

I am writing to express my strong support for continued funding of Prairie Public. The programs they provide enrich my life and offer valuable content that highlights North Dakota's culture, history, and current events. As a dedicated listener and contributor to Public Radio, I appreciate the high-quality programming they offer, but individual donations alone are not enough to sustain these vital services.

Prairie Public plays a crucial role in informing and connecting our community. I urge you to support its funding to ensure that it can continue serving North Dakota residents with educational, cultural, and locally focused programming.
