There are 660 employees of the State of North Dakota that will have twenty years of service in the State by June of 1977. Assuming that a $100 distinguished service award was presented to each of these employees during the 1975-77 biennium the cost would be $66,000. This bill is silent regarding those employees that have less than twenty years of service and should be amended in order for state agencies to determine the value of distinguished service awards for those employees.
