

I did not move from California to North Dakota to watch it become a nanny state. Libraries already review materials and have processes in place for challenging those materials. Any law that moves to make people less free has no place here.