

MARRIAGE DEFINITION - IMPACTED SECTIONS

Several states have required the use of gender-neutral language when applying laws and regulations to same-sex couples. This memorandum is a compilation of North Dakota Century Code provisions that would require consideration for revision to gender-neutral language. The statutes listed in the chart provide the topic addressed in each impacted section as well as the wording used.

The District of Columbia, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont, and Washington include gender-neutral requirements in statute or allow for equal treatment of same-sex couples under other family laws, including the Uniform Parentage Act. These six states enacted same-sex marriage prior to the United States Supreme Court decision in June 2015. Several different options exist for alternative language, the most common being "individuals who are married to each other" and "spouse."
