SECOND DAY

Bismarck, January 7, 1953

The House convened at 2:00 p.m. pursuant to adjournment taken January 6, 1953 with Kenneth L. Morgan, Chief Clerk of the 32nd Legislative Assembly presiding.

Prayer was offered by Reverend Father Sylvester Treinen of the Cathedral of the Holy Spirit, Bismarck, North Dakota.

Roll Call: 112 members present and 1 absent. So a quorum was declared present.

The Chief Clerk announced that the next order of business would be the election of the Speaker.

Rep. Link: Mr. Chief Clerk, at this time I would like to place in nomination for the office of Speaker, the Nonpartisan League candidate, my friend and colleague, Halvor Rolfsrud. Mr. Rolfsrud is a native son of North Dakota—a son of pioneer parents who reared their family in McKenzie County. Much of Halvor Rolfsrud's education was learned in the school of "Hard Knocks." He has a true picture of the value of thrift and frugality. My good friend is a modest man. He seeks no personal glory or fame but he is a man who will not refuse the responsibilities when it becomes his duty to assume them. In his home community and in my home county, Mr. Rolfsrud has served on many worthwhile projects, both for the betterment of his community, for the county and the public as well. Mr. Rolfsrud believes in the promotion of business in North Dakota. He believes in the State of North Dakota. He serves as director and one of the vice presidents of one of North Dakota's leading industries—one which is expanding. He is fully aware of the place that business plays in North Dakota, lending to the stability of our economy. Few of us, if any, in this assembly, are better posted on the full meaning and significance of the oil development in our state. Having lived his entire lifetime in the center of what is known as the "Williston Basin" he is well aware of the development of oil from the first leasing days. Mr. Rolfsrud is in a position which will serve him well in referring the various types of legislation pertaining to oil, to the proper committees. Only a short time ago he was re-elected as chairman of the McKenzie County Mineral Owner's Association. When Mr. Rolfsrud first entered public service he was nominated at the county committeemen's meeting which he did not attend. I point this out to indicate that his service and his leadership were sought by his friends and neighbors who know him.

Mr. Rolfsrud has likewise served on several of the important committees here in the legislature and his interest and sincerity is beyond question. He received the endorsement by his faction on the first ballot the other evening. He may not be as polished as some but his honesty and fairness are beyond reproach.

Mr. Chief Clerk, I deem it a privilege to place before this assembly the name of our colleague—my friend, Halvor Rolfsrud as a candidate for the Speaker of the House.

Rep. Wolf: Mr. Chief Clerk and members of this Legislative Assembly. I guess we can all realize that we are facing one of the biggest tasks in this Chamber this year that the State of North Dakota has ever faced, with the new industries coming into the State, and also the problem of highway financing. I feel we should select one of the most able men that we have in our group to head us and lead us as Speaker of the House. I am sure that we can all agree that the man I am about to nominate is the most familiar with legislative procedure of any member we have here. He is well qualified. He has been serving and devoting his time to the public interest for the last twenty years. I believe he has served six sessions in the House and he has also worked here as an employee prior to becoming a House member. He has made a special study of the procedure of the legislative work. He knows the game from A to Z. With a man like this I know we can all go down the line and we are going to have a harmonious session by working together for the welfare of the people of North Dakota, and this man I am about to nominate is none other than one of my best friends that I have served with in the legislature—Walt Bubel of Oliver County.

Rep. Hafner: Mr. Chief Clerk, I rise to second the nomination of Walt Bubel.

Rep. Thompson: It is with a great deal of pleasure — I actually consider it an honor—to arise at this time and to second the nomination of my good friend, Halvor Rolfsrud as Speaker of the House.

Rep. Link did a very marvelous job of giving the qualifications of Mr. Rolfsrud. He can speak of Mr. Rolfsrud better than any other man in the House, I am sure. He knows him from at home, and he has done business with him. He has lived with him, and I cannot help but admire a man who comes with a high recommendation as he has been given to Mr. Rolfsrud such. I am in a little different position than that altho I have known Halvor Rolfsrud from the two sessions I have served and worked with him in this House and I know that he is one of the ablest men that I have met during my terms here. He is a very modest man but he is a man with a great amount of ability. He, as Rep. Link has said, received the nomination on the first ballot of the Non-partisan League caucus and it was a privilege to hear his remarks on that nomination. I am sure that if each and every one of you could have heard the acceptance of that — the humbleness of that, and the promises he made that we just would not have had even a bit of trouble electing Halvor Rolfsrud as Speaker.

Rep. Esterby: I am proud to second the nomination of my good friend Halvor Rolfsrud. I am from the neighboring county of Williams. I also attended our caucus where Halvor was duly nominated for this position and I just want to repeat that I am very proud to second the nomination of Halvor Rolfsrud.

Rep. Leier: I rise to second the nomination of Walter Bubel for Speaker of the House. I need not dwell on his qualifications for very long, as Mr. Wolf has ably pointed out his qualifications. All you old time members have served with him and I just want to repeat that I am proud to second the nomination of Walter Bubel.

Rep. Rohde: Ladies and Gentlemen: When we went into that Nonpartisan League caucus that evening I was working for a different party but he was licked fair and square at that caucus and therefore I second the nomination of Halvor Rolfsrud. He is a fine fellow from McKenzie County. It has always been the concensus of opinion that the majority rules and just because we may not have a dozen speakerships to hand out here, we should abide by the decision of the majority and I rise to second the nomination of Halvor Rolfsrud.

Rep. Holand moved that the nominations be closed, which motion prevailed and the question was on the election of the Speaker.

ROLL CALL

The roll was called and the Chief Clerk announced that there were 69 votes for Walter Bubel; 40 for Halvor Rolfsrud; three passed and one absent.

Those voting for Bubel were:

Anderson, Cass	Hafner	Power
Anderson, Eddy-	Haugland	Roen

Absent and not voting:

So Walter Bubel was declared elected Speaker.

Rep. Rohde: I wish to explain my vote. I voted for Rep. Rolfsrud for various reasons. The main reason is that it is a clear cut decision that was reached at the League caucus. It was supposed to be a majority caucus. Some of the disgruntled members organized with the minority faction to get a majority so therefore I am voting for Halvor Rolfsrud.

Rep. Haugen: I would like to explain my vote. The Nonpartisan League is an organization that has served in this state for over thirty-five years. It has outlived a half dozen other parties. There have been plenty of cases in the past where people have rumped from the Nonpartisan League but it has grown stronger. And it will in this case. I am proud of every Leaguer that stuck by the nominee of the Nonpartisan League caucus.

Rep. Haaven: I would like to explain my vote. I come from Cavalier County. This is the first time that I have had a chance to say anything to a North Dakota session. So far as I am personally concerned I like both of the candidates for Speaker. I have known Walter Bubel longer than I have Halvor Rolfsrud, as far as that is concerned, but we had a caucus and in that caucus we decided to support Rolfsrud and for that reason I am voting for Rolfsrud. I think it is rather an unusual thing for the Progressives to back away from anything that we have agreed to do in a caucus. I am very sorry this happened and I don't think it is going to have the best effect on this House. That is my opinion.

Rep. Fitch moved that the Chief Clerk appoint a committee of two to escort the newly elected Speaker to the rostrum, which motion prevailed and the Chief Clerk appointed as such committee Reps. Leier and Hafner.

Rep. Haugen moved that the Chief Clerk appoint a committee of two to escort Chief Justice Morris to the rostrum to administer the oath of office to the newly elected Speaker. The Chief Clerk appointed as such committee Reps. Haugen and Fitch.

Chief Justice Morris administered the oath of office to the Speaker.

Speaker Bubel:

Fellow members of this Assembly:

It is with deep gratitude that I accept the responsibilities you have placed in me.

This honor which you have given me is indeed gratifying in that I have attended Legislative Sessions in North Dakota since 1925, in which year my father was a member of this Assembly. It is truly a milestone that will be long remembered and long cherished as the highlight of my life. I believe that this 33rd Legislative Assembly has confronting it some of the most serious problems which any legislature has been called upon to solve. Blessed as we have been by a new industry—oil—we are also aware of the increased demands placed upon our State services, because of this good fortune. Roads, education, municipalities, are just a few of the problems with which we are confronted. The solution rests with you and this solution requires action. It will not be solved by speech making. I believe that now is the time for action and I am therefore thanking you again for the honor you have bestowed on me and am in turn awaiting to serve you as your speaker.

Rep. Hegge: I wish to place in nomination for Chief Clerk of the House, the name of a man well known by all you gentlemen. He has served in various capacities over the state. He has been Budget Director and he has served as Assistant Chief Clerk in a past session. He is a man of rare integrity and can take his place in any position without any chance of balling up a job in any way and at this time I would like to place the name of V. L. Gilbreath of Mott in nomination for the position of Chief Clerk.

Rep. Wolf moved that the nominations be closed, which motion prevailed.

ROLL CALL

The question being on the election of V. L. Gilbreath as Chief Clerk, the roll was called and there were: 112 ayes; no nays.

Rep. Fitch: I think we should now have a Desk Reporter. As I have in the past I will place in nomination for Desk Reporter that distinguished and good looking lady — Ruth Smith. The motion was seconded by Rep. Haugen.

Rep. Holand moved that the nominations be closed, which motion prevailed.

ROLL CALL

The question being on the election of Ruth Smith as Desk Reporter, the roll was called and there were: 107 ayes; 6 absent and not voting.

So Ruth Smith was declared elected as Desk Reporter and the oath of office was administered by the Speaker.

Rep. Hafner: I wish to place in nomination for the position of sergeant-at-arms a man from our neighborhood. He is a man whom I have known for a number of years. He has served as deputy sheriff of Dunn County so he should be well qualified to fit into that position. I place in nomination the name of Mr. Hans P. Johnson.

Rep. Holand: I have never met this man by the name of Johnson but as one whose ancestors come from the rockbound coasts of Norway, that name sounds good to me and I wish to second the nomination of Hans P. Johnson as sergeant-at-arms.

Rep. Haugen moved that nominations be closed which motion prevailed.

MESSAGE

To the Thirty-Third Legislative Assembly and Biennial Report to The People of North Dakota:

INTRODUCTION

During the past two years it has been my privilege to visit every county in the state and thus become better acquainted with North Dakota and its people. I visited all sections of the state during the growing season of 1951 when a good crop generally was harvested. These same regions when visited in 1952 presented an unfavorable contrast. The lack of moisture in the spring of 1952, during the months of April, May and the greater part of June, resulted in uneven germination of crops or a deterioration of those crops where there had been perfect germination. Fortunately late in June and in July most sections of the state received adequate rainfall so that half a crop was harvested on the average except where extensive hail damage had taken place.

The crop of 1952 will not bring a financial return comparable to any of recent years. North Dakota fortunately was spared a drought as serious as existed in many other parts of this country. Rainfall in July and August did produce an abundance of hay, domestic and native, with the result that most of the farmers and the ranchers of the state will have an adequate supply of forage. This crop has also been garnered and put away. I have noted also that the fortunate experiences with heavy snows in the last winters has induced most farmers and livestock raisers to concentrate the supply nearer to their buildings where cattle are housed or where they are kept during the winter. This shows good management on their part.

Agriculture in North Dakota as well as elsewhere has felt the effects of lower prices both for grain and livestock. The expenses of producing crops and other farm products have increased, thus reducing the net income even more. Business which is dependent upon agriculture has felt this unfortunate situation as well. Wise management on the part of farmers and men of business therefore indicates this is not the time to expand or to go further into debt. We all look for a renewal of much needed moisture in the spring and in the coming year which will produce the crops that will bring adequate returns. With good farming practices such as has been on the increase in these last ten years we have a right, with favorable weather, to expect a prosperous agriculture and prosperous business conditions again. However, we are reminded that in times like this good management and the conservation of our assets will pay huge returns in the end. Adequate reserves today, if they have been set aside, may tide us over tomorrow.

FISCAL POLICIES

The state, as far as its fiscal affairs are concerned, does not differ from that of the individual. Its estimated income is also down. Its expenditures have increased for several reasons. Among these are the lowered purchasing value of the dollar of everything the state buys, and the increased cost of living of its employees, necessitating salary and wage increases. The surplus in the General Fund as of July 1, 1952 was eleven million four hundred thousand dollars. On the same date in 1951 it was approximately fifteen and a half million dollars. The estimates of income for the ensuing fiscal year, the details of which will be made available later in this message, reveal that by July 1st of 1952 the surplus may not exceed seven million dollars.

Through and after the postwar years the General Fund surplus has been a fortunate windfall. It has financed most of the state's building program at its educational, charitable and penal institutions. It has provided a five million dollar soldier bonus reserve fund; it has furnished thirteen million, eight hundred thousand dollars for highway construction; and because of increased costs and the necessity of raising salaries and paying increased expenses of departments and the institutions of the state it has been able to care for all this quite adequately.

