CITIZEN'S GUIDE TO RURAL LIVING

Introduction

It is important for you to know life in the country is different from life in the city. County governments are not able to provide the same level of service city governments provide. We are providing you with the following information to help you make an educated and informed decision about purchasing rural land because of those differences.

---

Access

The fact you can drive to your property does not necessarily guarantee you, your guests and emergency service vehicles can achieve the same level of access at all times. Please consider the following:

1. Emergency response times (i.e. sheriff, fire services, medical care, etc.) cannot be guaranteed. Under some extreme conditions, you may find emergency response is extremely slow and expensive. Some services are provided by volunteers who respond when paged.
2. If you gain access across property belonging to others there can be problems with the legal aspects of access. It is wise to obtain legal advice and understand easements may be necessary when these questions arise.
3. You can experience problems with the maintenance and cost of maintenance of your road. Mercer County maintains hundreds of miles of roads. The County is the sole authority on maintenance of roads and has discretion in deciding which roads are to be maintained and how. Roads are maintained pursuant to the Mercer County Road Policy. Attachment 1. There are public and private roads in Mercer County, some of which are not maintained by anyone. Make sure you know what type of maintenance to expect and who will provide the maintenance, which may be you.

4. If property is adjacent to a section line, the public has an easement to utilize that section line. There are no limitations on the number of people permitted to use the section lines, and they do not need your prior approval. You cannot restrict access to the section line without proper approval. You cannot make any changes nor can you add anything (i.e. fence, trees, structures, etc.) in the section line without proper approval.
5. Extreme weather conditions can destroy roads. It is wise to determine if your road was properly engineered and constructed.
6. Many large commercial, construction, or agricultural vehicles cannot navigate small, narrow roads. If you plan to build, be prudent. Check out the access available in consideration of the vehicles you expect will need access to the property.
7. School buses may travel only on maintained roads as determined by the school district. If the school bus will be coming to your home, it will be your responsibility to ensure there is enough room for the bus to turn around, without backing up, on your property. Ultimately, you may need to drive your children to the nearest school bus stop so they can get to school.

8. In extreme weather, even county maintained roads can become impassable. You may need a four-wheel drive vehicle to travel during these episodes, which can last for several days.
9. In subdivisions, snow removal is the responsibility of the homeowners. The homeowners should be prepared to work together to remove snow and/or hire a private contractor to remove snow.
10. Natural disasters, especially floods, destroy roads. Mercer County will repair and maintain county roads pursuant to the Mercer County Road Policy; however, subdivision roads are the responsibility of the subdivision. Rivers, drains and overland flooding can all wash out roads, bridges and culverts. Residents served by private roads and/or bridges have sustained large bills for repairs and/or reconstruction after floods.
  - a. Flooding can temporarily block access to your home for weeks.
  - b. Little can be done until the water recedes.
  - c. Confirm if your access has previously been blocked and if alternate accesses exist.
11. Unpaved roads generate dust. Unpaved roads are not always smooth. They are often slippery when wet. You will experience an increase in vehicle maintenance costs when you travel on rural roads regularly.
12. If your road is unpaved, it is highly unlikely that Mercer County will pave it in the foreseeable future. Check carefully with the Mercer County Highway Department when any statement is made by a seller or realtor of any property indicating unpaved roads will be paved!

13. Residential mail delivery may not be available to all areas of the County. Ask the postmaster to describe the system for your area. Standard parcel and overnight package delivery can be a problem for those who live in the country. Confer with service providers about your status. Newspaper delivery, similarly, is not always available to rural areas. Check with the newspaper of your choice before assuming you can get delivery.

Utility Services

Water, sewer, electric, telephone and other services may not be available or may not operate at urban standards. Repairs and installation can often take much longer than in towns and cities. Please review your options from the partial list below:

1. Telephone communications quality and options may differ from urban settings. It may be difficult to obtain another line for fax or computer modem uses without costly upgrades to the system. Also, there are areas where cellular phones will not work.
2. If sewer service is available to your property, it may be expensive to attach to the system. It may also be expensive to maintain the system you use. If sewer service is not available, you will need to use an approved individual sewage disposal system meeting Custer Public Health regulations.
  - a. The type of soil you have available for a drain field will be very important in determining the cost and function of your system.
  - b. Have existing systems checked by a reliable sanitation firm and ask for assistance from Custer Public Health.
  - c. On-site septic systems require continuing maintenance and have limited lifespan even with proper maintenance.

