Narrative:

This bill creates a state Gaming Commission whose members would be appointed by the Governor. The amendments to Engrossed Senate Bill No. 2065: 1) remove the licensing function from the Gaming Commission's responsibility; 2) remove the requirement for an executive director; and 3) change the appointment term of the commissioners to three years instead of five years.

The Gaming Commission would have the responsibility to develop policy and adopt administrative rules governing charitable games of chance.

The general fund fiscal effect, a negative $20,000, relates to compensation, meals, lodging, and mileage reimbursement for commission members for participating in meetings, public hearings, conferences, and training sessions. The Gaming Commission would have no employees, office or equipment. However, the Commission would share existing staff of the Attorney General's Office.