1953 BUDGET

The proposed budget for the biennium beginning July 1, 1953, calls for about a ten percent increase in salaries except where departmental or institutional reserves has made that increase possible before. The substantial state contingency fund should again be provided and is recommended by the Budget Board to take care of any unforeseen increases that may be called for in the ensuing biennium. The educational and charitable institutions have to some extent a similar fund. For them the institutional collections and institutional income acts as a reserve fund to care for the necessary increases in salaries and other expenses. They must have also such a reserve to fall back on when necessity requires. The only question involved is how large shall that income reserve be

The budget for the coming biennium will not provide funds for new buildings at our institutions comparable to amounts appropriated for several bienniums in the past. Particularly is this true of the educational institutions. You will note, however, a substantial appropriation for new buildings at the State Hospital at Jamestown.

On the summary sheet of the report of the Budget Board the total recommended appropriations out of the General Fund are twenty-seven million, one hundred and thirteen thousand, six hundred and fifty-nine dollars. To this figure should be added miscellaneous budgets of three million, three hundred and six thousand, four hundred dollars. The total of all expenditures out of the General Fund of thirty million, four hundred and twenty thousand, fifty-nine dollars. The estimated balance in the General Fund as computed by the State Auditor's office on July 1, 1953, will be seven million dollars. The estimated income for the biennium beginning July 1, 1953, is twenty-four million dollars, so you will readily see that the total income for the biennium plus the surplus on hand July 1, 1953, will be thirty-one million dollars, leaving a small margin over and above the recommended appropriations of the Budget Board.

With a budget so closely balanced it is incumbent upon the Legislature to confine itself within substantially what has been recommended by the Budget Board as total appropriations for the coming biennium.

MENTAL HEALTH

Anyone who has concerned himself with the welfare of all the people of the state cannot help but be interested in a program of mental health improvement not only for those who are committed to our hospital at Jamestown, but also those who are in need of preventative treatment and are at large throughout the state. In 1949 the Board of Administration requested a survey by the American Psychiatric Association of the State Hospital at Jamestown. The request for that investigation was renewed in 1951 and finally was made by the Association in 1952. A comprehensive report was filed with the Board of Administration, the Public Health Department and others in the state. The report should be read by everyone. The sum total of all recommendations contained in it would require many years to put into effect. In fact it would also require the expenditure of many millions of dollars.

When the above report was received it was felt that a survey and an investigation should be made by the U. S. Public Health Service. This report is also available for your consideration. The U. S. Public Health Service report has the advantage of enumerating its recommendations on a priority basis and as a whole more easily fits into a program of improvement for the state. Based on this report substantial increases of appropriations amounting to seven hundred and thirty-three thousand, ninety-three dollars over the present budget for technical personnel such as psychiatrists, doctors, mental health nurses, case workers and other technical help in addition to increased personnel otherwise has been provided for in the budget requests for the State Hospital at Jamestown.

You will note that a nurses's training school is provided for as well. I believe that this is a much needed program in our state and is essential because there has been a serious shortage of nurses trained in mental health work. With our own training school it would appear that such trained people would be available to the institution as well as mental health work outside of the institution. I cannot urge too strongly the support of the program for the improvement of mental health and the facilities at Jamestown, although I realize that most of our effort will be concentrated at the State Hospital to begin with.

New legislation will also be required as to the qualifications of a superintendent and other personnel perhaps. New legislation as to the commitment of people to the State Hospital you will note is recommended. Other changes will likewise be brought to the attention of the legislative committees, I am sure, by those who are closely acquainted with the problems confronting an improved mental health program in North Dakota.

TUBERCULAR SANITARIUM

The Budget Board is recommending funds for a nurses training school at Dunseith. The school will be smaller than at Jamestown but it will, it is hoped, supply much needed trained nurses. The budget also calls for additional trained technical people at that institution.

BLIND SCHOOL

You will note that no appropriation has been recommended as yet by the Budget Board for a new blind school which by a vote of the people will be moved from Bathgate.

HIGHWAYS

Transfers amounting in the aggregate to thirteen million, eight hundred and forty-nine thousand, three hundred and seventy-six dollars to the highway construction funds were made out of the surplus in the General Fund since 1947. It was apparent in 1951 when the last transfer of five million dollars was made that further transfers of a similar nature undoubtedly could not be made to match the allocations made by the Federal government for highway construction in the future. This resulted in a recommendation for an engineering survey which has been made by the Automotive Safety Foundation and a financial survey, by Dr. James C. Nelson.

You have all received copies of the reports made by the Automotive Safety Foundation and by Dr. James C. Nelson. In the former it is recommended that approximately twenty-four hundred miles be dropped from the state system. If adopted the question remains what to do with these twenty-four hundred miles of highway.

Your legislative Research Committee has spent much time in the study of the recommendations and has come up with a tentative solution which can be made a basis for consideration at least for the mileage the counties may add to their system. If the counties are going to assume the maintenance and construction of twenty-four hundred miles of the present state secondary system adequate revenues must be provided for that purpose. Your Legislative Research Committee is proposing a tentative schedule of income, although the proposed types of income appear to be optimistic in several instances, and particularly so as to an estimate of a million dollars annually from uncollected motor vehicle license fees, yet it can serve as a basis for raising the funds that will be needed if the counties take over the greater part of the twenty-four miles referred to from the state secondary system.

We all know that from a practical point of view it is not possible for the counties to take over any substantial mileage except on a gradual basis from perhaps year to year. Thus it seems of paramount importance that funds are made available to the state for the maintenance of these roads until such time as they are supplanted by other county roads or are taken over by the counties.

On the other hand, to make additional revenue available to the counties on a substantial basis without taking into consideration that some counties may take over considerable mileage for which they will be made responsible if the twenty-four hundred miles or the greater part of it is taken over by the counties while other counties will have to take over practically no mileage of the state system. There should be a distribution of these revenues in such a way that the counties which will take over a larger share than others of this mileage will be somewhat proportionately compensated.

Finally it appears that until a disposition is made of the twenty-four hundred odd miles to be dropped from the state system that the funds set aside for their construction shall be held intact and released to the counties when they enter into an agreement to take over part of that mileage.

In the recommendations of the Legislative Research Committee or subcommittee there is one proposal to finance for the coming biennium the matching of federal funds on the state system by the sale of bonds to the extent of eleven and a half million dollars to be repaid eventually out of bonuses on oil leases, delay rentals and oil royalties on those lands not subject to the supervision of the Board of University and School Lands, commonly referred to as the Bank of North Dakota lands. I believe that the matching of state funds for highway purposes should be done on a current basis and that an adequate program should be put into effect that will continue to serve the purpose of meeting those allocations as they are made available without the sale of bonds. The proceeds of the one-cent gas tax passed at the 1951 session can serve as a nucleus for a fund to match the federal allocations. A stricter enforcement of the gas tax refund law would add substantial amount to this revenue according to Dr. Nelson's report. A use tax of two percent levied on gasoline on which the tax has been refunded will yield about a half million dollars per year. Undoubtedly a sizable amount can be made available out of 1951-52 profits of the Bank of North Dakota. I do not believe that the profits of the Mill and Elevator at the present time because of the depressed condition of the milling industry in general could supply any funds for the highway program or for any other purpose. Eventually in years to come oil income may be the principal revenue for matching purposes and for highway construction.

SNOW REMOVAL EMERGENCY

In connection with highway legislation I would recommend that a modest sum of money be set aside as an emergency fund to assist counties during winters of unusually heavy snow such as prevailed in some parts of the state last winter. However, such a reserve fund should be guarded to the extent that the counties must exhaust their own funds first before calling upon the state or the state should be repaid out of future county revenues. This pertains, of course, to snow removal on non-state highways. Legislation should also be provided, in my opinion, whereby the county commissioners give ample notice to the residents of the county if it is not the intention of the county to remove the snow on the county highways. A few counties did that last winter. However, if those counties do not intend to keep their roads open I think it should be an obligation on their part to secure adequate snow going equipment so that unfortunate people in their counties who need medical assistance or are short of food and fuel can be given emergency assistance through the medium of such equipment. This would not be a great expense to the counties.

Last winter numerous demands from the state were made by people in the various counties, although with rare exceptions the county commissioners did not make the request themselves. The state must look to the local and county officials in such emergencies. The Federal government assisted to the extent of ninety-six thousand dollars to remove the snow on some of the roads in Bowman and Slope Counties. Those two counties were unable to cope with the situation that developed down there. I believe that the state should eventually reimburse the Federal government for the amount that was spent in these two counties. The State of North Dakota is financially better able to pay this amount of money than is the Federal Government. I hope, of course, that the lessons of the past winters have taught all of us that it is essential to lay in supplies of fuel and feed as well as food for the winter months. If this had been done, outside of the most seriously affected counties of the state, we would not have had some of the hardships experienced in the past winter.

RED CROSS

In this connection I wish to pay my respects to the American Red Cross. This organization played an effective part in giving assistance to isolated homes where there was a shortage of food, fuel and even feed in several counties of the state. The organization used airplanes, snowmobiles and weasles and every type of conveyance that could be made use of. Without their assistance we would not have fared so well. The same organization during the floods of last spring spent, I know, in excess of one hundred thousand dollars to care for people who suffered damage and had to move from their homes as a result of high water. It not only fed and housed the people temporarily, but it replaced or repaired the damage to furniture and to homes where the owners were financially unable to do so themselves. Their services indeed were invaluable and deserve not only our gratitude, but also our praise.

HIGHWAY FATALITIES

Needless carnage on our highways is indefensible. The press and the radio have given excellent publicity to the numerous fatalities throughout the state the past years. The Highway Patrol and other enforcement agencies, the safety conferences that have been held, public spirited organizations and others have tried to stem the tide of these highway accidents, and still they persist. You and I have innumerable reasons why there is so much of carelessness and thoughtlessness among those behind the wheel of a motor vehicle. We may blame the youth and the speed of these automobiles, liquor and even the courts, but it does not solve the problem that heretofore has been unsolved. Each of us going our own way accomplish apparently less. So, I recommend that a commission on safety consisting of the heads of appropriate departments of the state that are concerned with highways and highway traffic and motor vehicles be provided for by law, such a commission to appoint a safety director with powers broad enough to coordinate the activities of all state agencies to promote safety by education and otherwise on the highways of our state. With the cooperation of all who are concerned with it, plus an appropriation of seventy thousand dollars for the biennium, I feel confident that we can get somewhere.

OIL

The Legislative Research Committee has made a study of the oil development in the state. Particularly it has submitted recommendations on taxation. It should have your careful consideration. Perhaps the amount of the tax or the percentage of a severance tax is not too important at the present time because the available income from it will not be great due to limitation on production until the pipeline is built or a refinery is erected. The distribution of this tax might be a matter for further study. The counties especially, it would appear, should have an interest in the revenue because of the necessity of constructing and reconstructing highways in the oil fields. Schools and other governmental functions generally will be taken care of just as they are elsewhere by taxation on additional property assessments which will result because of development except for a period of a year between construction and the first assessment. At the same time we should also note the fact that the state in order to supervise the industry is asking for an appropriation through its Budget Board of approximately three hundred thousand dollars for the coming biennium, a figure almost ten times what was appropriated two years ago, although less than five times of what has been spent. I believe the state should be adequately reimbursed for the expenses in connection with this provision although I realize that in the early stages that may not be possible.

I still prefer to see the supervision of the oil industry under a more permanent board than the Industrial Commission. On the other hand, if legislation is passed permitting investigations, hearings, etc. to be made by experts in the employ of the Commission leaving merely the final approval and formal decisions to it, any objection to the supervision on the part of the Industrial Commission would not be material at this time. I think you will all agree that generally speaking elected officials on an Industrial Commission are not qualified or experienced in all phases pertaining to effective and efficient supervision of an industry as important as that of oil.

TAXATION

Beyond a possible increase in gas taxes for highway construction I do not believe that any other new taxes should be imposed. I recommend the re-enactment of the sales tax; it appears to be the only source of revenue for the assistance to our local schools and for the payment of the obligations of the Welfare Department in all the localities of the state. I am mindful of the fact that there was a vote taken by the people which by a narrow margin favored the exemption of food and medicine from the application of the sales tax. Instead of that and as a partial offset I think that this Legislature can go on record repealing the school poll tax, also the elimination of a tax on clothing, also for an increase in the personal exemption under the state income tax so that it will equal that of the Federal exemption. I realize that in many instances this is not equal to a complete exemption on food and medicines, but for many families is will go a long way.

Closely related to taxation is the matter of the assessment of property. Having served on the Equalization Board it is quite apparent to anyone that the assessed valuation of property is only a fraction of its full and true value in most classes. I realize the difficulty that would result in attempting to change this as it were over night. Any sizeable increase in assessed values of all property, even if equitable in all classes, will need careful study and should be postponed. I note that there is a possibility of further study of this question by the Legislative Research Committee. I hope that it will bear fruit and bring an equitable solution two years hence.

