‘Representative’, I hope I don’t happen to run into the Governor before the evening is over. But these employees, for some reason, seem to hold you in high esteem, Jerry, and have asked me to present this gift to you.”

Mr. Stair: “Thank you, sir.”

Rep. Doherty: “Now, last but not least, Mr. Chairman — I move that the whip be transferred from Rep. Wolf to Floyd Ettetstad. Floyd has been the capable handler of all employees down here — this has been the first time I believe, that we have had this position among the employees. Floyd has done a fine job and the employees are very grateful, and also those of us who served in the House. The employees seem more grateful than the Representatives because, on behalf of the employees and in appreciation for the work that you have done down here, here is a gift.”

Mr. Ettetstad: “Thank you, Mr. Chairman.”

Rep. Fitch: “Thank you, Rep. Doherty.”

“I think that at this time, and in view of the fact that a member of this House has received a very distinguished award, it might be wise to say that tomorrow the Bismarck Tribune will say that Fay Brown of Bismarck, North Dakota, and the manager of the Lucas Department Store, is the ‘Retailer of the Year in the United States’. This is in competition of brand name stores, and as I understand it there are some seven or eight thousand stores throughout the United States in the contest. Sometime in April, Mr. Brown will be awarded that citation at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York.

“Now, the Chair will recognize Rep. Baldwin so that he may present Rep. Guy.”

Rep. Baldwin: “I have nothing to lean on and I am not pulling my ear as I go through with this, because it is entirely sincere — We Representatives from Cass County are very proud of one ‘Guy’, who in one session has mentally, physically and verbally defended his position as Democratic assistant floor leader, very capably. And very sincerely, may I say we respect him highly for what he has done and are very proud that he has been made second in command to Art Link, whom we all respect very highly. And for Mr. Guy, we Republicans respect him so highly that we can only wish defeat for him in the next election!!!"

Rep. Guy: "Thank you."

Rep. Fitch: "The Chair will next recognize Rep. Anderson of Stutsman, who will recognize Rep. Streibel."

Rep. Anderson of Stutsman: "Mr. Speaker, Members of the House—It is indeed a pleasure and privilege for me to represent this assembly in presenting this token of appreciation to the Hon. Bryce Streibel, assistant majority floor leader.

"I have had an opportunity to serve on the Education Committee with Rep. Streibel, and I have also, like all of the members of the assembly, seen Rep. Streibel perform. The words that are said here will probably soon be forgotten but we will each remember each and every member for some little thing — the thing that I will remember Rep. Streibel for is for his ability as an orator. Rep. Streibel has taken upon himself the burden of representing his party in many major, and rather difficult, issues that have come before this assembly, and I say that he is a good orator — not because I necessarily agreed myself, or that the party I represent agreed, but the reason I say he was a good orator, and I am sure the other members of the assembly will agree, is because one of the things that makes a good orator is to present arguments in a clear, logical and well-worked out manner, and I say in all sincerity, and I know you will all agree, that I think he has proved the test for an orator in true fashion and in what it takes to be a statesman.

"It is my privilege to represent this assembly in presenting this token of our appreciation."

Rep. Fitch: "The Chair will recognize Rep. Vinje, who will recognize Rep. Link."

Rep. Vinje: "Mr. Chairman, Mr. Speaker, honorable members of this assembly, when military honors are bestowed in honor of meritorious service, we hear the phraseology used 'Service beyond the call of duty'.

"Tonight we honor and recognize that kind man that we have in our midst. In our minority floor leader we have such a person; not for him, military achievement, but for his sincere desire to battle for high good legislation. He has rendered to our nation and to the State of North Dakota, and especially to the 36th Legislative Assembly such service.

"I know that my colleagues will join me in pinning an imaginary medal on the big, kind, and generous heart of our minority floor leader. Only a man with a big heart can absorb the battles and come up without rancor in his heart. We have all marveled at the ability of this man to absorb all the hard blows that have been thrown at him. Even from the vantage point that I have, there have been times when he has been obscured from my view by the 'Wolfs', the 'Fitches', the 'Beedes' and the 'Browns'. But, when the smoke of the battle has cleared away, from the bottom of the heap has appeared one minority floor leader, smiling, sincere, calm and collected. His kindness to all of us has been expressed in so many ways.

