"Definitions. As used in this Act:

1. "Client" means a person who consults or is examined or interviewed by a licensed social worker or a licensed certified social worker.
2. "Confidential communication" means a communication which is not intended to be disclosed to third parties, except persons present to further the interest of the client in the consultation, examination, or interview, persons reasonably necessary for the transmission of the communication, or persons who are participating in the diagnosis, treatment, and amelioration under the direction of the licensed social worker or licensed certified social worker, including members of the client's family.
3. "Disclose" means to reveal a confidential communication, but does not include any act which may be permitted or required by any state or federal law governing the use of records or information made confidential by that or any other state or federal law.

4. "Privilege" means the social worker-client privilege authorized under this Act.

Social worker-client general rule of privilege. A client has a privilege to refuse to disclose and to prevent any other person from disclosing confidential communications made for the purpose of diagnosis, treatment, or amelioration of the client's physical, mental, emotional, or social condition, among the client, the client's counselor, and persons who are participating in the diagnosis, treatment, or amelioration under the direction of the licensed social worker or licensed certified social worker.

Who may claim the privilege. The privilege may be claimed by the client, the client's guardian or conservator, or the personal representative of a deceased client. The licensed social worker or licensed certified social worker who received the confidential communication is presumed to have authority to claim the privilege, but only on behalf of the client.

Exceptions to the privilege.

1. There is no privilege under this Act for communications relevant to an issue in proceedings to hospitalize the client for mental illness, including alcohol or drug addiction, if the licensed social worker or licensed certified social worker in the course of diagnosis, treatment, or amelioration has participated in a determination that the client is in need of hospitalization.
2. If the court orders an examination of the physical, mental, or emotional condition of a client, whether a party or a witness, communications made in the course thereof are not privileged under this Act with respect to the particular purpose for which the examination is ordered unless the court orders otherwise.
3. There is no privilege under this Act as to a communication relevant to an issue of the physical, mental, or emotional condition of the client in any proceeding in which the client relies on a condition as an element of the client's claim or defense or, after the client's death, in any proceeding in which any party relies upon the condition as an element of the party's claim or defense."