Likewise a study of the impact of our state use tax and income tax upon new industries which may be induced to locate in the state will also be valuable. It may be of interest to some of you that one industry investigating the question of locating in the state expressed more concern over a two percent use tax on equipment which would be installed in its plant than in other state taxes.

CONCLUSION

From the foregoing as well as from reports of your Legislative Research Committee and other information that you have received you will have a busy sixty days here at Bismarck. However, there have been legislative sessions in the past with as many if not more problems to concern themselves and they have completed their deliberations on time. I hope that you will be as fortunate as they and that out of this session will come wise legislation which will stand the test of time.

Two years ago we convened under the shadow of a war in Korea. We are still engaged in that war. North Dakota boys have been among the casualties. Our sympathies are with those who have suffered the loss of loved ones. I am sure that it is not only our hope and our desire, but also our determination to lend every effort to those in our national government and those in charge of our armed forces that this conflict can be ended with honor in the near future. In the meantime we must carry on as individuals and as a government, both state and national, in a measure that is worthy of America and her ideals.

Many of you are here as members of this legislative assembly for the first time. I wish you well in this new experience of yours. Although experience in previous sessions may be of benefit to those who have returned to serve again, yet may I also state it has been my observation that experience alone is not the only basis of able service. The greatest service that anyone of us can render is to conscientiously study and attempt to understand what our government is and what it does and what it strives to do. When you attempt to do that which most of the people of this state want done in a truly statesman like fashion, you will be the representatives of the people of this state and this nation in the truest sense of the word.

In closing may I express to you all and to the state officials with whom I have been associated in the past two years my sincere appreciation for all consideration and assistance that has been given me both as Governor and as an individual citizen of the State of North Dakota.

The House Employment Committee,
c/o Chief Clerk,
House of Representatives,

Dear Sirs:

I am asking that my name be not placed upon the payroll as I am resigning from the office of "The Messenger to the Governor" to which I was selected two days ago.

I would be happy if some worthy old time Leaguer would be appointed to fill this position.

Thanking you for your past favorable consideration, I am

Rep. Holand: I understand that there are two employee positions that have not as yet been filled. The two positions are Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms and Assistant Chief Clerk.

At this time I wish to place in nomination a man as Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms. I understand that someone else has an individual they wish to nominate for Assistant Chief Clerk. After both of these nominations have been made we can then vote on both at the same time provided there are not additional nominations.

The man that I wish to nominate for Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms is from a very important county—LaMoure. He is a person who has lived there since his childhood, who has farmed there for his entire lifetime and who is very well thought of by the citizens of LaMoure County. I am sure he will serve us very well as Assistant-Sergeant-at-Arms. I wish to place in nomination the name of Ingval Isakson.

Rep. Haugen: I don't know Mr. Isakson but certainly Rep. Holand's recommendations carry weight. The name of Isakson is one that will always have my support. I heartily second the nomination of Mr. Isakson.

Rep. Wolf of McIntosh-Logan: I understand we have not filled the position of Assistant Chief-Clerk. At this time I am going to place in nomination the name of Charles Swenson.

Rep. Brown: Even though Mr. Swenson is of the opposing faction, because of my confidence in his integrity and ability I would like to second the nomination of Mr. Swenson.

Rep. These duties were performed by Mr. Kenneth Morgan of Walcott, North Dakota, who served as Chief Clerk of the last session. At this time I think it would be proper that we thank him for his work in coming back before the session and taking care of these arrangements and details. I would like to move at this time, that Mr. Morgan be paid for six days time for his work performed incidental to the opening of this session and for the customary mileage from his place of residence to Bismarck and return.

I was born and raised in the district of North Dakota that is now represented by Mr. Wolf. Later I became a citizen of the State of South Dakota and enjoyed the privilege of serving my home district in both the Senate and in the House. Frankly, as a member of the House, I always felt the House was the better place to serve for the reason that you are closer to the people and you were ever ready to defend your record every two years. There may be some senators who may disagree but it is merely a matter of opinion and great minds can disagree.

"When I sat up in the gallery and looked down upon the quarters that you have here — your seating arrangement, your lighting system and your method of calling the roll — I feel that in our state we cannot compare with what you have here. You should be proud and I know that you are proud. I do not want to take any more of your time, and I thank you for the courtesy you have extended to me. I wish to extend my appreciation and say 'Adieu'".

Dr. Laird: "Mr. Speaker and Members of the House: It is a distinct honor and a pleasure to be able to address you as your State Geologist. I feel that your invitation brings an honor to not only me personally but also to the State Geological Survey and the University of North Dakota, which I have the honor to represent.

I would like to divide my discussion today into three parts. First I would like to talk about the geology of North Dakota in a very cursory fashion, realizing that I do not have time to go into it in great detail. Secondly I would like to talk about the occurrence of oil in general and North Dakota in particular, and thirdly I would like to make a few remarks in regard to conservation practices as they are carried out in this and other states.

GEOLOGY IN NORTH DAKOTA

When discussing the geology in North Dakota from the standpoint of oil we will start back only about five hundred million years, representing the beginning of the deposition of the rocks of the Palaeozoic era. The deposition of these rocks was started by a sheet of sand laid down rather widely on the east side of the Williston Basin. This was followed by extensive deposition of shale. All of this material was apparently derived from the land mass to the east, now represented by the Iron Range in Minnesota and adjacent areas.

Following this initial deposition of these sedimentary rocks, the seas covering all of what is now North Dakota, apparently cleared up and there were caused to be deposited great thicknesses of sedimentary rocks called "limestone" and "dolemite." In these seas lived numerous animals and plants, some of which built large structures known as "reefs". These reefs were particularly important during the Silurian and Devonian periods of the Palaeozoic era. The reason these are mentioned is that they are not only excellent traps for oil but they also provide the source rock from which the oil may be derived. Reefs of the Devonian period produce oil in large quantities in the province of Alberta, Canada. These same rocks are known to be present in North Dakota.

During the Mississippian period large quantities of limestone were deposited in the initial stages of this period. Most of this limestone is classified as being the Madison formation which is so prolifically productive of oil in the Beaver Lodge and Tioga in Williams, McKenzie and Mountrail Counties.

Following the deposition of the Madison formation, considerable quantities of shales and some sandstones as well as some evaporites were deposited. This ended the deposition of the rocks during the Mississippian period.

Following the Mississippian for considerable periods of time, what is now North Dakota, was subjected to erosion, or at least there are few records of any rocks deposited during the two succeeding periods of the Palaeozoic era.

At the beginning of the next era, which is called the Mesozoic era, the deposition of sedimentary rocks, was initiated by the deposition of a sandstone and shale sequence with some evaporites which has been called the "Spearfish" formation. This was named for the area where it is typically exposed in the northern part of the Black Hills. These rocks are apparently entirely non-marine in origin and were apparently deposited above the sea water on land.

Following the deposition of the Spearfish, the sea again returned to North Dakota during much of the time represented by the Jurassic period. During this period of geologic time, much shale, sandstone and some limestone was laid down.

The next period of the Mesozoic era is the Cretaceous period which was inaugurated by the deposition of the very famous sandstone known widely in both North and South Dakota as the "Dakota Sandstone". This sandstone furnishes much of the artesian water in southeastern North Dakota and northeastern South Dakota.

Following the deposition of this sandstone great thicknesses of shale were laid down, totaling several thousands of feet in the deepest part of the Williston Basin. After this shale deposition ceased, a few sands were laid down in the central and western part of the state which are exposed along the Missouri River south of Bismarck. Following these sands a series of continental beds, famous for their dinosaur remains were laid down.

Of the Cenozoic era we will be brief and say that it consists largely of a sequence of sandstones, shales and lignites, practically all of which were laid down under continental conditions. It is in these beds that our famous lignite deposits are found.

The last great drama of the geological history of the state was the invasion of this era by the ice from the north. This ice advanced not once but several times, into North Dakota leaving behind extensive deposits of glacial materials. Most of our present day topography east and north of the Missouri River, is a result of these glacial processes.

OCCURRENCE OF OIL AND GAS

There are three main conditions where there is an occurrence of oil and gas in commercial quantities. These are a source bed from which the oil may be derived, a reservoir rock in which the oil may accumulate and through which it may travel and thirdly, a trap in order that the oil and gas may be accumulated in quantities large enough to be considered commercial.

Oil and gas are complex hydrocarbons which are apparently derived by a special type of decomposition of low forms of plant and animal life which lived in the sea at the time the rocks were deposited. The exact process whereby these animals and plants were transformed into oil and gas is not exactly known. Shale and limestones are the most common type of source rock but other rocks of the sedimentary type may also be originators of oil and gas.

Reservoir rocks are rocks which have spaces in them, some of very small size in which the oil and gas can accumulate and in order to be a good reservoir rock through which the oil and gas may move. In other words the pore spaces must be interconnected to make any rock a good reservoir rock. I would like to say at this point that seldom if ever does oil occur underground in large open pools in the way that we normally think of a pool of water, for example, at the surface. You will see some of the cores on display here showing that the oil and gas occurs in the pore spaces of the rock.

The third necessary condition for an oil and gas pool is that of a trap. There are two kinds of traps. The first of these is what we call a "structural type trap". Included in structural type traps are such geological features as "anticlines" in which the rocks are bent or bowed upward, forming a dome. Rocks may also be broken rather than bent and we may have "fault type" traps which originate from this condition. There are other types of structural traps which I might mention but which will probably not be important in North Dakota. I might say that the occurrence of oil and gas in the Williams County area is apparently controlled by an anticlinal type structure.

The other main type of traps are classified as "stratigraphic" type traps, and are those traps which are formed during the time the rocks are being deposited, or shortly thereafter. Included in this type of traps are those known as "unconformities," "wedge-outs" and "reefs". Other types might be mentioned but those are the most important as far as North Dakota is concerned. The unconformity form trap is apparently one of the controlling features of the oil occurrence in Bottineau County.

CONSERVATION OF OIL

Conservation of oil and gas is to me one of the most important aspects of our work. I am particularly interested in this problem in view of the fact that oil and gas are probably the most important natural fuels present in the rocks of the earth. Inasmuch as these resources once used can never be used again in any form, it behooves us to see that these valuable resources are wisely used and conserved. I might say that my definition of conservation is not "non-use" but "wise use". In my opinion it is the duty of the state to see that these resources are used as wisely as we know how.

Twelve years ago the legislature of North Dakota passed an oil and gas conservation measure which was patterned after the then model act of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission. This bill was sponsored by Reps. Saumur, Rohde, Bubel and Moreland. Three of which are still in this current legislature. I think great credit should be given to their foresight and wisdom in seeing that such a bill was passed even when the prospects of oil and gas ever occurring in North Dakota were remote to say the least.

To give you some idea of the importance in regulation of the oil and gas industry, I can only cite some diagrams which I will present to you. These diagrams show the various types of reservoir which may be found not only in North Dakota, but elsewhere. I would like to emphasize at this point that no two reservoirs anywhere are absolutely identical, therefore each new discovery must be considered in the light of the conditions which affect it only.

In general it can be said that there are three main types of reservoirs—those in which the expansion of the solution gas is the main propulsive force; those in which the expansion of a free gas cap is the main propulsive force; and those in which the encroachment of water from the sides and bottom is the main propulsive force. Infinite numbers of these three types may be found.

As an example of what may be done in the way of adequate conservation and regulation I would like to cite the following illustrations: In this particular example we have a lenticular body of sand as a reservoir. The oil, gas and water are separated in this reservoir in accordance with their respective special gravities. The gas being the lightest is at the top and the water being the heaviest is at the bottom. The second part of this diagram illustrates what happens when uncontrolled production is allowed. You will note that the water is allowed to encroach irregularly trapping some of the oil, which will never be recovered.

If controlled production of this reservoir is followed you will note that the gas expands more or less regularly from the top and the water encroches more or less regularly from the bottom, squeezing the oil between them. At the end of this type of production the oil will be almost completely recovered from the reservoir and the gas will remain for future use.

Another example of poor production practice can be illustrated by this diagram which shows the inverse coning of water due to too rapid production of the oil reservoir. Thus this oil goes to water too early in its history and large quantities of oil are trapped never to be recovered. Proper conservation practice can usually minimize such difficulties if conditions are known in sufficient time.

Just a word or two about the way in which the conservation act operates in North Dakota. As you know the power to regulate the oil and gas industry in North Dakota is placed in the hands of the Industrial Commission with the State Geologist designated as supervisor of oil and gas.

As supervisor it is necessary for our office to see that the rules and regulations promulgated by the Industrial Commission are carried out. Included in these duties are such things as seeing that the wells are properly completed, properly plugged and supervising the production of the oil and gas for the state. We also accumulate production statistics of the oil and gas produced in North Dakota.