"During my four sessions I have noted his concern for many of us that have been less informed on legislative matters. He has never tried to embarrass anyone. He has been especially kind to new members. His generosity knows no bounds, and he has been most generous in giving us the benefit of his knowledge and ability in helping us with our problems. With this and all the other fine attributes of this fine gentlemen, I can truly say that he has rendered service far beyond the call of duty. At this time, Rep. Link, it is a special honor for me to present to you, in behalf of all your friends here, in the 36th Legislative Assembly, this small token of our high esteem that we all have for you."

Rep. Link: "Rep. Vinje, Mr. Chairman, Members of this 36th Legislative Assembly: If I could but live up to a tenth of the fine tribute that has just been paid to me, I would feel that I was doing my duty.

"Certainly I have never felt that I have done the things that warranted the fine expressions of gratitude that you have just stated, Rep. Vinje.

"I cannot say, at this time, the many things I would want to say and that should be said but I think I shall try to sum it all up in a few words.

"If giving a little of my experience has helped some of the new members and if working with the other members with experience, has helped in promoting a little good legislation—if any of those things that have been said on my behalf are true to their fullest extent, it is only because of the cooperation of each and every one here.

"No one member in this assembly alone could accomplish one single thing. I am certainly grateful for the cooperation that this entire body—both the majority and the minority—has shown toward me in those measures that I have personally put before you and with which you have seemed in full accord.

"I never hold rancor toward anyone when you found it necessary to oppose those things that I was in favor of. As minority leaders here it was our responsibility to submit our ideas and 'stick to our guns', so to speak, even though we may know that our views will not sustain. An active minority makes more responsibility for the majority.

"Again, let me say 'Thank you' to each and every one of you—not only for this fine token of appreciation but for your cooperation, not only to myself, but all of the members in the minority party, during this 36th legislative assembly."

Rep. Fitch: "The Chair will now recognize Rep. Rolfsrud for the purpose of recognizing Rep. Wolf."

Rep. Rolfsrud: "Chairman Fitch, Speaker Nygaard, Fellow members of this Legislative Assembly: I feel honored indeed to be asked to make the presentation to the majority floor leader of this House.

"We all know that Mr. Wolf has worked diligently in this Assembly since he was first elected in 1941, I believe it was. I believe it has been, especially to the new members, during this session—a source of a good deal of amazement, amusement and I might add 'confusement', too—to watch a majority floor leader who has a full knowledge of parliamentary rules and procedure, and to see how he can turn things around and reverse them to what they have been anticipated!! He has been accused of being a slave driver—he has been accused of using the whip—and there may have been those that have felt the swish from the lip and the whip—but I want to assure you that in a legislative body we need those who compose the leadership in order that we may accomplish something—there has to be someone who has to take the lead and it is sometimes necessary for them to do those things that they may not like to do, and it may be that at times they speak harshly. But I want to assure you that although Mr. Wolf may, at times, have appeared harsh, I have observed that during the last years he has mellowed quite a lot—for the first time I observed him vote for a wolf bounty!!

"So it is with a great deal of pleasure that I, on behalf of the assembly, present to the very able majority floor leader, the gift which I believe has been left with him.

"And I might add too, that I am sure that it is Mr. Wolf's position, as well as all the members here, that we will part, and leave here, as friends—regardless of the effect of whips or any other measures used."

Rep. Wolf: "Mr. Chairman, Mr. Speaker, the minority floor leader and assistant floor leaders, and friends on both sides of the aisle: I have enjoyed working for the welfare of the State of North Dakota during the last fifty-nine or sixty days, with both factions. We have had very fine people here during these sixty days, representing both the minority and majority. I don't believe in my ten sessions that I have served here, I have ever seen a harder working bunch than we have had this session. At the committee meetings, they have been working to do a good job for all the people of the State of North Dakota, regardless of which faction they belong to.

"I might say that I had a little experience several years ago of being assistant minority floor leader. At that time, we were in the minority and I realize that it is so much easier to be in the minority than in the majority. Then I could lean back, throw a few curves to embarrass the majority, but if you are in the majority, and especially when you have the majority on both sides of the hall—both houses are controlled by one faction, and you also have the Governor of North Dakota, and most of the state departments, are controlled by the same party, you have a great responsibility. You have got to work with the Governor—you got to work with the majority of the House—you have got to consult with the Senate—to make policies regarding the Republican party, and sometimes you got to work with the minority the best way that you know how. For that reason, I have come to realize that the majority floor leader, compared to the minority floor leader, has got to work harder to keep his group in line.

