POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

REP. J. OLSON rose on a point of personal privilege.

REMARKS OF REPRESENTATIVE J. OLSON

MR. SPEAKER: Mr Speaker and members of the assembly, it is my pleasure to introduce the Commanding officer of the USS North Dakota, Commander Trey Kennard.

Commander Kennard graduated from Georgia Institute of Technology and was commissioned through Navy ROTC in 2006. He also holds a master's degree from the Naval Postgraduate School.

In Commander Kennard's distinguished naval career, his shipboard assignments included the USS Georgia, the USS Norfolk, USS Virginia, and he is now the commanding officer of the USS North Dakota, a Virginia class Nuclear-powered attack submarine, the second warship to hold this name.

Commander Kennard and his wife Heather have five children: Ellie, Logan, Oliver, Vivienne, and Arthur.

MOTION

REP. BOSCH MOVED that a committee of two be appointed to escort Commander Trey Kennard to the podium, which motion prevailed on a voice vote.

SPEAKER WEISZ APPOINTED Reps. Pyle and Marschall to the Escort Committee.

REMARKS OF COMMANDER TREY KENNARD
Commanding Officer, USS North Dakota (SSN-784)

Mr. Speaker and Members of the North Dakota House, I am Commander Trey Kennard, and as the fifth commanding officer of USS NORTH DAKOTA, the 11th Virginia Class Fast Attack Submarine, I want to express my gratitude from my wardroom, chief's quarters, crew, and our families for having us here today to give you an update on how our ship is doing.

I say OUR ship because every time I speak to a North Dakotan, especially our commissioning committee, the Navy League, or our ship's sponsor, the first question is always "How is OUR boat doing?" When I had the opportunity this past summer to attend Navy Week in Fargo with several crew members, we felt that same love and ownership - a key tenet of being a Submariner - from everyone we met. It is clear to me that the State loves our boat, and it makes us feel like a part of the State as a crew. The support that pours into our boat from our namesake state is the best I have ever seen.

Before I get started on the update, I would like to recognize the two Reapers I brought with me to Bismarck. Sonar Technician Submarines Second Class, qualified in Submarines, Gabriel Andraderuiz is my First Lieutenant. His primary role is to make the boat feel like home for each and every crew member, and to keep her looking her best anytime we are in port. From custom seat covers, to each persons' rack curtains, to keeping our paint job fresh and new, he is intimately involved in the finishing touches to give the boat a unique flare and feel. I also have Lieutenant Jack Rinehart, currently the Assistant Engineer Officer, but having had nearly every division or assistant department head job throughout his nearly three year tour. He earned the Junior Officer of the Year award for our boat this year, and will be rotating to Yokosuka, Japan this summer for shore duty.

For me, our boat held a special place in my heart from the first time I stepped on board in November of 2015 as the third Engineer Officer. As soon as I saw the opportunity to come back, I jumped on the phone with the Detailers to volunteer and take our boat into her first major maintenance availability since 2017. After three deployments and six years operational, NORTH DAKOTA changed homeports to Portsmouth Naval Shipyard in Kittery, Maine for a nearly three year maintenance period.

During this maintenance period, the boat is receiving much needed repairs, executing periodic inspections, and upgrading to the latest technology from bow to stern. Overall, the availability cost is over $475 Million, with over 440,000 human-days of work. When the availability is complete, the boat will be the most lethal platform to sail the seas. Our crew continues to hone their skills as Apex Predators - performing rigorous training, supporting several deployments on other boats, and challenging qualifications to be war-ready as soon as we leave the shipyard.

The hard work and dedication from our crew, as well as the phenomenal teaming of our project team, is maintaining the boat on track for an on time delivery, meeting a Chief of Naval Operations top priority to ensure we have maximum readiness to face our adversaries head on with overwhelming force. The tenacious and flexible nature of the entire team ensure we are ready to execute all repairs, upgrades, and retests on time or ahead of schedule. Upon completion of the availability, scheduled for spring of 2026, we will be changing homeports yet again, to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii - which may lend itself to more favorable weather conditions for visits and tours.

In addition to the demanding maintenance, training, and qualification workloads, our crew continues their service to the local community, especially our sponsor town of York, Maine. Dozens of Sailors have served thousands of service hours, from town park clean ups, habitat for humanity builds, to speaking with local schools. The Reaper crest is welcome everywhere we go and the local support aids in keeping morale high.

What drove me back to our boat was the phenomenal culture I was a part of my first time, and the hope that it still existed. I can proudly say that in my 17 months in command so far, the ship has continuously improved and is the best I have ever served with in my nearly 19 years of service. What sets us apart from other boats I served on was best captured by Coach Polasek after the Bison won their National Championship this year - It's the Buy-In. While he was speaking about the fact his players stuck with the program, it has an amazing parallel to why we remain successful in the shipyard environment. The daily grind of working major maintenance jobs, standing overnight duty every four days at best, qualifying, attending training, and making time for yourself and family is often more draining than being on deployment. But day in and day out, our crew does just that, and they are doing amazing. I will also admit here that I took another piece of the Bison pride back to the boat after my visit to Fargo, and that was the team motto "Own The Culture" emblazoned on their team shirts. These two seemingly simple, yet direct statements, perfectly sum up what we have on board.

Our crew continues to receive outside recognition for their dedication in Achieving Excellence. In 2023, as the most junior boat in Submarine Squadron TWO, our crew earned the 2023 Engineering Red E, Weapons White W, and Personnel White P for excellence in core areas of execution, and most recently, earned the 2024 Submarine Squadron TWO Battle E for Overall Excellence in execution across all boats in the Squadron - the third time our boat achieved this honor since commissioning. In addition to overall, the crew earned the Engineering Red E for a third consecutive year, Navigation Green and Red N, Electronic Warfare White E, and the Personnel White P for a second consecutive year.

As I complete my time with you today, I want to assure you that the resilient, dedicated, and capable crew of our boat will drive through this maintenance period and continue the legacy built from within to inherit the future of NORTH DAKOTA and our Nation's Navy. I am grateful for the opportunity to travel to Bismarck and speak with you today to provide an update on our boat and crew.

In final closing, I do require one piece of participation, and an opportunity for each of you to Own the Culture on board. At the end of each all hands event, and sometimes just to motivate, we recite the ship's motto - "Strength from the Soil, Reapers of the Deep!" For this exercise, I will call out "Strength from the Soil," and then request everyone else call out "Reapers of the Deep!" in reply.

Strength From the Soil!"

Reply] "Reapers of the Deep!"

REQUEST

REP. BOSCH REQUESTED that the remarks of Rep. J. Olson and Commander Trey Kennard be printed in the Journal, which request was granted.