You will be interested to know that during the past year we have had produced in North Dakota according to our records, 1,595,306 barrels of oil. This is considerably in excess of the oil which was produced in 1951 which totaled 26,196 barrels. If anyone is interested we could also give the breakdown of this production by county, by company or by field.

We also have produced in the state, 143,630,000 cubic feet of gas which was put into the pipeline. This does not include many millions of cubic feet of gas which were flared in Williams and adjacent counties because there is no outlet for it.

Again let me think this honorable body for the opportunity to address them and I assure you that my office stands ready at any and all times to give any information or assistance which we possibly can to the citizens of North Dakota."

The Speaker announced that the House would again be on the tenth order of business.

FIRST READING OF SENATE BILLS

Senate Bill No. 3. A Bill for an Act Making an Appropriation to the State Historical Society for Salary, Clerk-hire and Miscellaneous Expenses and Maintenance of State Parks.

Was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Senate Bill No. 51. A Bill for an Act to Amend and Reenact Section 26-1219 of the North Dakota Revised Code of 1943, Relating to Beneficiaries of Fraternal Benefit Societies; Restrictions.

Was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Industry and Business.

Rep. Haugen requested that the House be on the eighth order of business, which request was granted.

Rep. Haugen moved that the Speaker appoint a committee of two to escort former Representative R. R. Scholl of McLean County to the rostrum to make a few remarks to the assembly, which motion prevailed, and the Speaker appointed as such committee, Reps. Beede and Holand.

Rep. Holand moved that the remarks of Mr. Scholl be printed in the Journal, which motion prevailed.

Mr. Scholl:

"Mr. Speaker: It is indeed a privilege to be accorded this fine welcome you have given me, and in observing this group I am reminded of a story which exemplifies an experience of my youthful days.

Back East, where I was born and reared to manhood, there was a neighbor family who had a son that was afflicted with complete deafness. He was placed in a deaf and dumb institution to receive his education. I, together with his younger brother, was invited to the graduation program, and the main attraction of the event was the prom dance. They had arranged a mechanical device to express the tempo of the music. They arranged the girls on one side of the hall and the boys on the opposite side. In choosing our partners, the boys would cross the hall and pick the young lady of their choice by bowing before her, and she would accept with a bow or remain seated. I, after having been attracted by a beautiful lady and having enjoyed several dances, was thinking what a pleasure it would be to visit with her when a young man stepped out from the group of spectators standing nearby and spoke in a loud voice, "Are you about ready to go home, Sis?" Immediately she replied, "Yes, as soon as I am through dancing with this dummy."

It has been my privilege to attend several sessions of the legislature since first serving as a member of the legislature, being my home is within easy driving distance from the Capitol. It is very interesting to study the personnel and personalities through these passing years. There are several members present, who are sons of pioneer legislators, with whom I served. There is Representative Levin, a former Speaker; I was acquainted with his father in 1931. Also, Representative Sticka, a former speaker, his father was a member in 1939. It became our sad duty to convey the remains of the elder Representative Sticka to his final resting place, having passed away during session. Our present Speaker is a son of a pioneer legislator, who was a colleague of mine, and Representative Etestad is another son of a pioneer member of the legislature. While over in the Senate is Senator Hagen, whose father was Speaker in 1939. There are others no doubt—I only mention a few whose fathers I knew personally.

I remember in 1931 when I arrived in Bismarck the capitol had burned only five days before and I am sure Ken Fitch certainly can remember the difficulties we had to overcome at that time, and that year it became an endurance test because of the housing conditions. Representative Fitch is the "oldest old member" of this group.

I remember in 1933 the ladies entered the political arena in North Dakota. Mrs. Minnie Craig was elected Speaker of the House, and North Dakota became the first State to elect a woman speaker. Mrs. Craig was again a member in 1935, and in 1937 my district elected Mrs. Nellie Olson a member, and now this year she is attending this session and serving as a "mailwoman."

In 1935 Representatives Dalzell, Levin and Saumur were elected: Dalzell, an I.V.A.; Levin, a N.P.L.; and Saumur a Democrat. It is indeed pleasing to observe that Representative Saumur has now moved across the aisle and (using a natural expression) has joined the Republican forces. It reminds me of my granddaughter's little puppy—"has got his eyes open."

In 1939 another very charming and lovely lady from Minot became a member and is with us in the present session and I am sure you all admire the personality and sound judgment of Representative Haugland.

Representative Holand, who I met when he first came to the legislature, was a good looking brunette. You know, I am reminded of the old granary on the farm, bulging in the middle and the shingles badly in need of repairs!! And, so time marches on!

Turning to the more serious side of life, I am sure in observing the present membership you will be able to solve the present problems: North Dakota's highway difficulties, taxing and equitably distributing the taxes involving the oil industry. Oil itself is well on the way to the two million dollar mark. Together with the rentals and royalties to the State I believe it has already passed the two million mark and we have hardly scratched the surface, and so when you find you have finished your labors here and return to your several districts, your constituents will accept your discussions and declare it a good job well done.

In closing, I would like to go back to my old habits as a member. Mr. Speaker, I move you that Representative Fitch be permitted to make the sine die motion at the conclusion of the session.

May God bless you and keep you in the due performance of your duty. Thank you, and thank you for your work."

Gentlemen:

This is to acknowledge with sincere gratitude receipt of a copy of House Concurrent Resolution A which was jointly introduced by you two gentlemen and adopted by unanimous vote of both houses of the 1953 North Dakota Legislature.

It is indeed gratifying to know that the North Dakota Legislature has seen fit to show recognition of this humanitarian effort. The fight against the dread disease, polio undoubtedly is one of the worthiest of all causes. The credit, however, does not belong only to the various county chairmen, but to ALL workers who every year give so generously of their time and effort to make these polio campaigns the great successes they have been. Above all, credit must be given to all those of our people who year after year respond so generously with their contributions. To them, in the final analysis belongs the real credit.

Please request that the secretaries of the House and of the Senate convey to their respective chambers our sincere gratitude and appreciation.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN F. STOCKERT, Chairman

Rep. Holand moved that the report given by a group of the House Appropriations Committee who visited the State Hospital at Jamestown, North Dakota, be printed in the House Journal, which motion prevailed.

VISITATION REPORT—HOUSE APPROPRIATION'S COMMITTEE GROUP TO STATE HOSPITAL AT JAMESTOWN, JANUARY 30, 1953.

Reps. Anderson of Richland, Wambheim, Lindberg of Stutsman, Kleppe, Vinje, Nelson of Ramsey, Larson of Dickey, Fitch, Wolf of Morton, Bratcher, Lindberg of Burke-Divide and Heimes

During the 1951 session of the North Dakota Legislature, attention was directed to the over-crowded conditions and lack of sufficient help at the State Hospital at Jamestown, North Dakota. As a result, appropriations were substantially increased at that session.

The Board of Administration later requested the American Psychiatric Association to make an inspection of the hospital and submit recommendations. Such inspection was made in November 1951, and a detailed report, calling attention to the needs of the hospital, was submitted in the summer of 1952. A study of the needs of the hospital was also made by the U. S. Public Health Service in the fall of 1952, and a report was submitted in November of that year.

In accordance with the recommendations of these reports, the Board of Administration sought to obtain the services of an able man to take over as superintendent, and to institute a more modern system of mental care and rehabilitation. The board believes it has found such a man in Dr. T. L. Gore.

Dr. A. M. Fisher, the present superintendent, has held that position since 1939, and for many years previous to that time, was a staff member of that institution. He had practiced medicine in North Dakota for more than forty years, and rated high in the medical profession. Although he has reached the retirement age, he has continued to give his best to the institution during a time when it was practically impossible to obtain qualified and experienced physicians versed in mental health and care. Dr. Fisher some time ago announced that he wished to retire in July of this year.

During the past several months the State Hospital has been the target of much criticism. While there is naturally room for improvement, we think it fair to say that the percentage of recoveries and discharges corresponds favorably with those of other similar institutions. Omitting seniles (none of whom can recover) and alcoholics (all of whom are discharged), the percentage of discharged patients of the State Hospital is 60.7%, which is higher than the national average.

On January 30 of this year members of the House Appropriations Committee, together with other House and Senate members, spent several hours making a very thorough inspection of the State Hospital. Legislative members were impressed at the neatness and cleanliness of the institution and the cooperative and friendly spirit which exists between superintendent, staff members and all other personnel. This was definitely apparent all through the institution, from the farm buildings to the hospital proper. Statements by Gore, Dr. Gowenlock and Dr. Gronewald, as well as by many other staff members and attendants, pointed to the splendid and faithful service carried on under the leadership of Dr. Fisher during his many years as superintendent of the hospital. No evidence of lack of cooperation or dissension was apparent among the superintendent, staff members and other employees. On the other hand there was confusion among the personnel and patients in the institution because of recent publicity leveled at the hospital. Genuine loyalty to the institution and its patients on the part of doctors, nurses, attendants and other personnel was very much in evidence.

Dr. Gore expressed his definite desire to have Dr. Fisher remain as head of the institution until July 1 so that an orderly and efficient transition could be accomplished. He further stated that it was his definite understanding that such an arrangement had been made.

We commend Dr. A. M. Fisher for his many years of efficient and faithful service to the State Hospital.

We believe that if such an orderly transition can be made it will not further disturb either personnel or patients, and we recommend, as outlined in the Governor's message, substantial increases in appropriations in order to provide added doctors, nurses and other necessary personnel, as well as relief from over-crowded conditions at the hospital."

Rep. Haugen moved that if there were any members of the group who visited the State Hospital at Jamestown, North Dakota, have anything to add to the report as printed in the House journal, that they be given the privilege of preparing a report and have it printed in the House journal, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Leier: "The place that was vacated and is vacant at the present time, represents the fourth floor in one of the dormitories. It is in two sections. The floor was formerly occupied by the help that was housed and fed at the institution. I believe two years ago or prior, there was an appropriation to build a dormitory with facilities for the help. When this was completed it left this floor vacant about seven or eight months ago. This floor is in two sections—one for the ladies and one for the men. The physical structure is in good condition. If it were to be used to provide facilities for additional inmates it would have to go through some repairing. They would not need to be extensive—just some painting and it would need plumbing. If somebody went in there and counted the doors, as to how many inmates it would accommodate, they would be in error, as there are many doors that would have to house various facilities, such as plumbing, etc. They would have to have a visiting room, or a room where the inmates could get together. It was pointed out that it would take care of about 120 more inmates but it would probably only take care of about 45 more inmates in each wing. The estimated cost down there they have figured can be done for about $15,000.00.

If I were to level any criticism, it would be that the Board of Administration had not had this work done already. I don't think anybody would have questioned their motive if they had got this money from the Emergency Fund. Then this work would have been completed and they could have been commended.

This section being in two different blocks could have been set up for both male and female inmates.

That is all I have to add to the report."

Rep. Holand moved that the House do now recess until 1:00 p. m. Tuesday, February 3, 1953, which motion prevailed and the Houe stood recessed.

V. L. GILBREATH, Chief Clerk.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY

Bismarck, February 3, 1953

The House convened at 2:00 p.m., pursuant to adjournment, with Speaker Bubel presiding.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Father Al P. Simon of St. Mary's Church in Bismarck, North Dakota.

Roll call: All members present except Reps. Fleenor and Snow.

Rep. Hafner requested that the House be on the eighth order of business, which request was granted.

Rep. Hafner moved that the courtesy of the floor be extended to Larry Voegele, and a committee of two be named to escort him to the rostrum. Mr. Voegele is a student from the University of North Dakota, who is majoring in law. He is a member of the North Dakota Chapter of the F.F.A. and has taken first honors in public speaking. He went to the Regional with twelve states participating at Lansing, Michigan, and placed third in the contest. He took part in the talent contest at the Western Round-up here in Bismarck last year, placing one of the ten high, also at the Fargo talent show. The F. H. Peavey Company has invited him to go to the Minnesota State Fair to do some singing and impersonating. He was at Boys' State in 1951. He is also a Golden Glove champion, and has earned over $300.00 in prizes.

The question on the motion of Rep. Hafner that the courtesy of the floor be extended to Larry Voegele and that a committee of two be named to escort him to the rostrum, which motion prevailed and the Speaker appointed as such committee, Reps. Hafner and Schuler.

Mr. Voegele: "I don't have too much to say to you ladies and gentlemen. It would just like to tell you that it is a privilege and an honor to stand before you and address you. It is an enviable position and lots of young fellows my age would like to be here and they are unable to. I would like to tell you that I am very grateful for this chance to appear before you. It is an honor to be here and to watch you operate with such efficiency. It is a great honor to be up here and to be able to talk to you. When I look at you operate I like to think when I was back at Boys' State. I see one of the other boys who was at Boys' State here today—Eugene Sailer, son of Rep. Sailer. I notice how we tried hard but a lot of us were a bit blood-thirsty compared to you gentlemen here. Quite a few of us were for capital punishment and we had some hot arguments. We were in favor of parking meters and that has not gone too well with this body here so we still have something to learn.