"The minority has policies that they try to enact also but they can go back home and say 'well, we were in the minority. I tried to do everything I could but you know we only had forty-nine votes'. But if you have got sixty-four votes and try to hold them together—sometimes it is amazing that we can wind up our sessions at all. When in a small community there are three or four people who cannot agree on certain issues—here we have one hundred sixty and some people that are trying to work out their problems. Sometimes it is a wonder that we can ever adjourn sine die. You have got different conditions—everyone has got different problems. We come down here on matters that are different. And I have to say this even if I am a member—I think every community is trying to select timber that you can sit down and reason with, and work out the solutions for the State of North Dakota and its people. If they should send down unreasonable people that want everything their way, it would be very hard to work with them. And as mentioned by Rep. Kitzmann, you have to get a lot of things 'shoved down your throat'. You have got to realize when you come down here that it is a matter of give and take. If you think you are going to get everything your way, you have got another guess coming. I think some new members realize now, what some of the old members realized a long time ago, that this is true.

"I will have to say that we have had a wonderful group of employees to work with us, they stood by at all hours of the night and were at our service. I think this is wonderful when the employees work to keep up the bill books, especially for the two floor leaders—they were in wonderful shape. You could just open up your bill books and everything was right there. My thanks to the clerk for doing this work.

"In closing I will say that most of you realize that I am a great guy to place responsibility. I have been sitting here idle many times and making my wonderful assistant do the work. I want to assure you that every move I made that he was a part of it. I took him into my confidence on everything that I tried to do—this man on my right—and if he had plans, he wanted me to go over them and screen them if they were to rough. We have worked hand in hand for the welfare of our party and the state as a whole.

"Sometimes we have got a little rough with the minority but after all when all things are said and done, I have learned one thing in my twenty years down here—that when I walked out that aisle, everybody was my friend. If they wanted to hold things against me, that was their privilege, but I am going to walk out without any enmity.

"I want to thank everyone, from the bottom of my heart, for this wonderful gift.

"I might say that I think we should hear from our two young assistants. I think we should have an acceptance speech from Rep. Guy and my wonderful floor leader assistant."

Rep. Fitch: "Rep. Guy, may we hear from you?"

Rep. Guy: "Yes. Actually—my wife is sitting up there in the balcony—at home I am a very quiet and passive individual and I suppose it is schizophrenic, but down here it has really been enjoyable to be able to speak out because I have no one to get hurt but the Republican party.

"I have learned one thing here—if you live in a gravel pit—don't build a glass house."

Rep. Streibel: "Mr. Chairman, Rep. Fitch, Fellow Members—I could not help but reflect in my mind as these verbal bouquets have been handed out and think of what a great country this is, that we have the privilege to live in, and more especially what a great state we have here in the 'Flickertail' State.

"I could not help but think over the sixty days that have gone by so rapidly and think of the wonderful representatives, the ladies and the gentlemen, that it has been my privilege to have an acquaintanceship with, and I want to pay my special respects to the minority.

"I can say this with every degree of sincerity—that the members of the minority of this House, I think, have contributed very much to the welfare of the State of North Dakota, in the next biennium.

"To the members of the majority, I want to say, when they extended this position to me at the outset of this 36th legislative assembly, they presented to me a tremendous challenge. I only hope that I have in some small way come up to the challenge that they gave me.

"And to this gentleman on my left—I have said it to him before so it is no secret and I would like to express to all of you here, tonight—the experience that I have had in serving as his assistant—and I refer to Rep. Wolf—has been one of the most enriching experiences in my young life.

"I shall have many treasures to take with me because of him.

"And for these other gifts, my personal thanks."

Rep. Fitch: "Now, the Chair will recognize Rep. Poling for the purpose of recognizing and presenting to our most able Speaker, a gift on the part of this House.

"Mr. Poling, will you please come to the rostrum?"

Rep. Poling: "Mr. Chairman, Mr. Speaker, Members of this House: It is indeed a personal privilege for me to make this presentation to my good friend, Hjalmar.

"I feel that I should make one more motion before going ahead with this. I imagine that I would be ruled out of order but if I could make one more motion, I would move that the action be delayed on my speech for one legislative day. After hearing all the oratory here presented tonight, I am ashamed of my little speech.

