POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

REP. KINGSBURY: Madam Speaker: I rise to a point of personal privilege and request that my remarks be printed in the Journal.

Chapter 147 of the 1919 Session Laws established the Bank of North Dakota and authorized the Bank to issue loans secured by first mortgages on real estate in the state in amounts not to exceed one-half the value of the security. The funding for the issuance of these loans was to be procured from the sale of bonds under Chapter 148 of the 1919 Session Laws which authorized issuance of bonds of the State of North Dakota in the sum of $2 million, to be known as the "Bonds of North Dakota, bank series." In addition, Chapter 147 of the 1919 Session Laws authorized issuance of additional loans which were to be paid from additional funds procured from the sale of other state bonds as may be provided by the Legislative Assembly. Under Chapter 292 of the 1923 Session Laws, the North Dakota real estate series bonds were authorized to be sold for the purpose of raising money for making first mortgage loans by the Bank of North Dakota. The amount of these bonds authorized was not to exceed $25 million.

During the depression of the 1920's, North Dakota farmers received aid from the rural credit program of the Bank of North Dakota. The State Treasurer sold the real estate bonds. The Bank's farm loan department made loans on farmland, secured by farm mortgages. The state sold several million dollars' worth of real estate bonds; each year the farm-loan department made one to 2,000 loans. From August 1919 to October 1933, it made 16,486 loans totaling nearly $41 million. The loans bore 6 and 6.5 percent interest and were amortized to be repaid in annual installments running 26 to 30 years. The loans averaged from $3,600 per loan in 1921 to $1,500 in 1933. Most of the loans were made in the western portion of the state.

With drought (one year in three was dry in the western part of the state) and depressed prices, payments on a large part of the loans became delinquent. By 1929 the Bank of North Dakota had foreclosed mortgages on 8.3 percent of the loans, by 1934 on 17.3 percent. By 1934 only 12.2 percent of the loans were in good standing. By 1936 an agency of the federal government had taken over 46 percent of the loans, the state bank had foreclosed on 21 percent, and the state had lost $8,800,000 on the rural-credit program.

By 1940 the Bank of North Dakota had acquired approximately 1.9 million acres of land by foreclosure. Proceeds from the sale of this land were required by Chapter 292 of the 1923 Session Laws to be deposited in the real estate bond payment fund. The proceeds from the foreclosure sales were insufficient to maintain the solvency of the bond fund so in 1933, the Legislative Assembly determined it was necessary to impose a general property tax levy for the purpose of raising additional revenue for the retirement of the North Dakota real estate bonds. Chapter 249 of the 1933 Session Laws imposed a one-half mill levy upon each dollar of assessed valuation of all taxable property within the state for the year 1933. In addition, Chapter 278 of the 1935 Session Laws and Chapter 242 of the 1937 Session Laws imposed one-half mill levies upon each dollar of assessed valuation of all taxable property within the state for the years 1935 through 1938.