I would like to tell you about an incident that I ran into this morning. There was one gentleman who is a member of this House arguing with a doctor and an engineer as to which was the oldest profession that is known. The doctor said that Eve was created from Adam's rib, and that was a medical operation, and it is as far back as you can go. The engineer said, "I don't know about that because the world was created from chaos and that was an engineering feat." The man who is a politician said, "Let me ask one question—who created chaos?"

I don't want to take any more of your time. I know you are busy and that you have been going hot and heavy. So I will just say once again that I am glad that I had the chance to come before you — to see you and to be able to come up here and talk to you. I am really grateful beyond words for this invitation. Mr. Hafner said something about me doing some impersonations but we will do that some other time. So I will thank you again for everything and I hope that the way you vote will always be right."

Rep. Schuler: "Rep. Hafner insists that Mr. Voegele do some impersonations."

Mr. Voegele did several impersonations.

Rep. Schmalenberger moved that the courtesy of the floor be extended to a former member of the House from Stark County, Mr. Ed Culver, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Lindberg of Stutsman moved that the courtesy of the floor be extended to a former member of the House, Mr. Bert Orange, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Holand moved that the courtesy of the floor be extended to Mrs. Donnell Haugen, wife of Rep. Haugen, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Brown moved that the courtesy of the floor be extended to the son of Rep. Schmalenberger, Jacob Schmalenberger, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Haugen moved that Rep. Leet and he (Rep. Haugen) be allowed to withdraw House Bill No. 842, which motion prevailed.

The Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal made the following report:

Mr. Speaker: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal have carefully examined the Journal of the twenty-sixth day after recess and twenty-eighth day and recommend that the same be corrected as follows:

Correct the misspelling of the words on page 259, 260, 262, 271 and 272.

And when so corrected recommend that the same be approved.

REP. ROHDE, Chairman.

Rep. Link moved that the report be adopted, which motion prevailed and the report was adopted.

So the bill passed and the title was agreed to.

Rep. Brown moved that the vote by which House Bill No. 647 was passed be reconsidered and the motion to reconsider be laid on the table, which motion prevailed.

Rep. Brown moved that a committee of three be appointed to escort Miss Katy Ladoupulous of Athens, Greece, to the rostrum, which motion prevailed and the Speaker appointed as such committee, Reps. Brown, Holand and Leet.

Rep. Brown moved that the remarks of Miss Ladoupulous be printed in the journal, which motion prevailed.

Miss Ladoupulous: "It is very difficult for some of you people to pronounce my name but I am having difficulty with some of your Norwegian and Swedish names, so you are not the only ones that are having trouble. I don't really know what to say, I feel so honored as I have never before been asked to speak before such an important body.

Yesterday was the first time I ever spoke before the Senate and today is another important day. I am going to write it down in my autograph book in memory of this important time.

I don't want to take up your precious time. However, I will try and tell you a few things that you will be interested in knowing. I heard that the other day there were some girls who performed the hula. So I wonder if I should be shaking while I talk.

Anyway the gentleman here mentioned that I attended the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks. I am on a Fulbright scholarship. That is something like a mixture of people investing money for foreign students to come and attend American universities. The Fulbright act provided the money for transportation from Greece to New York and the University graciously provided for my tuition and the Delta Gamma sorority provides for my room and board. You can see that everything is being done to help make my stay possible here.

I want to tell you just a few things about my home country. I am sure you will have heard about ancient Greece and some people still feel erroneously, that Greece is as it used to be thousands of years ago. It is probably the same in one respect that the people are still thirsty for life like the ancient Greeks. However, the modern Greeks are not wearing togas, or whatever you call them. Their only aim now is democracy. Naturally being a Greek I feel so privileged that God enabled me to visit the country which has democracy and where it is taken seriously.

I came here yesterday morning for the first time and saw you people in session and I was so surprised to see some dignified gentlemen had their feet on the desk. I call this democracy and I think you should be proud of it and don't think I am thinking bad. I think it is wonderful that you do avail yourself of this democracy. It is all right, if it is not too far.

One thing that the people of Greece admire you Americans for is your system of education. I was disappointed that the bill for your Junior College was turned down and don't think I am trying to make any propaganda for that gentleman-back there—he was a good-sized gentleman—the one that was proposing it but I don't see him now.

Rep. Hegge moved that the House reconsider the action by which House Bill No. 594 was lost, which motion was lost.

"However I want to tell you that the people back home are always admiring the emphasis you give to your education. They think, like every other sensible person, that the more money that goes for education, the more benefit to the state. The more educated people there are on the earth, the better the world will be.

I would also like to mention a few things as to the way the Greek people suffered during the occupation. You people might not realize what a destructive war it was. I have experienced German occupation and Communist aggression, and I have experienced all sorts of things that no child should have ever experienced — you cannot imagine all the experiences.

You also might know that for four hundred consecutive years, Greece was under Turkey before we Greeks finally acquired independence. I was glad to learn in my history books the other day that you helped the Greeks financially and materially. Our free nation is only a hundred and a few more years, old. You all know we are situated in such a strategic point that everybody wants to get Greece. In 1941 we were such a small country, we never thought of going to face such a big empire as Mussolini's but we didn't surrender like Yugo-Slavia or Bulgaria, and we fought on. Had the Germans not intervened to help the Italians invade into Greece, the Greeks might even have gone to Rome because they had gone so far as to take all of Albania, which was Italy's territory. Another thing—Hitler, himself, in one of his speeches admitted that had not the Greeks been there to hold back the Germans (Hitler had to withdraw some of his troops that were fighting right outside of Moscow) they might have gone right into Moscow and by this time there would not be any Communists. That would be a good thing now, but not at that time.

The Greek people have suffered tremendously and had it not been for the Marshall Plan that alleviated some of the suffering, the Greek people would definitely have joined the Russians, because you can readily understand that where there is misery, where there is unemployment, wherever there are people that are suffering without food and without medical attention, naturally these people turn Communists. In this country, I don't see how there can be any Communism — the way you people find jobs and the way the government provides to you, it is surprising to hear that there are a few Communists. Probably these people do not realize what Communism is and what Communists have done to other people but if they had experienced what Communism has done to the Greeks just after the German occupation was over, they would kill any Communist that walks down the street. I hate to talk about the experiences that I had but I will name some so that you can better appreciate the things that you have. I hate to talk against the Germans because naturally there are good and bad people all over the world and I don't have any antipathy against any individual German, however I can tell you this and you must believe me. During the occupation, because the Greeks had not surrendered and kept resisting, the Germans would say "If we find two or three Germans killed, anywhere in Greece, we will stop one hundred and fifty Greeks in the street and we will execute them on the spot without asking any questions." The Resistance Corps wanted to kill as many Germans as possible, of course. They went into a village and because the people had killed two Germans they told them they were looking for the people that were responsible for the act and then the following morning, they called all these people out into the square and said the German Commander wanted to talk about something of importance to all the people and they all congregated in the square and then they separated the men from the women and the men were taken to a particular spot and executed, and then the women were enclosed in a church, and a German soldier who was daring enough and knew that the Germans were doing something that God would not want them to do, so he went secretly and opened the door and some of the women and children fled away and that church was fired. The Germans were so furious that on leaving the village they threw an incendiary bomb and burned the entire village which they had set on fire. The few survivors told the story and it is true. I found it in a book the other day. I was glad that I found that book and some of you might be interested in reading it. It tells all about Greece's wars.

I should not take any more of your time but I should tell you something about the lighter part of things in my country so as to make you a little happier.

I was surprised at the gentleman here a while ago. He was so excited that he looked like Senor DeGaspari. I wonder if there is any relationship. He spoke so heatedly.

I think I should ask if any of you have any questions. I have heard that in this House there are a lot of young bachelors and that they are going to be taxed seven hundred dollars. They shouldn't let that be done—these young men should do something about it.

Are there any questions that anyone would be interested in learning? I don't know what to say. I hope my English is comprehensible."

Mr. Arndt: "What is the chief occupation of Greece?"

Miss Ladoupulous: "The country is chiefly agricultural. Greece is very mountainous and only one third of the country is available for agriculture yet this one third which is available has been cultivated for years and years. The earth is not as productive as North Dakota. And I would like to mention that Greece is three times smaller than North Dakota is. Yet Greece has so many million inhabitants that you can just imagine what it is like, especially now that our quota system has been cut.

One day as I was addressing a Lions' Club, I asked if any one had any questions they would like to ask me, and one man called out "What are you doing tonight?"

If there are no other questions I will just say that the Greek people are very grateful for American aid and assure you that whatever aid has gone out of your pockets and your taxes to furnish equipment and financial aid to our country for security has not been in vain. Should Communism ever threaten Greece, you must be assured that the Greeks will always be ready to fight. Many people erroneously think that America has more men fighting in Korea than any other country, but at this moment there are more Greeks fighting in Korea, according to population, than you can imagine.

Yesterday when I was in the Senate, I asked if they had any questions and one gentleman gets up and says, "Well, Katy, we all have some questions we would like to ask but our wives are upstairs." I hope your wives are not upstairs at this moment.

It was a pleasure and I hope you have understood a few of the things that I have said."

Rep. Sticka moved that the House do now recess until 1:00 p.m., Wednesday, February 4, 1953, which motion prevailed and the House stood in recess.

V. L. GILBREATH, Chief Clerk.

House Memorial Resolution II

REP. FRANK, Chairman.

Rep. Hornbacher moved that the report be adopted, which motion prevailed, and the report was adopted.

Rep. Bye moved that the remarks of Governor Brunsdale be printed in the House journal, which motion prevailed.

Governor Brunsdale: "Today we have been interested listeners and onlookers of the program given by the Boy Scouts. I am sure you all voice with me our appreciation of what the boys presented here today.

It is fitting that this program has been presented on Lincoln's Birthday anniversary. The Boy Scout Creed and what it stands for and what Lincoln's life appears to reveal are so similar. Reading the history of his life or reading his speeches, his letters and his biographies, this impression is striking.

I am not going to elaborate at length upon the life of Lincoln because in reading what can be found upon it there is so much that can be said that one scarcely can do justice to it in all its phases in a few minutes. One notes he was born midst poverty in backwoods country; he lost his mother in early boyhood. He always seemed to be on the move with a restless father, Tom Lincoln who was ever looking for greener pastures elsewhere, until the father had reached an age when physical endurance and youthful strength forced him finally to reside on a bit of land on the Sangamon River in Illinois, after having moved five times and across the boundaries of three states.

Of education in a formal way there was perhaps not much more than a year in his entire lifetime. Somehow perhaps through the fortunate association with several who whetted his appetite for the written word and the mysteries of what could be found in books, also because of the love of his stepmother who seemed to see in him a man of destiny, and who for him did more than many mothers would have done for their own sons, he acquired by himself that which formal schooling didn't provide. Someone interested him finally in the pursuit of law, then the study of the science of government. He served in the Legislature as many of you, nevertheless one sometimes wonders why one so equipped with his limited education, with experience confined to a pioneer life and the struggle for existence could rise to be a great executive, to be a man who had a grasp of many problems that must have been entirely foreign to him.

In his letters to the Union Generals during the Civil War one notes he had a high degree of common sense; that he was quick to acknowledge his shortcomings and mistakes. As in a letter to General Grant when he said, "I thought you were wrong but I didn't write you. I know now you were right and I was wrong." This was written to the General concerning the campaign at Vicksburg.

His was a life of loneliness; and perhaps reading gave some release from it, and again from reading the Bible, which he must have read and reread many times, he acquired a spiritual background so evident in his writings and speeches. He had an insight into what impels one to sometimes rise above what he is not prepared for.

It leads us to believe that an education, marvelous weapon that it is for any calling in life, without someone or something to drive one on that element alone is not enough. Very often experience in life, and handicaps if properly applied, give to man good judgment and perspective not learned from books. Often this is called common horse-sense. Lincoln seemed to have it whenever he needed it in solving the trying problems of his day. Others far more learned and experienced apparently disagreed with him. The sophisticated people of his day often ridiculed him, lampooned him. His Gettysburg Address received scarcely favorable comment from anyone. Edward Everett Hale wrote him a letter complimenting him but he was supposed to have said after the address was given in reply to a question, that he was disappointed in it. Perhaps experiences of this kind and others at times made him sad. Perhaps he felt that in some respects he was not the equal of others and yet there was "malice toward none and charity for all".

