Minutes:

Representative Lois Delmore, District 43, introduced HB 1230. This bill levels the playing field and requires SESP (supplemental educational services providers) to be highly qualified in order to meet the requirements of the NCLB (No Child Left Behind) act. It does not prevent parents from hiring other tutors for their children. If SESP are paid with state or federal monies, they should be highly qualified.

Representative Haas: How many SESP are in the state right now.

Representative Delmore: I do not. I do know that in Grand Forks there are 4 or 5. I have heard from colleagues across the river that there are many non qualified people.

Representative Mueller: What are the SESP that you are referencing?

Representative Delmore: Those are the services provided to children who are not meeting the standards of NCLB. We have SESP that are private and parents are hiring them. These would be people to get those children up to snuff.

Representative Herbel: Are most of those providers highly qualified.

Representative Delmore: I am working with Laurie at DPI to get this determined. I would like everybody that is involved to be highly qualified. Some of them are, some of them aren't.

Representative Karls: Can you give us an example of what a SESP would do in a school?

Would that be special needs students or just students that are not meeting the standards?

What would be the ramifications in our rural areas where such things are not available?

Representative Delmore: It could be special needs. Basically, they would do tutoring services for children that are not meeting standards. We have many of those things that we run into in rural states like ND. One of the problems is who will provide the services. We have to find an alternative to do that. In 2010 they are looking at rewriting the NCLB act and there will be some changes. As a rural state we have pointed out some changes. It has not been easy, but we are making process.

Representative Haas: In an isolated area a SESP could be a single retired teacher who sets up a business.

Chairman Kelsch: If I as a parent hired a tutor, they would not have to be highly qualified.

Representative Delmore: That is correct.

Nancy Sand, NDEA, spoke in favor of the bill. Anyone who receives federal funding would be required to be highly qualified. I believe that is the difference. A parent can certainly invite anyone they so chose to tutor their children. This has to do with funding. This state requires a teaching license for anyone to teach children and it we think it is just as important to for the SESP's who also teach to have the same requirements.

Representative Johnson: Would that requirement be placed on teacher aides?

Sand: No. If we look at the language this refers to those who are teaching.

Chairman Kelsch: It does not include teacher aides. They would not be required to be highly qualified. This is aimed more at tutoring students. The intent is to identify those service providers that receive federal funds under NCLB.

Representative Haas: It might be helpful to recall our discussions on NCLB and that is if schools were not meeting AYP, there were two options. They could transfer to another school or they could receive supplemental services. In the rural areas in many cases there is no chance to transfer to another school.

Representative Herbel: When these service providers have highly qualified people in a specific area, does that mean students can go to that person for another subject. Does it specify the subject area?

Sand: I do not know the answer to that.

Representative Mueller: I heard earlier that this applies only to federal funds or is it saying any school funds?

Chairman Kelsch: It would be federal funds. All schools receive federal Title I funds.

Laurie Matzke, director of Title I, DPI, spoke in Opposition to HB 1230. (Testimony Attached.) I agree with the concept but believe it would be problematic to proceed when looking at the legal aspects. She provided copies of the federal law pertaining to Supplemental Educational Services Providers. It provides application criteria and does not require a license.

Vice Chairman Meier closed the hearing on HB 1230.

At a later time on the same day, Chairman Kelsch opened discussion on HB 1230 and asked the Committee's wishes.

Representative Hanson: If we pass this bill are we in violation of federal law?

Chairman Kelsch: The federal aid would be in jeopardy. We may be able to appeal to the US Dept of Ed for a waiver. The way you look at the NCLB act itself, we would be in conflict. In my conversation with Laurie as to why we would not want highly qualified teachers, she brings up the point that one person would have to be highly qualified in all the areas they tutor and in some of the rural areas that would be virtually impossible. In theory this sounds like a good idea. In practice, it probably is not possible.

Representative Hanson: Do substitutes have to be highly qualified?

Matzke: No they do not have to be. Long term substitutes is a very grey area and DPI is putting together some information for the schools. There is no such thing as a long term substitute.

Representative Haas: I like the process DPI has. It seems like a fairly rigorous process. I move Do Not Pass.

