REMARKS OF UNITED STATES CONGRESSMAN KELLY ARMSTRONG

APRIL 6, 2021

Thank you all for everything you do. Thank you to Senate Majority Leader Wardner and Minority Leader Heckaman for the invite. I know it is that time of session where you are very busy, I know this more than most, so I will keep this brief.

This is where I consider home and I always will. When you run for election, you say a lot of things and I got very good advice from someone that said "don't promise things during your campaign you can't deliver".

One thing I ran on was that government is always better when it is closer to home. I can tell you after two plus years in D.C. there is nothing that has dissuaded me from that argument. I miss each and everyone of you. I know that this is the point of session where people are frustrated and there's contention, everyone loves this place Tuesday and hates it on Wednesday; but when good people run for the state Senate and state House, it really is something great.

It's part North Dakota, part mid-west, part rural heritage, is we go and advocate on things that are important to us, and this is something we need to do. One of things I try and do in D.C. is explain why the things that are important to us are important to them as well. It doesn't matter if you're a republican from New York or a Democrat from Northern California, the things we do and produce in north Dakota are important to them as well.

One thing I always tell high school seniors, is there has never been a point in history where we have had more information at the touch of our fingertips. But with that, politics is probably as divided since the Civil War. Rural areas are becoming more red, urban areas are becoming more blue, and we need to continue to talk to those we disagree with.

Whatever your deeply held political or personal conviction, 50% of the population disagrees with you. This doesn't mean the other half of the country is evil, they simply have different view points. We need to get back to the point where we can have those hard conversations.

One of the biggest threats we face as a state right now, is environmental policy, and not due to lack of wanting clean air and water. I know different people from different backgrounds across the state. The oil-guy in Western ND, with kids in school in Watford or Dickinson, they love to hunt and fish, they want clean air and water. We want clean air and clean water, we want to continue moving those things forward. But what we don't want is policy that is effectuated on emotion, more importantly policy that is effectuated on technology that doesn't exist yet. Far too often, we allow emotion to cloud these judgments and we don't actually talk about what is going on.

What is going on in a lot of cases is people are trying to outsource their guilt. What I mean by that is the world is going to burn more coal next year, whether we shut down every plant in North Dakota or not. Just equating our U.S. vehicle fleet from 1% to 10% electric, increase the amount of rare earth metals we need at a fold we don't produce anywhere in the world, North Dakota or the U.S. Has anyone ever been to a lithium mine in a developing country? How about a cobalt mine in the Democratic Republic of the Congo? Unfortunately things like human rights violations and environmental violations exist, but we cannot regulate based on fear, we need to regulate focused on the solution.

North Dakota Ag producers, North Dakota oil and gas companies, North Dakota Coal are all apart of that solution. We would rather have American companies who are beholden to American shareholders, with American values. As we move forward with talking about these policies, it is important to have that real conversation.

One thing Republicans were late to the game on is climate change. If you're under the age of 30, you rate climate change as a 1, 2 or 3 issue with high intensity. This is regardless of party affiliation or where you live in the world. People in Watford rate it almost the same as people in New Jersey. We need to be open and have these conversations, because this isn't a Democrat or Republican thing, this is a North Dakota way of Life.

When I grew up in Western ND, not many people stayed in state. Now, due to the tremendous resources that we have and are able to produce in ND, people have opportunities. People have the opportunity to have a career with mom or dad watching the kids, hospitals, baseball teams, communities and families; these resources have allowed us to cultivate the important things.

We feed the world here. As my former campaign manager always told me, it may be the hundredth time I say it, but the first time someone else hears it. One of my favorite things to do is explain how we are an economic power house. We are not a sleep fly-over state, we produce so many things the rest of the world needs!

And now we are talking about reopening after one of the most trying years we have seen. We want our small time diners to open, yes. But our economy doesn't work unless the world economy works. We produce so many things here we don't consume. We have a great robust and diverse economy, a wonderful tech sector, some of the best aviation technology ranging all across the state, we have Microsoft in Fargo and many more companies of all sizes across the state.

I want you all to know, each time I advocate for something here in North Dakota, it doesn't matter if you are a Democrat from Bismarck or a Republican from Beulah, one huge reason I can do that, is knowing you all are here. It is important to me we allow you to make as many decisions as possible. The difference between people who live in rural or urban areas, people are less interested in learning about the other. The best solution I can give is to keep the Federal government out of everything except what they actual have to touch and let North Dakota legislators and state government determine how to regulate those industries. Lets let ND people, industry and business do what they do best; Produce the things the rest of the world needs to survive. We will continue to do it!

I will end with this, I served for two years on the Judiciary Committee, which was one of the most toxic committees in the most toxic time in Congress. Now I have the opportunity to move to the Energy and Commerce Committee, which touches absolutely everything that is important to North Dakota.

Feel free to come visit me. Call, text, I can't do my job well, unless you do your job well. I appreciate when you weigh in on the things that are important to you because they are important to the state. I miss you all and appreciate everything you do. I wish more people told you that, because it is rough job and you do it well! Thank you.

MOTION

SEN. KLEIN MOVED that the remarks of U.S. Congressman Kelly Armstrong be printed in the journal, which motion prevailed.

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

SEN. LUICK rose on a point of personal privilege.

REMARKS OF SENATOR LUICK

MR. PRESIDENT: The North Dakota State College of Science concluded a historic season over the weekend, with a final 21-3 record. The Wildcats won the Region XIII Championship, the program's 11th Title under head coach Jane Passa.

While NDSCS lost in the NW Plains District Championship, the Wildcats still have much to celebrate! Sophomore Ally Gruber was named the Mon-Dak Conference Player of the Year. Fellow sophomores, Kortney Carney and Kaitlyn Emmil were also named members of the All-Region 13 Mon-Dak team.

Coach Jane Passa also won her 600th game last week, becoming just the 17th volleyball coach in NJCAA history to reach the mark. Each of those wins has come at NDSCS, where she also won 17 conference championship and has been to the NJCAA National Tournament 3 times including a National Runner-up finish in 2001.

Congrats to the Wildcats on their successful season!