There was a happier side of Lincoln. He delighted in telling anecdotes and stories and he was full of them. In a political campaign he gave a good account of himself. We can easily understand that that must have been the case because literature and cartoons from the opposition indicated it, as for example one that I may quote by someone who attempted to lampoon him during the second campaign for President in 1864. He said and I quote, "Mr. Lincoln stands six feet twelve in his socks, which he changes once every ten days. His anatomy is composed mostly of bones and when walking he resembles the offspring of a happy marriage between a derrick and a windmill. In his habits he is by no means foppish though he brushes his hair sometimes and is said to wash. He swears fluently. A strict temperance man himself he does not object to another man's being pretty drunk, especially when he is about to make a bargain with him. He is fond of fried liver and onions, and is a member of the church. He can hardly be called handsome though he is certainly much better looking since he had the smallpox." This is typical of much said by those who could not somehow convince the electorate that there was in the man not only greatness of character, a man of honorable conduct, and of ability, a man who had already served as President for four years through some of the most hectic years any President has ever served in this country. One notes, of course, there was opposition to him for reelection based on honest opinions of those who differed. He did suffer untold abuse, not called for.

Lincoln, of course, hoped to avoid war. He hoped to preserve the Union and limit slavery but as we all know war came, the kind of a war which creates bitterness, anguish and sorrow that lives for generations if the wounds aren't healed shortly after it is over. When it was apparent that slavery, which was in one sense the cause of the war, must go, he issued his Emancipation Proclamation. After the war was over we had as a result the adoption of the Thirteenth Amendment to the Constitution, which provides that "neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States or any other place subject to their jurisdiction."

In reading his second Inaugural Address, a short address covering only four pages written in longhand, we see the greatness and the grandeur of the character Lincoln portrayed as nowhere else. It has often been referred to as Lincoln's Sermon on the Mount. Next to his Gettysburg Address it will live forever. Some passages of it reach toward the sublime. In it there is displayed unmistakable determination but spiritual power, when he said in one paragraph quote, "Fondly do we hope, fervently do we pray that the mighty scourge of war may speedily pass away. Yet if God wills that it continue, until all the wealth piled by the bondsmen's 250 years of unrequited toil shall be sunk, and until every drop of blood drawn with the lash will be paid by another drawn with a sword, as was said three thousand years ago, so still it must be said, "the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether."

Then finally as a climax to a revelation of the true Lincoln, the man of kindness, love and strength of character which reaches always its ultimate among men in the display of forgiveness where wrongs have been committed, I quote those immortal lines: "With malice toward none, with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

Historians have often pondered over what might have been the history of this country following the Civil War. There have been those that have contended this would have been a different Union than that which existed for many trying years following the war. The assassins bullet ended all that. In fact the bitter experiences of people and states following the bloody struggle has not died down altogether even to this day, as much as both sides would like to forget it at times; but it is fortunate there was a Lincoln as long as he lived.

Finally may I conclude with a statement penned by a friend which is typical in all we can learn of the man. "How prudently we proud men compete for nameless graves while now and then some starveling of Fate forgets himself into immortality! This might well be the message of Lincoln to us today. And it stands in good stead in the boundless energy and enthusiasm of youth that we have had so graphically portrayed for us here today with the visit of the Boy Scouts."

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NORTH DAKOTA:

1 SECTION 1.) For the purpose of promoting the health,
2 safety, morals or the general welfare, or to secure the 3 orderly development of approaches to municipalities, the 4 board of township supervisors may establish one or more
5 zoning districts in the area or areas lying within three 6 miles of the corporate limits of any municipality and 7 within such districts may regulate and restrict the 8 erection, construction, reconstruction, alteration, re-

10 number of stories, and size of buildings and structures, 11 the percentage of lot that may be occupied, the size of 12 courts, yards, and other open spaces, the density of 13 population, and the location and use of buildings, 14 structures, and land for trade, industry, residence or 15 other purposes. All such regulations and restrictions 16 shall be uniform throughout each district, but the 17 regulations and restrictions in one district may differ
18 from those in other districts. No regulation or restric-
19 tion, however, shall prohibit or prevent the use of land
20 or buildings for farming or any of the normal incidents 21 of farming. The provisions of this Act shall not be 22 construed to include any power relating to the establish-

24 SECTION 2.) The regulations and restrictions
25 established in any township zoning district shall be 26 made in accordance with a comprehensive plan with 26a reason-
27 able consideration as to the character of such district,
28 its peculiar suitability for particular uses, the normal 29 growth of the municipality, and the various types of 30 occupations, industries, and land uses within the area,
31 and shall be designed to facilitate traffic movement,
32 encourage orderly growth and development of the municipi-

33 pality and adjacent areas, and promote health, safety, 34 and general welfare.

35 SECTION 3.) The board of township supervisors of 36 a township desiring to avail itself of the powers conferred by this Act shall establish, by resolution, a
37 township zoning commission to recommend the
38 township zoning commission to recommend the 38a boundaries
39 of the various township zoning districts and appropriate 40 regulations and restrictions to be established therein.
41 Membership of such commission shall consist of three 42 township supervisors and two members appointed from

51 hold public hearings thereon before submitting its final 52 report and recommendations to the board or boards of 52a town-
53 ship supervisors. The board or boards of township supervisors may thereupon establish, and from time to time 54 change, the boundaries of township zoning districts and 55 establish, amend, supplement, and enforce regulations and 56 restrictions in such districts. No regulation, restriction,

68 erected, constructed, reconstructed, altered, repaired,
69 converted, or maintained, or if any building, structure,
70 or land is used, in violation of any regulation or restriction made under the authority conferred by this Act, the proper local authorities of the township or of the 71 municipality in relation to which such zoning regulation
72 or restriction is established, or any affected citizen
73 or property owner, in addition to other remedies, may

86 restriction, or decision of the board of township supervisors made pursuant to this Act may be made to the dis-
87

88 trict court of the county in which such township lies.
 89 upon a showing that any rule, regulation, restriction, or

A concurrent resolution providing for the repeal of long and short haul clause of section four of the Interstate Commerce Act.

- 1 WHEREAS, there will be proposed and introduced in

- 2 Congress of the United States legislation providing for re-
- 3 peal of the long and short haul clause of the fourth
- 4 section of the Interstate Commerce Act; and
- 5 WHEREAS, the repeal of the long and short haul
- 5a clause

7a same
8 route in the same direction; and
9 WHEREAS, the charging of a higher rate for a short
9a haul
10 than for a longer haul, the shorter being included within

Senator Young: "It is always a real pleasure to come back here again. It will always be my ambition to visit the North Dakota legislature every session. I remember one time years ago I was co-sponsor of a bill to cut down the size of the legislature. My good friend Senator Watt opposed that on the grounds that the legislature is the best educational institution there is in North Dakota, and he didn't want it cut down. I myself got more education and good experience here than any other place in my life. There is only one member here today that was here in 1933 which was my first session. I may be wrong, but I believe my good friend, Ken Fitch, is the only one here now that was a member in 1933.

Anyway, I am enjoying my service in the United States Senate and particularly that part which has to do with agriculture. I like the work on the Appropriations Committee but you get into so many fields that you are not so much concerned with, but many of the witnesses that appear there in closed session give you excellent information on world problems. For example, today, Secretary Dulles and Mr. Staasen are appearing in a closed session. It would be very interesting to be there for that meeting.

There we are divided into several sub-committees on each committee. Each committee is divided into five different sub-committees and everything goes on seniority and each ranking member has a chairmanship. The committee I am chairman of is the Appropriations Sub-Committee, and besides Appropriations I am second ranking member on Interior Appropriations; second on Civil Functions Appropriations and also a member of the Armed Forces and Social Security sub-committees.

The sub-committee chairman handles the hearing, marks up the bills, presents the bill to the full committee, which only takes two or three hours and then is in charge of the bill on the floor.

I wonder sometimes what your reaction here is to the progress of the present administration in Washington. On the whole I think President Eisenhower is starting out very good. Certainly no President has faced no graver nor more important problems.

However in the field of agriculture, I don't think he has done quite as well. We are in a rather serious situation so far as agriculture is concerned. There has only been two periods since the records were kept where the net farm income compared with the gross income has been lower—that was in 1921, and from 1931 to 1933. It has every one gravely concerned. I don't think there is any use in talking about tax reduction unless we can get the farm commodity prices on a more stable basis.

Perhaps we are not quite as bad off as some people think. We have a pretty good farm price support program on the statute books. It provides, as you know, 90% support for two years yet, and after that we have a mandatory support at 75% to 90%, so we will have prices on wheat production at approximately $2.20 per bushel for two years more. Other important crops like oats, barley, and rye are only optional at zero to 90%. He need not provide any price supports at all, and that is where the thinking of the Secretary of Agriculture is very important. A good secretary can make an excellent program without too much cost to the government. If the secretary doesn't believe in price supports and other important farm supports, he can by his administration make that look very badly and it would be of very little help to the farmers. But there is a growing feeling in Congress and throughout the nation that we just can't let this agricultural income drop any lower. In fact it is going to have to level off at a higher plane than it is at now.

I am receiving thousands of letters and telegrams from all over the United States. I checked with my office this morning and they said there was more than ever today. I asked if there were any bad ones and they said there were two bad ones and they were from Florida.

I spent most of last week talking with farmers, bankers, political leaders and others from Nebraska, Iowa, and as far east as Indiana, and from many southern states—they were fellows who had come to Washington to do something about our present situation. I think, and I feel quite sure, something will be done about it and that farm prices will be stabilized. It is highly important to us.

It has been a real pleasure to be here with you and as I said at the start, I hope to come back and visit this legislature every session as long as I live.

Thank you very much."

Which was read the first time.

Rep. Levin moved that House Concurrent Resolution "D-1" be printed in the House Journal and further action deferred one legislative day, which motion prevailed.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION "D-1"

Introduced by Reps. Levin and Wolf of McIntosh-Logan.

A concurrent resolution opposing the repeal of the long and short haul clause of section four of the Interstate Commerce Act.

1 WHEREAS, there will be proposed and introduced 1a in the
 2 Congress of the United States legislation providing for re-
 3 peal of the long and short haul clause of the fourth
 4 section of the Interstate Commerce Act; and
 5 WHEREAS, the repeal of the long and short haul
 5a clause
 6 would permit railroad companies to assess lower rates
 6a and
 7 charges for long hauls than for shorter hauls over the 7a same
 8 route in the same direction; and
 9 WHEREAS, the charging of a higher rate for a short
 9a haul
 10 than for a longer haul, the shorter being included within
 11 the longer, is now forbidden on North Dakota intrastate
 12 traffic in Section 49-0409 of the North Dakota Revised 13 Code of 1943; and
 14 WHEREAS, the passage of such legislation will result 14a in
 15 increased freight rates and charges on articles moving in 16 interstate commerce to and from North Dakota, 16a particularly
 17 on grain, lignite, and other commodities, to the detriment 18 of producers, shippers and consumers of the State of

18a North

19 Dakota; that it would encourage discriminations in rates
20 against small shippers in favor of large shippers that 21 would be against the public interest; and would, we 21a believe,
22 be in the end detrimental to the best interests of the 23 railroads themselves.

24 NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE 24a HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

25 SENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF NORTH DAKOTA,
25a THE SENATE
26 CONCURRING THEREIN:

27 That the Congress of the United States is hereby

29 of any legislation providing for the repeal or amendment

31 the Interstate Commerce Act, when, as, and if presented 32 for its consideration.

33 BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Senators and

33a Repre-
34 sentatives of the State of North Dakota in the Congress 34a of

35 the United States be requested to put forth every 35a honorable

36 effort to defeat the aforesaid type of legislation upon

37 presentation to the Congress of the United States, and 37a that

38 copies of this memorial be forwarded forthwith to the 39 President of the United States, to the President of the 40 Senate, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of

Rep. Link moved that the address of Judge Thomas Burke be printed in the Journal, which motion prevailed.

Judge Burke: "Mr. President, Members of the Legislative Assembly, Ladies and Gentlemen: It seemed to me that it would be a good thing on this day when we are meeting to commemorate the deceased members of this assembly to pay honor to the services that they have rendered the State of North Dakota, if we would also commemorate the memory of the great first President of the United States and so I will undertake to attempt to tell you a few things about the Father of his Country.

We usually remember George Washington as a soldier or as a statesman, because it was in these fields that he acquired his greatest fame and distinction. As a young man in the French and Indian wars, he acquired a reputation for bravery and tactical genius that made him the logical person to lead the armies of the Revolutionary War and as a general in the Revolutionary War, he achieved such distinction that he was acclaimed by both friend and foe and all the military geniuses of his time as one of the greatest soldiers in the world's history.

In the political field, he served with distinction the Virginia House of Burgesses; as President of the Constitutional Convention, he presided at the launching of our Ship of State, and as the first President, he piloted it through the turbulent seas of political strife and financial insecurity to calmer waters where other hands could safely take the helm. But it seems to me that to us in North Dakota, it is most interesting to know that from personal inclination, Washington's first love was a love of the soil. Perhaps as a young man when he was out in the western country, surveying land for Lord Fairfax or accompanying Braddock on his expeditions fighting Indians—perhaps then, the love of adventure lured him on, but from the time that he married Martha Custis until he died, he left Mount Vernon with reluctance.

