REMARKS OF REPRESENTATIVE KELLY M. ARMSTRONG United States Congress

It is fun to be back in North Dakota and see so many friends. I'll start with saying we need to keep friends in eastern North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska in mind as they are going through flooding issues. Because of a lot of policy that has gone through both of these chambers in the past, we are better off and better prepared for flooding in the Red River Valley than we have been before. That doesn't discount the seriousness. Yesterday we toured the Heartview Rehab Clinic. It struck me deeply. That issue is near and dear to my heart. Legislation came through this chamber dealing with science-based addiction treatment. The human element is very important. For the first time they have the ability to give back to society. They have jobs, are getting their children out of foster care, and are breaking the cycle of addiction. We've finally gotten to a place where insurance covers addiction. Our first lady is an absolute advocate for changing the stigma when it comes to addiction, and working towards those types of issues. Government, when it works well, should be sound policy, should be narrowly tailored, and should be efficient. But it should also give people hope. The most liberal and the most conservative members of the body came together for a broad range of programs that have passed over several sessions. I know you are working with them now moving forward. Local law enforcement, under former Sheriff Heinert and former Police Chief Donlin, started a program where they are working to identify people for these programs instead of putting them in jails as a way to deal with detox on the weekend. It takes a long time in two-hour meetings before we get to any federal issues. The federal issues are Medicaid insurance, DEA restrictions on some of the drugs, and some block grant issues. But the reason I bring that up is because the work that gets done to solve those challenges doesn't get done at the federal level, it gets done in this room. The federal government is incapable of solving those issues. And one of the reasons is how we deliver addictive treatment in Dickinson is different than how we deliver it in Fargo. We can't possibly have a one size fits all solution. The last Congress did pass the First Step Act. They did pass the most significant opioid addiction legislation we have ever seen come through the federal government. The best job that I can do is to make sure that whatever those programs are they allow for the flexibility at the state and local levels. Today is Ag Day. Thank a farmer. We have several in this room. I thank you all a lot. We supply not only the state, region, country and world. We have the safest and most secure food in the history of the world. North Dakota is a big part of the reason the United States is one of the few countries that is both energy and food sufficient. Not only is that huge for the economy in North Dakota and across the country, but for the national security issue. We are better off when we deal with our resources here at the state level and not try and deal with it at the federal level. I'll tell you some of the interesting anecdotes. People are shocked when I tell them you have no staff, and no office and only meet every two years for eighty days. But you have a better handle on issues than 99.9 percent of the people who are in Washington, D.C. I have a tremendous staff. They are still getting to know me. I am getting used to letting smart people do their job and staying out of the way. There are so many people out there who get something handed to them and walk into a committee meeting. They read whatever they read and they get up and walk out of the committee meeting. Call me old fashioned, but I like to stay through the entire committee meeting and I try to ask questions based on what happens during the committee. That apparently is unique in Washington, D.C. I seem to think we do it pretty well here. Politics, more than ever, has become a spectator sport especially in a divided congress. Major legislation that passes the House isn't intended to become law. Legislation that passes the Senate is not intended to become law. It is essentially a skirmish line of talking points. We're working on bills, we're dealing with issues, we're voting on things that probably aren't going to pass the Senate. Talk to someone about how we do things in North Dakota and that a committee chairman can't put a bill in his desk. Literally the only power we have as a committee chairman in this body is when we schedule a hearing. Outside of that every one of you gets to vote at least once on a bill. As someone who has been in the minority for exactly two months, there are a lot of things I wish I could get the opportunity to vote on that I don't think I will, at least during the One-hundred-sixteenth Congress. Whether I have been blessed or cursed, I serve on the Judiciary Committee and the Oversight Committee. And just recently I got named to the Select Committee on the Climate. We get to deal with a lot of the big issues. One of the things that is a constant frustration in particular on these bills and on the more partisan bills – I'll use HRA which was the background check bill as an example. There is no interest in actually making the bill better. I'm pretty pro second amendment. I'm also pro rural America. We offered an amendment on these for ranching and farming exemptions and to clean up the language and take some adjectives out. That wasn't a partisan amendment. That was an amendment to say maybe we shouldn't federalize Game & Fish. All fifty states have different Game & Fish law. The bill wasn't getting amended. We will continue to talk about it because it is important. I co-sponsored a bill with Rep. Collins to go after and more actively enforce existing law. One of the issues you will see with gun violence and how we move forward is the communication between federal, state, and local law enforcements agencies in a timely manner with each other. We can do better at that. In events that happened across the country, there were so many times when police reports had been filed and nothing had been done. I'm pretty excited about work on food stamp reform. It is part of the farm bill, a really small section. I've advocated against reforms in this body that would affect kids and children. This particular one is a small subsection of the food stamps – single adults without dependents. This looks at how the federal government grants state waivers. It still gives states flexibility but tightens up the waivers at the federal government level. Rep. Peterson from Minnesota has reached out to our office about continuing to carry the baton on a rural export bill. He was working with Congressman Cramer and both Senators Heitkamp and Hoeven in the last congress. This allowed family farms and ag producers access and more resources when they are getting into the international trade. Smaller businesses have a harder time competing with larger businesses in those environments. We want to give them the resources to survive in that environment. Long after oil and gas is gone we are going to have agriculture all across the state. We'll have the big partisan fight when we need to. We'll have the bi-partisan conversation when we need to. Thank you to everyone in this room because what you do makes it so much easier for me to sell North Dakota, and sell local control in Washington, D.C. I appreciate everything you do and how hard you work. And that you can go back to your community and truly be a citizen legislator. If we would take more of this work ethic to Washington, D.C. it would be a much better place and we would be much better off as a country. Thank you all very much.