3. If you have access to a supply of treated domestic water, the tap fees can be expensive. You may also find your monthly cost of service can be high when compared to municipal systems.
4. If you do not have access to a supply of treated domestic water, you will have to locate an alternate supply. The most common method is use of a water well.
  - a. Permits for wells may be required by the State Water Commission and North Dakota Department of Health, and the cost for drilling and pumping can be considerable.
  - b. A permit does not guarantee water will be found.
  - c. The quality and quantity of well water can vary considerably from location to location and from season to season. We strongly advise you research this issue very carefully.
5. Not all wells can be used for watering lawns, landscaping, and/or livestock. Permits may restrict water use to that which is used inside of a home. If you have other needs, make certain that you have the proper approval before you invest. It may also be difficult to find enough water to provide for your needs even if you can secure the proper permit.
6. Electric service is not available to every area of Mercer County. It is important to determine the proximity of electrical power. It can be very expensive to extend power lines to remote areas. It is important to know the costs before making a decision to purchase a specific piece of property.
7. It may be necessary to cross property owned by others to extend electrical service to your property in the most cost efficient manner. It is important to make sure that the proper easements are in place to allow lines to be extended to your property.

8. Electrical power may not be available in two phase and three phase service configurations. If you have special power requirements, you need to know what type of service can be provided to your property.
9. If you purchase land planning to build at a future date, there is a possibility that electric lines (and other utilities) may not be adequate to accommodate you, if new connections have been made prior to your construction.
10. Power outages occur in outlying areas more frequently than in more developed areas. A loss of electric power can also interrupt your supply of water from a well. You may also lose food in freezers and refrigerators. Power outages can cause problems with computers as well. It is important to be able to survive for at least a week in severe cold with no utilities if you live in the country.
11. Trash removal can be much more expensive in rural areas than in a city. Your trash dumpster may be some distance from your home, if you even have one. It is good to know the cost for trash removal as you make the decision to move into the country. In some cases, your only option may be to haul your trash to the landfill yourself. Recycling is more difficult because of the distance to pick-up locations.

The Property

There are many issues affecting your property. It is important to research and consider these items before purchasing land and building your home.

1. Subdivision land is regulated by the County Planning and Zoning Commission. An approved and recorded plat is required prior to most subdivision of

- land. Contact the Land Use Administrator with questions.
2. Mercer County land use is managed through County or city zoning. Prior to subdividing or purchasing land to construct a home, consult with the Land Use Administrator to confirm proposed land use conforms to zoning regulations, including, but not limited to, compliance with setback requirements.
  3. Not all property can be built on. Ultimately, it is your responsibility to determine if a property is buildable and in compliance with all applicable building codes and ordinances.
  4. Consult with the Water Resource Board to confirm if your proposed construction plans meet their regulations and requirements.
  5. Improper construction of ditches and driveway culverts will result in standing water, mosquitoes, and costly bills to repair the problems. Consult with the County to confirm your construction will meet the minimum ditch grade requirements. Also, apply for ditch cleaning permits prior to starting work on any county ditch.
  6. Easements may require you to allow construction of roads, power lines, water lines, sewer lines, etc. across your land. There may be easements that are not of record. Check these issues carefully.
  7. You may be provided with a plat of your property. Do not assume the plat is accurate unless the land has been surveyed and pins placed by a licensed surveyor.
  8. Fences separating properties are often not aligned with the property lines. A survey of the land is the only way to confirm the location of your property lines.
  9. Many subdivisions have covenants limiting the use of property. It is important to obtain a copy of the covenants (or confirm none were established) and make sure that you can live within those rules.
    - a. NOTE: A lack of covenants may cause problems between neighbors. Covenants are contracts between property owners and cannot be enforced by Law Enforcement Officers, the County or other entities.
    - b. The presence of covenants does not always mean they can be easily enforced by land owners.
    - c. The lack of restrictive covenants can result in unappealing structure construction, the accumulation of vehicles and junk, and yard maintenance not to par with your standards.
  10. The type and number of animals allowed on property is often regulated by ordinance or by restrictive covenant.
    - a. Confirm if your land has the ability to have horses or other animals prior to purchase, even if you have no desire to raise animals.
    - b. If your property allows animals be aware of how this will affect your lifestyle, currently and in the future.
  11. Surrounding properties will probably not remain as they are indefinitely. Check with the proper planning and zoning authority to determine the current and planned zoning and to check what future developments may be in the planning stages.
    - a. The view from your property may change and what was once isolated rural country side can quickly change in a matter of a few years.
    - b. It is even possible your rural residence could become incorporated into a city much sooner than you would ever expect.