He answered the call to become Commander-in-Chief of the Army of the Revolution; he answered the call to become President with reluctance, and it was only because of his high sense of duty and responsibility that he answered those calls.

In his correspondence with Arthur Young a leading British agriculturist and publisher of the Annals of Agriculture, he wrote at one time: 'I think with you that the life of a husbandman is most delectable. It is honorable, it is amusing, and, with judicious management it can be profitable. To see plants rise from the earth and flourish and flourish by the superior skill and bounty of the laborer fills a contemplative mind with ideas which are more easy to be conceived than expressed.'

And in another letter to Mr. Young, he wrote, 'The more I am acquainted with agricultural affairs, the better I am pleased with them, insomuch, that I can find no where so great a satisfaction as in those innocent and useful pursuits. In indulging these feelings I am led to reflect how much more delightful to an undebauched mind is the task of making improvements on the earth than all the vainglory which can be acquired from ravaging it by the most uninterrupted career of conquests.'

How fortunate it is that we had for our first President, for our first leader, a man who had such an intelligent and enlightened sense of proportion. George Washington was a farmer of extensive estates. He inherited about two hundred acres from his father in Frederick County, Virginia. When he was twenty-two, his brother, Lawrence, died and left him Mount Vernon. Of course during the next few years he was engaged in wars against the French and Indians, and spent little time there. But at the age of twenty-seven, he came back to Virginia, married Martha Custis and settled down at Mount Vernon. His wife brought a large dowry and immediately Washington set out to acquire more land to increase the production at Mount Vernon. By the time of the Revolutionary War, the land at Mount Vernon consisted of over eight thousand acres. He had some four thousand acres in other parts of Virginia, east of the Appalachian Mountains and he had rather a precarious title to forty or fifty thousand acres west of the Appalachians. The land at Mount Vernon he supervised himself—the other land he rented out and he made many attempts to find some way of putting the land west of the Appalachians to profitable use but mostly he was unsuccessful.

George Washington was an industrious farmer. Mount Vernon consisted of five separate farms. They were all administered at Mount Vernon but each farm had its own set of buildings and was operated as a separate unit.

George Washington's diary showed that practically every morning when he was at home he left the mansion house shortly after dawn on horseback and visited all of the farms during the day, supervising and directing the operations that were under way at each place.

Farming in 18th Century Virginia included many occupations and enterprises which we don't ordinarily expect with farming today. The economy of 18th Century Virginia was an agricultural economy. There were no factories. If someone wanted to buy any manufactured articles, they had to be imported from England. The colonies operated under discriminatory prices, high prices and high transportation charges. Mount Vernon supported between 150 and 200 Negro slaves. There were between twenty and twenty-five white employees, some of them were indentured servants and others were free. Most of the free white employees had their families that Mount Vernon had to house, feed and clothe—making around two hundred to two hundred fifty people to house, feed and clothe. In connection with the operations therefore, Washington had such industries as a tannery, a shoemaker repair shop, spinning and weaving shops, a tailoring and dress-making shop. He had a brickyard, a lumber yard, he operated two mills, he had a foundry and a blacksmith shop, so that all the enterprises could be carried on at the one place and the raw materials transferred into the finished product and consumed on the place. Besides these enterprises which were considered essential, he operated fisheries on the Potomac and he had a distillery. Certainly one wonders, when one considers the extensiveness of the operations, the variety of operations, how skilled and industrious a man would have to be to supervise all of them.

Washington was a scientific farmer. The early economy in Virginia was a tobacco economy. The practice was for the farmer to secure a tract of land, plant it to tobacco, which was a crop that was very hard upon the land, then grow four or five crops of tobacco in succession and then move on to a new piece of land as that was cheaper than it was to keep the old piece in condition. George Washington was one of the first to see that this tobacco economy was not good for the country—that it would eventually deplete the resources of the State of Virginia. He had a sense of duty to posterity. There were few agricultural works published at that time but Washington had what there were in his library. He not only read and studied them but some of them he abstracted in long hand so he could keep his notes handy and have them available at all times. Washington immediately, or shortly, after he went to Mount Vernon started experiments in maintaining and restoring the fertility of the soil. He had test plots. Sometimes he had half a dozen test plots going at the same time, where he experimented with different types of fertilizer to find out which were best. He used all kinds of mixtures—mud from the Potomac, salt petre and all the other types of fertilizer that were available. He used them singly and also mixed, to test them until he found the one best suited to his purposes. Washington was one of the first farmers in America to institute a plan of rotation of the crops. He furnished his overseers with a plan for a six year rotation—a different crop every year was included in this rotation. He planted clover or other forage crops—he left the land fallow one year and one year he raised a crop of barley which was plowed under. His theory was that by this rotation he could restore the fertility to the land. One of his greatest complaints was that neighboring farmers that let their land lie fallow, just let it grow up to weeds.

He was always experimenting with new plants and grasses and trying to find a new crop that would be profitable to raise in Virginia. He imported seeds from England and the West Indies and he imported plants from England and the West Indies. He was always looking for something that was profitable and one of the plants with which he experimented was one which we know well—alfalfa. The land was not right and he was not successful with alfalfa. He also experimented with his orchard. He raised all different types of fruit that would grow in this country. He had peach and apples and cherries. He was constantly crossing, doing his own grafting, to see if he could not produce a better crop than the one he had been getting. He also was one of the first to institute a fully diversified farming program. He raised horses, cattle, sheep, hogs and all types of poultry, and he claimed to have been the first man in the United States, or in America to raise mules. His principal mule raising was after the Revolutionary War when the King of Spain sent him a jack and two jennies. The jack he named 'Royal Gift', and LaFayette sent him a jack from the Isle of Malta, which he named 'Knight of Malta'. When he died, to show the extent of his livestock, he had on hand about 120 horses and mules, 350 head of horned cattle, nearly 700 sheep and a large number of hogs, the exact number of which was undetermined.

George Washington was always a successful farmer. When he died he left an estate of about $750,000.00. Of course he had inherited a substantial sum of money, he had married a substantial sum of money, he had inherited around 300 acres of land, and Mrs. Custis was estimated to have been worth around $100,000.00 when he married her, but certainly the property was greatly augmented under Washington's care and custody.

Washington kept most accurate records. Every cent that was spent and every cent taken in was entered in the books so it is possible with reasonable accuracy to estimate what Washington's usual income was. The only difficulty is to find out what the value of the monetary unit was. They had Virginia pounds, Pennsylvania pounds, Maryland pounds, all of which had different values and you had to figure the exact standard, just as you do now between foreign countries. There were all kinds of foreign coins and currencies in circulation. In fact the cash that Washington had on hand showed about five or six different kinds of gold coins, silver coins and different kinds of paper money. The Spanish, the French, the colonies all had different money. For instance the seven years of the Revolution, when Washington was away, the receipts of the plantation were over 83,000 pounds. That was Revolutionary inflation, of course. It was during that time that the expression 'Not worth a continental' arose, so we cannot judge Washington's income by the money he received during the Revolution but it is estimated that a fair judgment is that his cash income was between ten and fifteen thousand dollars a year on the farm, and when we consider how much of the produce was consumed on the farm because not only were there the supplies for the people that lived there but most of the men who worked there for wages took their wages largely in produce. So when we consider the amount used on the farm and turned over in payment of wages, the ten to fifteen thousand dollars a year was almost a clear profit.

Another thing to mention about Washington's selling of produce, he always tried to figure the best way to sell—whether to sell the animal, slaughter the animal, sell the meat, the hide, the tallow, the wool. Sometimes he sold his wheat as wheat, sometimes he milled it all and sold it as flour and on one occasion when both the markets for flour and wheat were down, he baked it all into biscuits and sold it as 'hard tack' to the ships that came into the colonies. It shows to the extent to which Washington would go in order to get the best he could out of his crop.

Despite the fact that Washington spent much intelligent effort in agriculture, he had time for other things, too. He was a church warden in the established church in Virginia, and as I mentioned before he served with distinction in the Virginia House of Burgesses. He had time to engage in sport and his favorite sports were hunting and fishing, and particularly fox hunting. He maintained a large kennel of hounds and he maintained fine riding horses and Thomas Jefferson called him 'the greatest horseman in America'. His diary reads: 'We went fishing today'; 'We went ducking today'; 'We went hunting today'; 'We killed a deer today'. When he was west of the Alleghenies, he even shot a buffalo. Besides sports, he had time to extend a great deal of hospitality at Mount Vernon. There were always guests there. He entertained lavishly. Washington was not a prohibitionist. He served wine with his meals and in moderation and after the meals he was always the first to propose a toast and the toast was always 'To all our friends'.

Besides these activities I think I should point out that Washington was not a grasping man. He was a fine business man but he was not a grasping man. I have read two of his letters in which he returned interest on money which he had loaned. He wrote back saying that 'I am returning the money you enclosed for interest. This loan was not made for profit and I cannot keep the interest'. He was generous in his contributions to all worthy projects. He was generous in the care of the dependents of his employees. It is quite clear that on many occasions he kept employees on the place long after their usefulness had expired and at the time of his death there were 150 to 200 slaves on the plantation due to the fact that Washington wouldn't sell them. When they were old and decrepit he said that he would not break families. The only time he sold a slave was when he had been a bad actor and he shipped him to the West Indies. He also looked forward to the day when slavery would be abolished. He was opposed to slavery. He only used slaves because of dire necessity. There was no other help available in the colonies. Farmers then used walking plows and broadcast the seed by hand. They threshed the grain by tramping it out on the barn floor. So you can see the great number of employees you would have to have, and it was only because of dire necessity that Washington had slaves. When he died he provided that his slaves should be freed upon the death of Martha Washington.

He was generous in his care of the poor. He allowed the poor to use his fishing station on the Potomac River without charge. He furnished them all the equipment—boats and seines. He instructed his help that if they had trouble, they should help them pull the seines in. He always maintained a corn house which was filled with corn each year and used exclusively for the poor.

I think in connection with Washington's charity I should read a letter that Washington wrote to his overseer shortly after he took command of the Colonial troops at Cambridge. He said:

'Let the hospitality of the house, with respect to the poor, be kept up. Let no one go hungry away. If any of this kind of people should be in want of corn, supply them necessities provided it does not encourage them to idleness, and I have no objection to you giving my money in charity to the amount of forty or fifty pounds a year, when you think it well bestowed. What I mean by having no objection is, that it is my desire it should be done. You are to consider that neither myself nor wife is now in the way to do these good offices'.

Seems to me no man was ever more considerate of the rights of others than Washington.

When we think of the life that Washington led—the fullness of his life—his prosperity—his family life and then think of what Thomas Jefferson wrote in the Declaration of Independence 'To this cause we pledge our lives, our prosperity and our sacred honor', certainly when Washington took command of the troops at Cambridge and dedicated his life and his prosperity and his honor to the cause of the Revolution, no man in this country has ever dedicated more. I thank you."

Benediction.....Capt. Cecil Dye

Rep. Wolf of McIntosh-Logan: It is customary toward the end of the session to present our leaders in both factions, our floor leaders of both the minority and majority, with gifts, for the work they have done and the battles they have led us through on both sides of the fence and to our Speaker who has presided over this House. I now call on Rep. Larson of Burleigh to make the presentation to the assistant floor leader of the Nonpartisan League, Rep. Link.

Rep. Larson of Burleigh: Now, Mr. Speaker, Fellow Members of this House: It has been a great pleasure for me this year to serve my first term in the House of Representatives. I think anyone who comes here in their first year, will have to agree that we have a combination of amusement and amazement, of pain and pleasure, and I think we all have shared many of these experiences together. I want to say that the particular gentleman to whom I have the honor to make a presentation to, has been a source of awe and inspiration to me, as a new member. He has been a very careful workman. I have the utmost respect for him. He certainly has done a grand job, not only for his faction but for all of us, and on behalf of your fellow legislators I am very happy to present you with this gift, Mr. Link.

Rep. Wolf of McIntosh-Logan: "Thank you, Mr. Larson. Mr. Link will say a few words in acceptance."

Rep. Link: Thank you, Rep. Larson. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and friends: I am not going to address you as representatives but merely as friends, because that is the way I have learned to know all of you. Rep. Larson said that as a beginner here, as a first term, in the legislature, he has viewed with amazement and amusement some of the things that transpire here. Let me say that after four terms, there are still many things to surprise and amaze one, and I am sure that goes for the oldest members of the House. I don't believe anyone can ever come back without seeing something new in the North Dakota legislature.

On the serious side of this thing, Friends, I have deeply appreciated working with each and every one of you. And if there is some little bit that I have contributed to make this session a success, I will feel my efforts have been well repaid. Thank you all for your kindness and cooperation."