Representative Meier: I Second.

2007 TESTIMONY

HB 1230

TESTIMONY ON HB 1230
HOUSE EDUCATION COMMITTEE
January 16, 2007
By Laurie Matzke, Director of Title I
(701) 328-2284
Department of Public Instruction

Madam Chairperson and Members of the Education Committee:

My name is Laurie Matzke and I am the Director of Title I for the Department of Public Instruction. I am here to provide information regarding the supplemental services provision that is pertinent to House Bill 1230.

When the No Child Left Behind Act was signed into law on January 8, 2002, it established a new provision in the Title I law called "Supplemental Educational Services".

"Supplemental Educational Services" are additional academic instruction designed to increase the academic achievement of students who are attending Title I schools that have not made Adequate Yearly Progress for three or more consecutive years. These services must be provided outside the regular school day and must be specifically focused on increasing the academic achievement of students.

State Education Agencies are required to have an application and scoring process established for all entities seeking to be a supplemental services provider. North Dakota has an established process, which can be accessed at <http://www.dpi.state.nd.us/title1/targeted/general/supsvcs.shtm> on our Title I website. In an attempt to attract more applicants to become a supplemental services provider, North Dakota has an open application process. Any interested applicant may apply at any time. New applications are reviewed immediately and scored by three outside reviewers. Applicants that meet the established criteria are then immediately added to the State approved list of eligible supplemental services providers.

The federal guidance, law, and regulations specifically outline requirements for applicants interested in becoming an approved supplemental services provider. The "highly qualified teacher" requirements of Sections 1119 and 9101(23) of the ESEA do not apply to supplemental educational service providers. In addition, Section 200.47(b)(3) of the Title I regulations (34 C.F.R. 200.47(b)(3)) specifically prohibits an SEA from requiring a provider to hire only staff who meet these requirements. Please reference Attachment A for a copy of these Sections of the Title I guidance, law, and regulations.

The qualifications of instructional staff for a potential supplemental services provider are considered in the application and scoring process. Please reference Attachment B, which is an excerpt from the North Dakota application for supplemental services providers pertaining to the qualifications of staff.

The vast majority of North Dakota approved supplemental services providers use licensed staff; however, there are some on the list who may also use non-licensed staff. Please reference Attachment C for a summary of the staff qualifications for North Dakota approved supplemental services providers.

In conclusion, it is the position of the Department of Public Instruction that it would violate federal law and would put our federal funding in jeopardy if the State would require supplemental services providers to hire only licensed staff.

Madam Chairperson, this concludes my testimony. I would be happy to answer any questions the committee may have.

C-20. Are supplemental educational service providers governed by the teacher quality requirements of Sections 1119 and 9101(23)?

No. The “highly qualified teacher” requirements of Sections 1119 and 9101(23) of the ESEA do not apply to supplemental educational service providers.

C-21. May an SEA require that supplemental educational service providers meet the teacher quality provisions of Section 1119?

No. Section 200.47(b)(3) of the Title I regulations (34 C.F.R. 200.47(b)(3)) specifically prohibits an SEA from requiring a provider to hire only staff who meet these requirements.

C-22. May there be only one approved supplemental educational service provider in an LEA?

An SEA should strive to identify more than one supplemental educational service provider for each LEA. The inclusion of distance-learning providers is one way to expand the pool of providers. However, in a limited number of cases only a single provider might be available.

C-23. Often, large providers have multiple franchise operations that provide services. May an SEA require separate applications from franchises?

An SEA has discretion in determining how it will consider and approve providers with multiple operations. Although the same curriculum and instructional methods may be used by all franchises of a particular provider, an SEA may decide to require each franchise to apply separately. Alternatively, an SEA could choose to accept one application that would cover all the franchises.

C-24. Some after-school programs are housed in public school buildings. May such programs be supplemental educational service providers if the school in which they are housed has been identified as needing improvement, or is in corrective action or restructuring?

Programs that operate independently from the school and are not a part of the school’s regular program may become supplemental educational service providers if they meet the SEA’s criteria. The status of the school does not affect the eligibility of an independent entity housed in the school.
