Assuming an annual salary for the department director in the $15,000 - $20,000 range and incidental administrative costs of approximately $10,000, Senate Bill No. 409 would initially require approximately an additional $50,000 for the biennium. However, a 1967 LRC study of a consolidated department of natural resources indicated that considerable cost saving would eventually result from a consolidated department, perhaps as much as ten percent of present appropriations for the several agencies involved.