Rep. Wolf of McIntosh-Logan: Thank you, Mr. Link, for that fine acceptance speech. Now, I am going to call on Rep. Langseth to present our assistant floor leader on the other side of the aisle, Rep. Nygaard. He is assistant floor leader for the ROC."

Rep. Langseth: "Mr. Chairman, Mr. Speaker and Mr. Nygaard: It gives me a great deal of pleasure to make this presentation. I have worked with Mr. Nygaard for the past six years since he came to the legislature and we all know how very sincerely he takes his work and how completely he does his work. I therefore take great pleasure in giving this to you, Mr. Nygaard."

Rep. Wolf of McIntosh-Logan: "Thank you, Rep. Langseth. We will now have a few remarks from Rep. Nygaard in acceptance of the gift."

Rep. Nygaard: "Mr. Chairman and Friends: I have worked here as a representative for the past six years. I think probably Rep. Langseth and I have been in each other's hair about as much as anybody, though we have come out as friends. I have worked with all of you folks and I believe I can leave here again this time and say I am leaving a bunch of friends.

Our work is hard and it is as hard as we make it. I have attempted to do my share. Probably I have failed. Probably some of the work I have done is in the wrong direction, according to some, but I have worked in the direction of doing things as I saw them. The little things I may have contributed to this legislature and to the two preceding sessions I hope that I will never regret. But one thing I will never regret, and very definitely, is having worked with you people and having sat down with you from time to time to work these problems out. It has been to me one of the greatest experiences of my life and if I ever live to be 100 years old it will be one of the experiences that I will never forget is having served here, and I hope as time goes on that our paths will cross again and I will be very happy to meet each and every one of you and for this gift I certainly do appreciate it."

Rep. Wolf of McIntosh-Logan: "Thank you Rep. Nygaard. Next I am going to call on Rep. Toussaint to make the presentation for the floor leader for the Nonpartisan League, Donnell Haugen."

Rep. Toussaint: "Mr. Chairman, Fellow Members of the House, Ladies and Gentlemen. This award is going to be made to the outstanding coach of the year. When this fellow came down here he had a fine bunch of material for a swell team, then when he got working with them, they just didn't want to play ball. He found out that they didn't want to learn their signals when he tried to call them. When he called for a "T" formation, they would strike out in a single wing formation. But he has been persistent and toward the close of the season he won a couple of games though the score is not very impressive. But I am sure we should give him a lot of credit. Donnell, you and I have not seen eye to eye always, and sometimes you have made me awfully mad, but I couldn't stay mad at you very long. It puts me in the position of the man who got mad at his wife one day and he decided that as a disciplinary measure he would take her across his lap and spank her. He couldn't finish the job because he couldn't stay mad long enough.

Anyway, Donnell, it has been nice working with you and I want to assure you that if you ever come to Fargo, give us a ring and we will appreciate it and if it is at dinner time, we will appreciate that much more. I assure you it has been fun here and I appreciate the courtesy and help you have never failed to give me when I asked. We have not always seen the same issues eye to eye but we could not expect to do that. This is the American way and that is the way we want it. In appreciation for what you have done this session from all of us to you, this is a little remembrance."

Rep. Wolf of McIntosh-Logan: "Thank you, Rep. Toussaint. We will now have a few remarks from the floor leader, Donnell Haugen, in acceptance of the gift."

Rep. Haugen: "Thank you, Rep. Toussaint, and fellow House members: Rep. Toussaint's remarks reminded me somewhat of the Irish widow at her husband's funeral. When the preacher was telling what a grand man he had been and what a wonderful person, Bridget turned to her son and whispered, "Mickey, will you go down and peek in the casket and see if that can be your father?"

I do appreciate having worked with you during the session and as Mr. Toussaint said we have not always agreed during these sixty days on everything—even some of us Leaguers have not always agreed on all issues that came before us but we have had a very good session from the viewpoint of the House at least and one of the reasons we have had that is because we have had good committee chairmen—most of whom were Nonpartisans—but I want to say that especially about the committee chairmen who have not been Leaguers, the only lady member. I was fortunate in working with her this session and she did a wonderful job and I want to extend to her my appreciation.

We will go home, all of us, having had our differences but as has been said before, 'We will all go home as friends.' Some may not come back here but those that do will again have their differences. It is the pleasant part, and the wonderful part, of democracy that we can differ in principle on some issues and still retain our liking for each other and our respect.

I want to thank you very much for these gifts."

Rep. Wolf of Mc-Intosh-Logan: "Thank you, Rep. Haugen, for your acceptance speech. Now we are going to call on Rep. Beede, who is going to make the presentation speech of the gift to Rep. Holand, the floor leader of the ROC group."

Rep. Beede: "Rep. Holand, it gives me a lot of pleasure to be able to make this presentation speech to us because you know I too served in this House as a minority floor leader and I realize just what a job that is. However, Rep. Holand, you have also had the opportunity of serving, not only as minority floor leader but also as a majority floor leader, and I think few people in the legislature have ever had the privilege and the opportunity of serving in those two capacities. I think the experience gained in those two capacities is really worth while. Sometimes tho' I must admit, I have wondered whether or not the followers of Roy's leadership were among his own flock or among our flock. For the benefit of Alex Haaven over here, I am reminded of a story. It is an old story and you probably have heard of it before. The two fellows were in quite a disagreement and one fellow finally got real mad and he said, "I will tell you what I am going to do I will take you into district court.' The other fellow said 'I will follow you there'. The first fellow said 'If I lose there I will take you into the Supreme Court'. The other fellow said 'I will follow you there'. The first fellow then said 'If I lose there I will take you into Hell', and the other fellow said, 'Well, my attorney will follow you there.'

All joking aside, Roy, I think I express the feeling of all on both sides of the aisle, if I may use that term, have greatly appreciated your work here. After all there is such a thing as having too much harmony for the good of the state, and when you have an energetic minority floor leader that gets on his feet and objects at times—maybe a few of us like Art here, may wonder about that objection but it is a good thing to have objections. Sometimes we have too much harmony and the people as a whole suffer.

Roy, I know you are going to go on to bigger and better things wherever you go, and I know that whatever you do, your services will never be more appreciated than they have been by all of us here in the legislature in this session, so it is with a great deal of pleasure that I present these tokens of our esteem to you."

Rep. Wolf of McIntosh-Logan: "Thank you, Rep. Beede. We will now have a few remarks in acceptance from the floor leader of the ROC, Rep. Roy Holand."

Rep. Holand: "Mr. Chairman and members of the House: It is a very pleasant occasion when we come to the closing of the session, and to have these very complimentary remarks made to one and the work of his group. After the statements made about my extended speeches on the floor of the House, I do not think it would be proper for me to make any lengthy talk at this time. But I would like to say it has been a pleasure to work with you people. Having served as majority leader rather spoiled me for working with a minority. I wish it had been the other way around—then I could have enjoyed being majority floor leader more. I was often reminded of the boy trying to shoot squirrels with just a slingshot—we were not able to kill many squirrels but we gave them some awful scares at time. Although we didn't have the votes to put over some of the measures, judging from events, we have made rather substantial progress in the last couple of days—or so we thought.

Serving in the legislature is one of the finest experiences that one can ever have. It brings you into contact with representatives from all parts of the state, many of whom you would not have had the opportunity to know unless one had occasion to serve with them in the legislature, and while we may differ in opinions I am sure back of it all there was the desire to do what was best for the people of the State of North Dakota.

In some ways we have not realized many of our expectations, and things that we hoped for from this session of the legislature but we have done much that is worth while and many fine things. Perhaps some of us were too much hopeful for the future of our state and sometimes we fail to remember that real progress comes gradually, rather than in large measures, and in many ways we can go home and face our people and say that we have done many good things for the state of North Dakota.

I want to thank you all for your part in making these gifts available to us—thank you very much.”

Rep. Wolf of Mc-Intosh-Logan: “Thank you, Rep. Holand, for your acceptance speech. Last but not least I am going to call on Rep. Gefreh to make the presentation speech to our Speaker, Walter Bubel. Rep Gefreh.”

Rep. Gefreh: “Mr. Chairman, Members of the House of this 33rd Legislative Assembly. We have come to the point where we express our sincere appreciation for having had you, Mr. Bubel, as our presiding officers and to thank you for the fair, impartial and equitable manner in which you have conducted all of these proceedings. As a freshman representative I feel greatly honored for having been selected to accord this recognition of our appreciation to you. So in behalf of all the members it gives me great pleasure to present to you this token of our appreciation.

Rep. Wolf of McIntosh-Logan: “Thank you, Rep. Gefreh. Now we will have a few words of acceptance from our Speaker, Walter Bubel.”

Speaker Bubel: “Mr. Wolf, Members and Friends: To tell you the truth, this is about the time that I dreaded to see come in this legislature when I first started out as Speaker. And in more than one way. A fellow can't always find words to express himself anyway, and in another way I think I am going to say 'Farewell'. When I first came to the legislature in 1937 I got a job as bill clerk. Some of the members of the House at that time are still here—Mr. Fitch and Mr. Levin. All the members accorded me swell treatment. I sat at that desk over there and did the best I could. I didn't know much about our legislative procedure but Mrs. Minnie Craig was the Chief Clerk and I could always ask her. I am sure some of the members must have got out of patience with me because I didn't know how to conduct the work and would keep asking questions on how to do it. They were all pretty fair to me and I got through. When I came back in 1939 they said, "Sure you can have your old job back". I felt quite grateful. They treated me swell that year. Then the fellows back home decided I should come back as a member. I came as a member in 1941 and I got through all right. Somebody talked me into sticking my name on an oil bill and Mr. Saumur said, "I know Dr. Laird. He is OK and this oil bill is OK." I said, "What are we going to say when the people ask us something about it?" He said, "This oil bill is OK. When they got oil in Oklahoma, they had no oil bill. When they hit oil in Texas, they had no oil bill and they wasted lots of their oil. If they ever strike oil in North Dakota, we will have a law to prevent that." So along with Mr. Rohde and Mr. Meiland and Mr. Saumur, I went on the bill and now they say it was a great thing to foresee the future. But it was mostly luck. We had a couple more legislative sessions and in 1947 the fellows picked on me as floor leader. I got through that all right. I was with the minority faction at that time. They treated me pretty well and I appreciated it very much. In '49 I happened to be the majority floor leader that time and I must say the ROC minority faction gave me swell treatment and didn't give me too rough a time. Then in 1951, we happened to be in the minority then and I had the honor of serving as minority floor leader and they treated me swell that time. Then we come to this session and North Dakota politics being as they are, queer circumstances arise some time and I happened to be elected as Speaker of what we now call the 'minority' faction. And as such I believe I am one of the first speakers to appoint most of the chairmen from men that voted against me. I don't think you will find that very often. I am satisfied that each and every one gave me swell cooperation and I certainly appreciate from the bottom of my heart that you did that.

When I took the speakership I knew that I had a tremendous job to fulfill because you know we have had some wonderful speakers in the six sessions that I have been here. We have three here tonight—Mr. Beede served in '43; Mr. Levin served in '49, and Mr. Sticka was my immediate predecessor. They were all tops and when you sit in the chair and try to fill the shoes of those men it is hard. I thought I would have a lot of trouble and maybe I got through all right, but if I did, it is because of you people not putting me on the spot and giving me the cooperation you did. To Mr. Holand and to Mr. Haugen, the floor leaders of the minority and the majority, and to the rest of the minority party for the swell treatment that you accorded me, and the majority faction, too, and all the chairmen and I want to express my sincere thanks. To Mr. Holand and Mr. Haugen especially for the cooperation they gave me in making this session the success that it was, and to each and every one I want to give my sincere thanks for the kind expressions of sympathy you gave me during my recent bereavement and the courtesy you have shown to Mrs. Bubel and myself. And I want to say as I said in the beginning, 'this is farewell for me'. I do not expect to be a member of the legislature next time as I don't think I will live back in my district when the next legislature rolls around but if that happens I want to come back and visit with you. I thank you."

Rep. Wolf of McIntosh-Logan: "Thank you, Mr. Bubel.

Now I would suggest that the members who have made the presentation escort the floor leaders."

Speaker Bubel: "Just a minute. I am a little confused. I forgot to thank you for this gift."

Rep. Wolf of McIntosh-Logan: "We took that for granted. Again I want to suggest that the House members that made the presentation escort their colleagues to their respective seats and also Rep. Bubel will come up here along beside me."

Rep. Sailer: "I would like to make a statement as a point of information to the House and to the Speaker. The Committee in charge of this got functioning a little bit late. We were unable to secure the watch we felt was appropriate to present to the Speaker. It was necessary that it be especially ordered and it didn't arrive until yesterday. It is customary that engraving be placed on the watch but it was too late to have that done so Mr. Bubel, after the people have had the opportunity of seeing it, you can return it to the jeweler for the engraving.

I now move that the special order of business be dispensed with."

The motion of Rep. Sailer passed.
