OATH OF OFFICE

SPEAKER WEISZ ADMINISTERED the Oath of Office to Rep. T. Brown from District 27.

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

REP. DAVIS rose on a point of personal privilege.

REMARKS OF REPRESENTATIVE DAVIS

MR. SPEAKER: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

While International Women's Day was officially recognized on March 8th, today we continue to honor its message and importance here in this chamber. Today, we pause to recognize why International Women's Day exists and why its message resonates around the globe. International Women's Day serves as an important reminder that recognizing and empowering women should be an ongoing commitment beyond a single day of acknowledgment.

International Women's Day is not simply a day of recognition; it's a call to action. It compels us to acknowledge the countless contributions women have made, often without acknowledgment, without recognition, and without equal compensation. It challenges us to confront the inequities that persist—in our workplaces, in our healthcare systems, and even right here, in our own legislature.

In our great state of North Dakota, women lead families, build communities, innovate in business, serve courageously in our military, and enrich our cultural and civic lives. Yet despite these remarkable contributions, North Dakota women still earn only 74 cents for every dollar earned by men. Indigenous women, women of color, mothers, and women with disabilities face even greater disparities and obstacles. These statistics are not merely numbers; they represent lives, dreams deferred, and untapped potential.

Today, let us commit to action:

- Let us commit to policies that promote equal pay and transparency.
- Let us invest in equitable healthcare and reproductive rights.
- Let us address and prevent gender-based violence.
- Let us empower single mothers and caregivers who sacrifice daily to keep our society running.

International Women's Day reminds us that the challenges women face are challenges we all must face together. When women thrive, families thrive. When families thrive, communities flourish. And when communities flourish, our entire state prospers.

The measure of our success as a legislature—and as a society—will be determined by how we uplift and support the women who are our mothers, daughters, sisters, and neighbors. Women have carried us through challenging times, from pandemics to economic downturns, from social upheaval to movements for justice and equality. It is our responsibility now to carry them forward, ensuring a future of fairness, dignity, and true equality.

As we reflect on this occasion, let us all commit to actions that strengthen opportunities for women across North Dakota, ensuring our state remains a place where everyone can succeed and contribute fully.

Miigwech, Thank You
