REMARKS OF MISS NORTH DAKOTA 2018 KATIE OLSON

Good Afternoon, my name is Katie Olson and I am Miss North Dakota 2018. I am honored to be speaking to you all today, as this is a very special and notable tradition for Miss North Dakota. I am also very proud to be standing in a room where many important decisions that shaped my childhood have been made. I grew up in Williston, North Dakota and I am very proud of that fact. Not only has Williston overcome many challenges and obstacles in the past years, but it also introduced me to my current job. This year will mark the thirty-third year of the Miss North Dakota competition being held in Williston, ND, and being able to grow up watching and volunteering with this organization has changed my life.

Not only has this organization granted me my dream job, but it has also allowed me to make valuable career connections, go to college debt free, and to serve my state wholeheartedly. On June 9th, 2018 I was blessed to be chosen Miss North Dakota out of a group of twenty women. The first and most common question I get as Miss North Dakota is "what do you do?" At first glance, it may appear as though my job is strictly appearance based, and although I do take pride in my crown and sash there is much more to my job beyond the glitter. As a national nonprofit, the Miss America Organization partners with the Children's Miracle Network, giving local, state, and national titleholders the honor of raising money for and volunteering with this organization. As Miss North Dakota I do many fundraising events for the Children's Miracle Network, and visits to children's hospitals that partner with this group. There is no bigger an honor than being able to help put a smile on a child's face when they are facing hospitalization. I am very grateful for these visits, and I hope to do more before my year is up.

As Miss North Dakota the largest part of my job is to embark on a statewide school tour informing children K12 of my message "The Motivation Mindset: Positivity at Every Turn." So far I have spoken to thousands of students at almost fifty schools with the goal of teaching kids about their mindsets when things may not go our way in life. Having a positive mindset and finding motivation when I was faced with obstacles was a journey I struggled with greatly growing up. But, as I've learned and grown within my journey I have learned that there is no greater skill than to understand our own mindset. In my presentations, I teach students how to recognize when their mindset needs improvement and how with different techniques, tools, and strategies they can change their viewpoint on life. We also discuss goals and the hard work, difficulties, and failures we might encounter on our journeys. When I ask young children about what they want to be when they grow up all hands shoot into the air and the answers are always boundless. I've gotten responses from children wanting to be teachers or race car drivers and artists. But I've noticed the older the students I'm speaking to get the fewer the hands to go up, and the options become more limited. As a future educator teaching students about their value and endless potential in life has always been a goal of mine and as Miss North Dakota my biggest goal is that each person I speak to knows that they can do anything that they set their mind to, so that they never limit themselves when they answer the question of "What do you want to be when you grow up?"

I also bring these messages of positivity and motivation to businesses. I truly believe that each day of our lives may not be great, but there are great things each day. So before I leave today I have a mission to bring this message to all of you as well. Each of you does amazing things for our state; but, your job can be difficult, frustrating, and overwhelming at times. I ask that all of you in your moments of indignation find three things you are grateful for. This is one of five skills I teach students to find moments of positivity in their busy days. Taking a break to think of things that make us happy or what we are grateful for in moments of turmoil, lessens the negative feelings we experience at times. I also ask that each of you not only find gratitude for your situations and surroundings but for each other as well. Each of you took your positions to make North Dakota a better state to live in, and I'm sure all of you send more than enough emails or letters every day. But, I challenge you to send out just one more each day. One letter or email of thanks or praise each morning for someone you work with because the quickest way to build motivation and happiness is to invest in your social relationships. It's quick and easy and not only puts a smile on your face each morning but will also make someone else smile.

I would like to thank you all for what you do for our state, and for welcoming me today. This has been a wonderful afternoon and an honor I will not forget. I sincerely hope each of you finds gratitude in each moment. Being Miss North Dakota has taught me that each moment is fleeting and the only thing we truly hold on to is those memories of gratitude. I only have four months left of this incredible job, and I plan to make the best of each day. Thank you again, and have a wonderful day

MOTION

REP. LOUSER MOVED that the remarks of Miss Katie Olson be printed in the journal, which motion prevailed on a voice vote.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF NORTH DAKOTA:

SECTION 1. AMENDMENT. Section 12.1-32-09.1 of the North Dakota Century Code is amended and reenacted as follows:

12.1-32-09.1. Sentencing of violent offenders.

1. Except as provided under section 12-48.1-02 and pursuant to rules adopted by the department of corrections and rehabilitation, an offender who is convicted of a crime in violation of section 12.1-16-01, 12.1-16-02, subsection 2 of section 12.1-17-02, section 12.1-18-01, subdivision a of subsection 1 or subdivision b of subsection 2 of section 12.1-20-03, section 12.1-22-01, subdivision b of subsection 2 of section 12.1-22-02, or an attempt to commit the offenses, and who receives a sentence of imprisonment is not eligible for release from confinement on any basis until ~~eighty-fivesixty-five~~ sixty-five percent of the sentence imposed by the court has been served or the sentence is commuted. If an offender is eligible for release under this subsection, the offender may be eligible for parole.
2. In the case of an offender who is sentenced to a term of life imprisonment with opportunity for parole under subsection 1 of section 12.1-32-01, the term "sentence imposed" means the remaining life expectancy of the offender on the date of sentencing. The remaining life expectancy of the offender must be calculated on the date of sentencing, computed by reference to a recognized mortality table as established by rule by the supreme court.
3. Notwithstanding this section, an offender sentenced under subsection 1 of section 12.1-32-01 may not be eligible for parole until the requirements of that subsection have been met.
4. An offender who is convicted of a class C felony in violation of section 12.1-17-02, or an attempt to commit the offense, and who has received a sentence of imprisonment or a sentence of imprisonment upon revocation of probation before August 1, 2015, is eligible to have the offender's sentence considered by the parole board.

SECTION 2. RETROACTIVE APPLICATION. Section 1 of this Act applies retroactively to judgments of conviction for offenses subject to section 12.1-32-09.1 entered after July 31, 1995."
