REMARKS OF SHANNON RUSTAD, MISS RODEO NORTH DAKOTA 2001

Lt. Governor Dalrymple and distinguished members of the Senate:

Thank you so very much for allowing me this time to address you on behalf of the sport of rodeo and our western heritage. I am Shannon Rustad of Kindred. I am also from District 22 where we proudly claim Lt. Governor Dalrymple, Senate Majority Leader Gary Nelson, House Majority Leader Wes Belter, and Representative Bill Pietsch.

I am greatly honored to have earned the title of Miss Rodeo North Dakota 2001 because this not only makes me an ambassador for the thrill-packed sport of rodeo, but it also gives me a chance to tell people I meet around the country about my state of North Dakota and what it has to offer everyone.

I have had the opportunity to promote and be involved in 40 rodeos since the beginning of January. These rodeos have taken place in Colorado and South Dakota, as well as several in North Dakota. As I meet and greet people along the way, it gives me absolute pleasure to inform them in any way I can about the sport of rodeo and my state of North Dakota.

North Dakota has so much beauty that few people outside of our state actually know about, whether it is the Badlands and the historical home of Theodore Roosevelt or the vast lakes of Audubon and Sakakawea. We are also a state proud of our heritages and known for celebrating it--from the native American powwows known across the country to the Norsk Hostfest celebrating the Norwegian heritage of many North Dakotans. Our ranching and western way of life has always been a great part of our heritage as well. I am excited to see this realized and honored with the construction of the North Dakota Cowboy Hall of Fame, a center dedicated to honoring those who made a significant contribution to our state's western heritage.

This state has built its reputation around farming and ranching. We continue that time-honored tradition today by embracing new technology allowing us to produce the highest quality food in the world. This technology, combined with an entrepreneurial spirit of our people, has led to many new and exciting businesses like Dakota Growers Pasta in Carrington and the North American Bison Cooperative in New Rockford.

Those of us lucky enough to call North Dakota home enjoy a lifestyle that most would only dream about. We don't have to worry about the crime or congestion found elsewhere. Parents can feel safe letting their children visit the neighbors and can send them to school knowing they are getting a first-rate education, being taught by people who truly care. Children and adults as well can excel and have access to nationally known programs of higher learning in our state including law and medical schools, aviation, engineering, and agriculture. As a recent graduate of North Dakota State University, I feel proud of the education I received as a North Dakota resident. I am glad to see that the state is ensuring that a quality education will always be available by providing funding for our schools and the teachers who help shape our children's future. All of these factors have shown how North Dakotans have gone from traveling in covered wagons to traveling through cyberspace while never losing sight of our pride for this state.

I come from a truly proud, long line of North Dakotans going back to my great-great-grandfather who helped pioneer my hometown of Kindred, where I reside today and my great-grandmother, who as a single woman, homesteaded near what is now Granville, North Dakota. True grit is what they had then and what we still have today.

I was sorting through some old books of my great-grandmother one day when I came up a poem that was written more than 100 years ago by a native North Dakotan named John Broxmeyer. I believe that his pride in North Dakota says exactly what North Dakotans still feel today. His poem reads:

"North Dakota - Land of Plenty
Land of Enterprise and Hope;
With your rolling fields and prairies
Truly great in vast in scope;
Peaceful, fertile land of beauty
With your soil so full of zest;
Where the sun, landscapes, and people
Are at there ever smilin' best

North Dakota - Friendly state where
Folks greet you with a grin
Where one notes an upward, onward
Tilt on each Dakotan chin
Wondrous State, with untold wealth
Of oil, cattle, coal, and grain
Where one can work and rest or play
Without a bit o' strain;

North Dakota - Home o' health
Rich soil and plenty o' pluck;
Where we have learned to smile
At what some may call bad luck
Together, we've fought 'rust' and Hoppers
- We've known the need for rain
But shucks - since fields are green and lush,
We're all rarin' to go again;

North Dakota - State o' mine
May I remain in your embrace
And may I always as you've taught me,
Keep a smile upon my face
Then, when I'm at journey's end'
And my heart's forever still
May I be cradled in your soils
On the brow o' some friendly hill"

This poem reminds me that even though some people may leave North Dakota seeking life in a fast lane, the squeeze of concrete and asphalt will make them return to their native state for life in the vast lane.

Thank you again for the opportunity of addressing you today, and as I go on to represent my great state next November in Las Vegas at the Miss Rodeo America pageant, know that this North Dakotan will consider it truly an honor to call North Dakota home. Thank you.

MOTION

SEN. CHRISTMANN MOVED that the remarks of Shannon Rustad, Miss Rodeo North Dakota, be printed in the Journal, which motion prevailed.

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

SEN. TALLACKSON REQUESTED that his remarks be printed in the Journal, which request was granted.

REMARKS OF SENATOR TALLACKSON

Last week I, along with the Senator from District 14 and two House members, attended a meeting of the National Conference of Insurance Legislators. We spent Thursday, Friday, and Saturday in some very informative and interesting meetings.

The National Conference of Insurance Legislators represents about seventy-five percent of the state legislators in the United States. The organization fights for state control of insurance regulations, and resists federal control. NCOIL, as the organization is called, holds hearings on health insurance issues, along with workers' compensation, life, and casualty issues. Some of the subjects are privacy, viatical settlements of life insurance, re-insurance issues, and many other topics.

NCOIL has become a national advisor to Congress and the President. They work together, for good insurance policies, with the National Association of Insurance Commissioners. It is a very worthwhile association for promoting good insurance regulation.

One of the very interesting forums of the session was Friday afternoon, when the panel discussed re-insurance problems as they pertain to international issues. The panel consisted of two re-insurers from London, England, a college professor in business insurance, and a Lloyd's of London vice president. This panel was chaired by one of our North Dakota House members.

I want to thank the Senate for allowing us to represent you. Thank you, Mr. President.
