I write in support of a ban on NDAs and implementing a statewide data center moratorium which protects North Dakota's community transparency and local resources. Legislators should strictly prohibit public officials from signing secret non-disclosure agreements with developers and enact a temporary pause on new large-scale facility construction. Rapid data center growth strains local power grids and water supplies. Taking these steps ensures open government and careful oversight before further development moves forward.

Richard Long

Berlin, ND