SECTION 3. A new chapter with title 54 of the North Dakota Century Code is hereby created and enacted to read as follows:

Declaration of legislative intent. The legislative assembly finds and declares that there is a need to minimize the governmental paperwork burden for state and local government entities, individuals, businesses, and others; that the costs of collecting, maintaining, using, and disseminating information are constantly escalating due to the increasingly voluminous and complex nature of state statutes and regulations; that there is a need to coordinate, integrate, and to the extent practicable and appropriate, make uniform the information policies and practices in North Dakota; and that the governmental paperwork burden can best be eased by establishing a statewide forms management program within the office of management and budget.

Definitions. As used in this chapter, unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires:

1. "Agency" means any department, office, commission, board, or other unit, however designated, of the executive branch of state government.
2. "Form" means any document designed to record information and contained blank spaces and which may contain headings, captions, boxes, or other printed or written devices to guide the entry and interpretation of the information.

State information manager. The director of the office of management and budget may appoint a state information manager, or, in the alternative, shall serve as the manager. The manager shall administer in the executive branch of state government the information management program established by this chapter. The program must apply efficient and economical management methods to the creation and utilization of state forms.

Duties of manager. The manager shall:

1. Establish a statewide information and forms management program, prescribing the standards and procedures for forms creation and utilization.
2. Conduct surveys of information management practices and forms to identify forms which can be standardized, consolidated, or eliminated as duplicative and unnecessary.
3. Assist agencies in the design of those forms which cannot be eliminated to minimize the effort and costs required to complete them.
4. Establish a forms management program to provide agencies with forms design and revision services and to develop and implement standards for design, typography, format, data sequence, analysis, and numbering of state forms.
5. Establish a central state form numbering system and a central cross-index filing system of state forms.
6. Provide training for agency forms coordinators.

Duties of agencies. Each agency shall:

1. Establish and maintain an active, continuing program for the economical and efficient management of information and cooperate with the manager in the conduct of forms management surveys.
2. Implement information management rules and procedures issued by the manager.
3. Designate an agency forms coordinator who shall cooperate with the manager in the development of the content requirements of the form design process and who shall otherwise assist the agency and the office in implementing the provisions of this chapter.

Forms review. Agencies must submit any proposed new or revised form to the manager for review. The manager shall analyze the form, advise the affected agency of comments and recommendations, and assist the agency with any recommended revision of the form.

Assistance to legislative and judicial branches. Upon request, the manager shall assist and advise in the establishment of information and forms management programs in the legislative and judicial branches of state government and shall, as required by them, provide services similar to those available to the executive branch of state government.

Rules. The manager may adopt any rules necessary to effectuate the purposes of this chapter.

Report to legislative assembly. The director shall report to the forty-ninth legislative assembly on the effectiveness of the implementation of this chapter."