"However, I will try to make up in sincerity what I lack in eloquence.

"Mr. Speaker, about sixty days ago, you received the highest honor within the power of this legislative body to grant—that being the Speakership of the House.

"You were well qualified for the position. However, along with the honor, went also a vast amount of work. You were called upon to make many important decisions. Let me say this—you have been a good umpire. You made your decisions with impartiality. You favored no party—no group—nor any individual in this legislative assembly.

For that you have earned the esteem and the gratitude of each and everyone of us. It is our hope and our wish that you may have derived some measure of satisfaction in the knowledge that you have discharged your duties without fear or favor to all concerned. No man could have done better.

"As a small token of our appreciation for a job well done, it gives me the greatest possible pleasure to present to you this watch, with our sincere thanks. We hope that you may forgive us our shortcomings and forgive us for what we have done amiss, and that you may ever think kindly of the members of the House of Representatives of the 36th Legislative Assembly of the State of North Dakota."

Speaker Nygaard: "Mr. Chairman, Chief Poling, Members of the Legislative Assembly, employees and the persons in the gallery: It seems hardly sixty days ago since I first stepped upon this platform. You placed upon me that day the greatest honor, as Rep. Poling has just stated, that can be presented to an individual by this body.

"I knew when I accepted it that this position was not the easiest position to hold. I knew that in the next sixty days a lot of important matters were going to be coming before this group, and I knew that before me, there were going to be many problems and there was going to be before me, many decisions to be made. I determined that day that as best I could, I would try to be impartial to all and I would be fair to each individual—as fair and as impartial as any human being could be. If I have failed in that attempt, I have failed honestly.

"I might say that you people have treated me as kindly and as friendly as any group of individuals could. I know that when things have been tough and I have been sitting here looking down at you people, even under the most adverse conditions, there was a smile from each of you—and I have appreciated it. I always will.

"Should I return to this assembly, having held the responsibilities that I have carried in former sessions and as Speaker, I will be happy to sit in a corner and take it easy.

"It has been hard work but I have enjoyed it. I have enjoyed it as well as I have enjoyed any of the five sessions prior. I appreciate greatly, the fine assistance of the two floor leaders and their assistants.

"I appreciate very greatly the help of Ruth—of Jerry and the rest of the desk staff, with whom, of course, I have been working the closest and with Florence, my secretary. With the balance of employees I have not been in as close contact, except possibly having a cup of coffee with the committee clerks, which I have definitely enjoyed. I was going to say 'every day', but lets be truthful—it was several times a day. I appreciate the consultants that we have had here during this legislative session, and we have had many.

"I appreciate the fine courtesy extended to me by these people and kind and friendly manner in which they have all treated me.

"I appreciate greatly the large number of students that have visited the assembly and I hope the conduct of this assembly has taught those young students that have been here, something about the government of the State of North Dakota; that they have seen the legislature in action and that when they went home, they felt that this body had seriously deliberated and worked out the problems for the state—and I believe that they have because, as Rep. Wolf has earlier stated, it has been a hard-working group of people.

“Every problem has been tackled with honesty and integrity, and I mean that down to the last individual among you people seated here before me. You have been a great group of people.

“I will always cherish the gift you have presented me this evening. It is one that I will always keep and it will be mine as long as I live. Knowing not what is in the package, according to custom, I can guess, and it shall never depart from me. It shall always be mine to keep and as we close our work, which it is quite apparent we may not be able to do today—if I do not have the opportunity to shake the hand of each and every one of you (which I certainly will attempt to do), but if I should miss anyone, I want to wish you Godspeed on your way home and that you may look back on the 36th legislative assembly as a successful session. As has happened before naturally—we are only human beings—and we have erred, and we have no doubt made mistakes, then the 37th legislative assembly will no doubt have a few of those to correct. The problems that are created by progress in a state and nation will always require further legislation. The 37th legislative assembly will tackle that job and if that assembly tackles it with the sincerity that you people have, I have no fear for the future of our State of North Dakota.

“From the bottom of my heart, I thank you.”

Rep. Johnston moved that the Special Order of Business be dissolved, which motion prevailed.

The House reconvened at the Call of the Chair and the Speaker announced that the House would be on the seventeenth order of business.

MESSAGE TO THE SENATE

House Chamber

Bismarck, March 6, 1959

Mr. President: I have the honor to inform you that the House has adopted the Conference Committee report on House Bill No. 632.