Mother Nature

Rural residents usually experience more problems when the elements and earth turn unfriendly. Here are some thoughts for you to consider:

1. The topography of the land can tell you where the water will go in the case of heavy precipitation or flooding. When property owners fill in low areas, they have found the water that previously drained through low areas now drains through their house.
2. Spring runoff and heavy precipitation can cause very small creeks to become major rivers. It may be necessary to use sandbags at that time to protect your home. The County is not obligated to provide sandbags, equipment or people to protect private property from flooding.
3. Areas of the country are highly vulnerable to flooding. Contact the appropriate agency prior to building or buying land, as even areas not near rivers can still be prone to overland flooding. Purchase flood insurance if your land is vulnerable to flooding.
4. Weak soil can result in bank failures near rivers. Drain fields and irrigation to these areas only compounds the problem. Expensive engineering, equipment and materials (beyond the means of the average homeowner) may only help to slow bank failures once it has started. It is highly recommended not to build permanent structures near river banks.
5. Rural residences are more prone to wind, and the dust, erosion and damage it can cause.
6. Rural residents and their mobility are more greatly affected by snow storms.

The Right to Farm

Mercer County has intensive agricultural operations within its boundaries. The rural areas of the County may seem open and spacious but they are intensively used for farming and ranching operations. People moving into a rural area must also recognize there are adjustments to be made regarding the availability and timeliness of services. In addition there are long standing agricultural practices that must be adhered to.

Agricultural users of the land cannot change their long-established agricultural practices to accommodate the relocation of urban residents into rural areas. Agricultural activities will generate off-site impacts. Some of these impacts include: noise, dust, lights from tractors and equipment, long hours during seeding and harvest, odors from cattle confinement, silage and manure. Smoke from burning ditch banks is routine in the spring. Flies and mosquitoes may also be present. The use of herbicides, pesticides and fertilizer in the fields are common. Ditches, ponds and reservoirs simply cannot be "moved out of the way" of residential development without threatening the efficient drainage of water from fields, which is essential to farm and ranch production.

In rural areas, children may be exposed to different hazards and risks than they would in an urban area. Farm and ranch equipment, ponds, lakes, ditches, electrical power for operations, high speed traffic, weeds, ranch dogs and livestock may present real threats to children. Monitoring children's activities is important, not only for their safety, but for the protection of the farmers' livelihoods. Parents and guardians must be responsible for their children.

In Conclusion

Although you pay property taxes to the County, the amount of tax collected does not cover the cost of the services provided to rural residents. Your property taxes not only cover services you rely on daily (e.g. roads), but also services you will rely on in emergency situations only, such as law enforcement, fire, and medical services. Additionally, property taxes must be applied to the administrative costs to ensure the County operates in the best manner possible for its residents. Generally, those living in municipalities subsidize the lifestyle of those who live in the country by making up the shortfall between the cost of services and the revenues received from rural dwellers.

This information is by no means complete. There are other issues you may encounter that we have overlooked and we encourage you to be vigilant in your duties to explore and examine those things that could cause your move to be less than you expected. We have offered these comments in the sincere hope that it can help you enjoy your decision to reside in the country. It is not our intent to dissuade you, but only to inform you.