MOTION

REP. LOUSER MOVED that the remarks of U. S. Representative Kelly Armstrong be printed in the journal, which motion prevailed on a voice vote.

MOTION

REP. LOUSER MOVED that a committee of two be appointed to escort Commander Mark Robinson, Commanding Officer of the USS NORTH DAKOTA, to the podium, which motion prevailed on a voice vote.

THE SPEAKER APPOINTED Reps. D. Johnson and Eidson.

REMARKS OF COMMANDER MARK ROBINSON Commanding Officer, USS NORTH DAKOTA

MR. SPEAKER: And Members of the House of Representatives, from the Officers and Crew of the USS NORTH DAKOTA, the 11th Ship of the VIRGINIA Class, I say thank you. I am delighted to be here as their representative. It is my honor and privilege to report on the current status of your warship. Thank you for this incredible opportunity and experience. In 2017, USS NORTH DAKOTA finished a long shipyard period, test launched the first ever Tomahawk Cruise Missile from a Block 3 VIRGINIA Class submarine, and executed extensive Sea Trials, weapons testing, an Engineering Examination, and a Battle Readiness inspection. As they always have, your crew performed with exceptional results. On November 9, 2017, as I became the Commanding Officer, I immediately noticed what a great ship it was and noted the special bond between USS NORTH DAKOTA and the great State of North Dakota! In 2018, USS NORTH DAKOTA installed a Dry Deck Shelter, a special attachment that allows even greater support of divers and special operating forces. We completed a grueling series of workups and inspections to certify as ready for all submarine mission areas, including use of the Dry Deck Shelter, a first for any Virginia Class submarine. NORTH DAKOTA deployed this past July 31st to the European Command with 148 well trained, highly effective and extremely motivated warriors ready to protect our homeland. This deployment was unlike any other I had ever undertaken in its breadth and scope of operations as well as the relative inexperience of the crew itself. Over 80% of the crew were deploying for the very first time. We deployed for 184 days, of which 137 were in total communications blackout. We traveled 34,000 total miles. We went above the Arctic Circle, we visited ports in Norway and Scotland. We ate 4700 chocolate chip cookies, and spent 32 days without a clothes dryer. One thing I'm especially proud of - we certified 31 new sailors as Qualified in Submarines, a mark that means they have demonstrated expertise as undersea warriors, and that they now wear a pin on their uniforms with the time-honored dolphins. We did all of this while conducting multiple complex missions vital to National Security. It is with great pride and tremendous pleasure that I can report to you that your ship and our crew are the toughest, most capable, most highly motivated of any crew I have ever served with. They sacrificed time with family to be our underwater front line, and they came through in herculean efforts to stay on mission. As a NORTH DAKOTA family, we take care of each other. both on the ship and at home. While we were deployed, we welcomed the birth of 5 babies to our NORTH DAKOTA family. Our strength also comes from the strong support of our incredible namesake state of North Dakota. The people of North Dakota and the continuing involvement of your USS NORTH DAKOTA Committee show terrific and sustaining namesake state support that is second to none! Our motto, "Strength from the Soil, Reapers of the Deep," reflects the heritage of our namesake State of North Dakota. The crews lounging and eating areas are covered with cards from North Dakota school children, we adorn our ship with treasured gifts from the state, and when we stopped to enjoy the half way mark in our deployment, we did it with sunflower seeds and pretzels made in and donated to us by the state. Before I'd even taken command, I had received numerous e-mails asking how the people of North Dakota could send Christmas cookies to their ship, and when we returned from deployment, we drove past a huge sign welcoming us home, provided by the NORTH DAKOTA Commissioning Committee. Again, the support of this state is amazing. Your USS NORTH DAKOTA has earned high praise from our commanders in Europe for our work on our recent deployment. NORTH DAKOTA also earned the coveted Battle E awarded by our Squadron to the submarine most ready to execute the full range of combat operations. The award goes to their best ship, and they concluded that ship is your USS NORTH DAKOTA. Thank you for the honor you have given me today to appear before you to report to you on your ship.