GERALD L. STAIR, Chief Clerk.

Rep. Streibel: "Mr. Speaker: Before our adjournment sine die, I want to remark on the presence of our friends at the press table. There are more of them than at any previous session. Newspapers represented include Mr. Bill Allen for the Grand Forks Herald, Mr. Giff Herron for the Fargo Forum, Mr. Carl Flagstad for the Minot Daily News, Mr. Ted Kolderie of the Minneapolis Tribune, Mr. George Martin of the Bismarck Tribune, Mr. Gerry Nelson of the Associated Press, Mr. Joe Franey of the United Press, Mr. Jack Swenson representing the North Dakota Broadcasting Company, and the others who have been present on various occasions.

"Mr. Speaker, there is no doubt that the people of North Dakota have been kept informed of what we have been doing here during the past sixty days. That is as it should be, for it is important in our form of government that our citizens be informed.

"While we have had our differences with the press from time to time, and perhaps they have had their differences with us as well, I believe all of the members of this House join in thanking them for their fine work and excellent coverage of the Thirty-sixth Legislative Assembly."

Rep. Johnston moved that the remarks of Rep. Streibel be printed in the House Journal, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Schuler: "The Journal of the House is the bible of we legislators, each morning, it tells us what we did the day before—A very exacting deadline must be met by the printer awarded this contract. The Bismarck Tribune Company, holders of this contract, with the assistance of our efficient proofreaders, Maude Grambs and Enola Eck, for many years have handled this contract in a most exacting manner and have never failed to meet a deadline. I, therefore, move that the Bismarck Tribune be commended for this excellent service."

Rep. Goebel moved that the remarks of Rep. Schuler be printed in the House Journal, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Schuler moved that a letter of commendation be written to the Bismarck Tribune on printing of the Journal, by the Speaker, which motion prevailed.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

Senate Chamber

Bismarck, March 6, 1959

Mr. Speaker: I have the honor to inform you that the Senate has adopted the Conference Committee report on Senate Bill No. 290.

VIC GILBREATH, Secretary.

Rep. Saugstad moved that a poem written by Rep. Hauf be printed in the Journal, which motion prevailed.

Now the time has come
That we are done.
The fellow in the chair
Ruled, I'd say, fairly fair.
With the pressure from the floor
He sometimes had to close the door.
The Chief Clerk did real well, I guess
Until it came to "Pepper Grass".
Fitch must have been taken behind the Hill
So as to revive the Mosquito Bill.
I wonder what it cost to get it lost—
The Bill on Ag schools.
If those fighting fools would have got together,
We could have passed a good measure.
Wolf kept his party quite in order
Except for the Brakemen on the Border.
Link also filled his mission
Except the Bill on Wheat Commission.
Streibel uses words so high
They pass the common man right by.
Dick Thompson, he's a honey
But, Oh, how he does spend our money.
Kitzmann, who is always confused,
Keeps the Board red just to be amused.
And Tescher with the Bill on time
Says we should only have a good time.
When there is only sunshine,

As My time is Your time,
 So let's all have a heck of a time.
 But now we have come to the time
 That arguments end for the Session of '59.

Rep. Hauf

Rep. Glaspey: "I move that we, on behalf of the members of the House of Representatives of the 36th Legislative Assembly, hereby express our sincere appreciation to Rep. Berntson for the potatoes, which he so generously presented to us, during this session." The motion of Rep. Glaspey prevailed.

FOURTH ORDER OF BUSINESS
MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

Bismarck, March 5, 1959

Members of the House of Representatives
Thirty-Sixth Legislative Assembly
House Chambers
Bismarck, North Dakota

Greetings:

I am herewith returning H. B. No. 604, an act to amend and reenact Sections 16-1013 and 16-1305 of the North Dakota Revised Code of 1943 relating to the oath of election officers and authentication of reports and poll lists, without my approval.

Upon examination of the existing law pertaining to the oath of election officers and authentication of reports and poll lists and the proposed amendments as contained in H. B. 604, I believe election safeguards would be lessened by having the inspector sign for the entire election board in preference to the signatures of the inspector and the two judges. Further, the present law provides that the oath be a part of the poll book, which in my opinion is more desirable than under the proposed law whereby the oaths are filed with the county judge.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN E. DAVIS
Governor
