

Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee,

Please support the resolution to save the wild horses in Theodore Roosevelt National Park and do not allow them to be removed. They (and other wildlife) are one of the main reasons people visit TRNP. A friend of mine did a cross country trip this past year and explicitly went to TRNP to see the wildlife there. He highly recommended it, and by all the pictures I saw, it was incredible. However, if wild horses are going to be removed from the park, I'd rather go to another national park, where the animals are free to be themselves and I can watch them. Visiting a national park where animals have been removed takes the magic and nature out of it.

Wild horses have been there for years and years. They are a part of the park; without them, the iconic herds we all want a glimpse of won't be there, ruining the nature of the park.

Please let the horses stay on TRNP.

Thank you,
