REMARKS OF ROSIE SAUVAGEAU, MISS NORTH DAKOTA 2012

Good morning! I'm so excited to be here and tell you a bit about my year as Miss North Dakota, my personal story, and an in depth look at my tour around North Dakota.

I am a Fargo native but I was born in Bryan, Texas. I was adopted at 9 weeks old and have lived in the Fargo area ever since. I have a younger brother, two years younger than myself, who is my parent's biological child and a younger sister who was also adopted from Texas, although my sister and I are not biologically related. So, within my immediate family there is a lot of diversity, being that my parents and my brother are caucasian and myself and my sister are African-American. In addition to that, my parents had a daycare when I was growing up that, at one point, had 5 children from 5 different countries, practicing 3 different religions. Not only was my immediate family diverse, but my home life and the daycare as well. Because of this, I learned a lot about different cultures, religions, backgrounds and how unique our differences can be.

When I arrived at my first day of kindergarten I was confused. Coming from a home life that was very diverse I walked into my first kindergarten class and noticed I was the only person of color but I understood if I could find an easy connector with people, a way to create an initial bond, I could cross over any barriers that might be in place because of physical differences.

Music has always been a huge part of my life. My mom is a music lover and made me listen to classical music as a child. She wouldn't let me watch very much television unless it was a show with music in it. We fell into this daily routine of her pushing my highchair up to the piano in our house and turning on Sesame Street, hoping and wishing that I would be interested or inspired by the piano and take an interest in music. One day that seemed like any other, my mother did this regular routine; but this day was different from the others. I started to play along with the Sesame Street theme song. My mom knew two things at this point: 1- her plan had worked, and 2 - I had an interest and a talent in music. I was two years old when this happened and my journey in music continued from there. I have been classically trained in piano, cello, organ, guitar, clarinet and accordion and actively stayed involved in choir, band, orchestra and theatre throughout high school in college.

When I was a senior in college a good friend of mine and former Miss North Dakota, Jacqueline Johnson, encouraged me to consider competing in the Miss North Dakota scholarship organization. I decided to compete and placed second runner-up the first year, first runner-up the second year, and this year was crowned Miss North Dakota in June. Since being crowned in June I've traveled over 10,000 miles and had the opportunity to speak and perform for over 25,000 people.

I've focused in on the topic of diversity. Diversity meaning simply a difference that we have - whether our skin is light or dark, whether we grew up on a farm or in the city, maybe we've lived in North Dakota our entire lives or maybe we've just moved here. Perhaps music is your connector, your common bond and your area of expertise, or maybe your area is art or sports, fishing or hunting. There are a lot of things we can find that make us unique and add to our diversity story, but these things are what make life interesting. Respecting these differences, keeping an open mind and trying to find a simple connector, an easy common bond, is a great way to start.

My easy connector is music. What is yours?
