PRESIDENT MYRDAL APPOINTED Sens. Christmann and Heitkamp to the escort committee.

REMARKS OF MISS NORTH DAKOTA, SONJA GEDDE

Good afternoon. My name is Sonja Gedde, and I am honored to stand before you today as Miss North Dakota 1998. I received this title last June at the Miss North Dakota Scholarship Pageant and went on to represent our state at the national Miss America pageant in September.

I am currently a sophomore at Concordia College, double majored in English education and communications, and my family resides in Fargo.

As Miss North Dakota, one of my main jobs is to spend my year of service traveling throughout our state presenting information on my platform issue to students in our schools. To date, I have spoken in over 60 school districts, and addressed over 15,000 students from around the state.

The platform issue I have chosen to address is that of teenage sexual postponement. It is my belief that this is an issue which saturates the lives of youth, and misinformation and misguidance have led many young people to gain information in the wrong way: through experience. We do not want our young people to let curiosity guide them through such life-altering decisions as whether or not to become sexually active. The price is too high - the consequences too many.

I encourage youth to look for friendship within their relationships, to consider the future in the moment, to develop a sense of integrity, a set of personal values, and a respect for themselves which allows them to say, "I am worth a good decision."

Today, I come to share the stories of these young people with you. I come to give you an inside look at our schools and our young people - a view that few will get the chance to see, but many should know about. Let me introduce you to some of the children I have met.

The story can start right here in our state capital city. Picture a local middle school - 5th, 6th, 7th graders roaming the halls with normal junior high activities in mind. When I think of this age, I see laughter, the excitement of going to a first school dance, or the fun in spending an afternoon at the mall.

But, on the day I visited this school, I saw more than this. I saw a young 5th grade girl that I would like you to meet.

She was young and pretty. But, she waddled up to me after my presentation, told me she was 7 months pregnant, and as an 11 year old girl, looked me square in the eye, and said, "You were right. I wish someone had told me sooner."

As clear as day I still remember that I could find no words for a moment or two - all I could do was to think, "This could be my little sister - she is still a child, but soon she will be a mother."

Another young man crossed my path in late November. After spending a few hours in the Bottineau school, I was gathering my materials to go home, when I felt a tap on my shoulder. Let me introduce you to him.

He was a 7th grader - a small-framed boy who was notorious for being the "lady's man of the class" - well, however much one can be a lady's man in 7th grade! When I greeted him, he looked at the floor - refusing to make eye contact, embarrassed and struggling to say whatever it was that was clearly occupying his mind. He started to cry.

Then he looked up and said, "Last year I did something with a girl, and I feel so bad about it. I don't know what to do." He proceeded to tell me that things had gotten out of hand in a hotel room at a church youth gathering. He was frightened to realize that what he had done was to have sex with her - he as a 6th grader at the time, and she as 5th grader. Now he was scared and embarrassed, and he had never had the ability to tell anyone about the incident until one year later when I met him.

Finally, meet a young girl from Williston. As a confused teenager in high school she had a hard time dealing with peer pressure and influence. She was successful, talented, and pretty though, and even became Miss Teen North Dakota 1997. However, by the time her reign came to an end, she gave up the crown from her head with a baby in her womb.

These are some of the young people I have met. Of course scattered throughout these terrible situations lie many bright and successful students making informed and responsible choices. However, it has never failed that in every town I visit, I am encountered with a situation just like any one of these. I am encountered with confused adolescents who want to make the right choice, but don't know what the right choice is, or how to execute it.

The problems surrounding premature sexual activity are not problems that only affect older teenagers in larger cities. From Fargo to Hebron and Grand Forks to Golden Valley, I have seen the same questions, concerns, and issues arise. The young people need education - not education which teaches them how to use a condom correctly, but rather, education which teaches them how to say no to a bad choice and yes to a future.

In the city of Williston, I was quoted a statistic this past summer that claimed almost 12 percent of the graduating class contained young women with babies. In Fargo, new programs for unwed teenage mothers have developed in the past year to cater to the ever-growing population. In Grand Forks, a freshman attending UND has struggled to gain the right to enter a sorority despite the fact that she had a school-age son.

But, pregnancy is not the only problem we face. I often tell young people that pregnancy should not be the biggest fear of a consequence regarding sexual activity. Why? Well, a person does not die from pregnancy, but a person does die from a sexually transmitted disease.

We may think that this is not an issue affecting life in North Dakota. However, when I met with our very own Department of Public Instruction, I was provided with the latest curriculum our state is producing in a campaign toward sexually transmitted disease education. If this was not a problem, then why is this the curriculum we have to set forth into our schools?

I am here today simply for one reason: to help you realize the power you have in determining the future of each child in this state. Not only are many of you parents who strongly believe in health-related education from the home, but as legislators you will set the standards for curriculum regarding issues like sexuality, you will bring the programs into our state which can teach values and choices, and you will go back to your districts and hometowns and be examples of what we need to teach our children.

What is more important than the future of every child in this state? As cliché as it may be, the youth are the leaders of tomorrow, and it will be myself and my peers who sit in these seats someday and consider the same issues you now consider.

I am 20 years old, and I have seen more pain and suffering in the past 8 months than I care to see for the rest of my life. I have seen kids half my age taking on roles that most adults could barely fathom, and it is all because of a lack of proper education and guidance in relation to sexual activity. This must become a priority.

It is my hope that as these issues arise within our communities, our schools, and our government, we can all work toward the common goal of keeping our children abstinent. I truly believe if we expect the best, we will receive the best, and I know this is what we all want for our sons, daughters, and our friends. Please continue to work in this area. The children of our state need you.

Thank you for your time, and best wishes for continued success in your work.

REMARKS OF SENATOR TOMAC

Madam President and members of the Senate. It is with great pride I rise to congratulate the Senior Class of Flasher High School for winning the state competition of the "We the People".

The "We the People" program is a six-week study of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. The students are then tested on their knowledge. The Senior Class of Flasher was the first-place winner and will represent North Dakota at the national competition in Washington, D.C., in early May. Century High School of Bismarck placed second, and LaMoure High School followed.

While I have marveled and applauded those of you who have stood and noted your basketball teams' wins, I believe that it is equally important to recognize the scholastic achievements of our students and schools. We can all be proud of the good job we do in North Dakota in education. The commitment of our teachers, administrators, and parents is very apparent.

On a side note, the Senate can take pride in a very small part of this. Of the 31 students who will go to Washington, D.C., seven have been pages of the day so far this session. It is through programs like this that we help our people learn the process and excel.
